Amist the confusion of navigating through a mass of bodies collected in hallways built over thirty years ago to house only 1,750 students, the frustration of overcrowded classes with too many desks to move around freely, and with the unexpected migration of friends to other local schools it is hard to figure out what it really means to be a student at Reed High School.

Years ago, things like colored halls and elective English classes used to make Reed stand out from other schools in thie district, though, that is no longer the case. How would you define the experience that nearly 500 seniors will be concuding this year, or that about 2,000 underclassmen are in the process of living? FUN IN THE SUN

Parties, BBQ's, and Beaches

Summer time is spent different ways by different people. Some may spend every moment of free time at an endless job saving up for that new car, or that must have swim suit they saw at the mall last week. Many take the opportunity to spend time with their closest friends and have a party. Others spend everyday soaking up the sun at Lake Tahoe, or riding the rides at the local water park. Then there are those who spend the summer playing their favorite sport, riding dirt bikes, or water skiing at the lake. The majority of students take advantage of all the free time and sleep well into the afternoon then watch countless reruns of their favorite sitcom. Then there is the luckiest of them all, the select few that spend the summer months traveling to beautiful beaches, national monuments, or even go on a simple camping trip with some of their closest friends. No matter what you do on your break, there is no denying summer is a fun and exciting time for everyone. All asked agree that some of the best high school memories are made during those well earned two and half months of summer vacation!

TIME TO KICK BACK AND UNWIND

Summer, Summer, Summer Fun!

Schools out for summer, schools out forever! Everyone in high school is more than familiar with the legendary anti school song mastered by Alice Cooper. Nothing seems to be more enjoyable than knowing of a 3 month vacation with no homework, no projects, or having to deal with dodging students in the hallways. Many venture places such as Mexico, Hawaii, or possibly a near by beach. Whichever chosen, "fun" or "good times" can explain a trip or outing of a high school student. When summer starts, every student and a handful of teachers think their summer will be long lasting and school is so far away, but everyone soon learns that it's so much to do, so little summer.

WHAT A GIRL WANTS

Fashion...the passion in every teen girl's heart

At Reed High, fashion is the unspoken cornerstone of everyday life. Everywhere you go, there's fashion. The most diverse fashion is girls' fashion because, on balance, girls tend to care more about what they look like than boys do, while they also tend to talk about what they're wearing while boys will talk about last night's game or the girls they met at it. The defining factor of girls' fashion versus boys' fashion is the attention to detail. Girls are well known for having an accessory of some form to accompany their ensemble, whether it be something as simple as a class ring or favorite watch or something as elaborate as a complete set of matching clothes, jewelry, shoes, a handbag and binders. The diversity of fashion shows off the diversity of school because there is no one "type" of fashion and there is no one "type" of person who attends Reed. The unique diversity of fashion helps to define a girl as an individual while simultaneously uniting every girl under one common factor...the concept of it.

KEEP IT REAL

Guys fashion: essentially laid back

Simplicity is key when describing guys' fashion. There's no handbags, no matching "accessories," just a shirt, pants, shoes and a sweatshirt or jacket of some sort. The essential point of guys' fashion boils down to the core of the boys themselves. Fashion is the ultimate form of self expression because you can tell so much about one single person just by what they're wearing. Whether you see a pair of Converse Chuck Taylor All Stars or an Abercrombie and Fitch tee shirt with matching button up collared shirt you can easily tell whether or not this person is meticulous about their appearance or if it's "all about the music" like Alex Ortiz quoted when asked about what guides his fashion sense. The importance of fashion overall is the fact that it defines the individual but it unites the school, especially when it's the school's fashion, directly from the renowned Student Store. Fashion shows people everything, it shows people their school spirit, their favorite band, or what they believe is the top fashion brand this year. Fashion surrounds us all!

WORKIN HARD

Need Money? Get a Job!

Cashiers, ice cream servers, and even roofers! Being in school is expensive. The majority of kids at Reed trudge off to work in order to pay for the newest little feature for their phones, or the hottest car part. Whether students like their jobs or not, the main mission is always the same, to make money. A job can also help with later careers. David Evans says "I work because it's experience for the automotive industry and I get to ship Porsche parts." Lots of companies employ high school kids, because they receive minimum wage, and most students will take the lower pay in hopes of receiving promotions or raises. The average student makes about $6-$8 per hour. Job locations may include department stores, restaurants or grocery stores. Phillip Barlow says, "I work because I need money for expensive hobbies." Trying to find a job can be a stressful and time consuming journey, but when it is all said and done, the effort proves worth it when you get your paycheck.

BLUE AND GOLD TSUNAMI

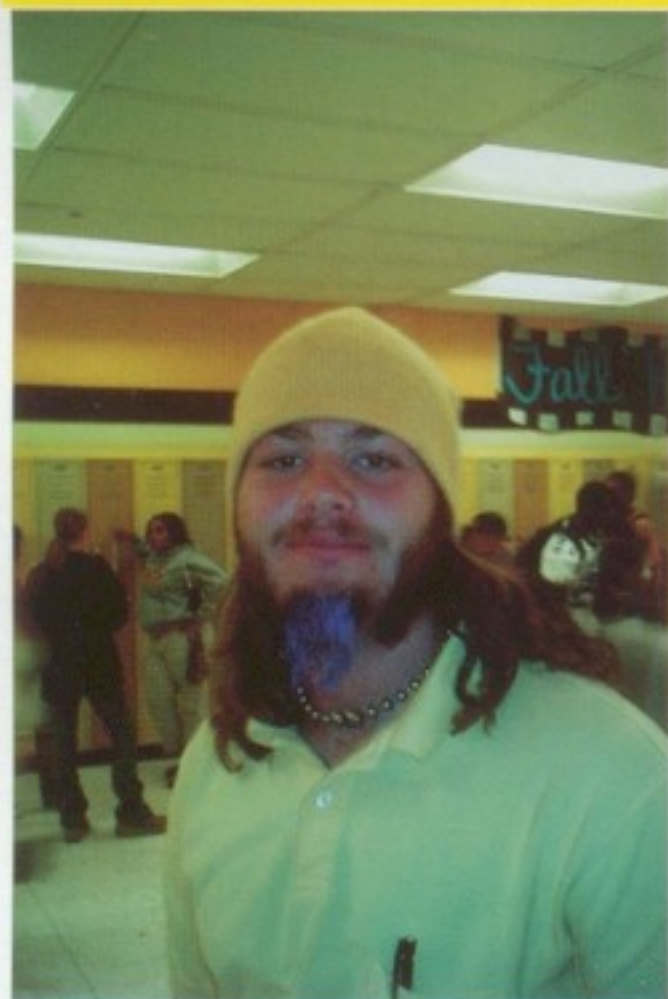

Get that school spirit.

GO RAIDERS

Ryan Barrett shows his spirit with an out dated seat cushion at the Regional game against Vegas, says the reason the school's spirit was so high was, "because our football team did so good this year."

What is school spirit? How do you define it? Wearing school colors, showing up for games, cheering for the team, basically, any form of support for your school. Tons of people showed their support for our school, whether it be wearing our colors during spirit week, screaming "Go Raiders" at games, or volunteering at school events. At football games, when one looks up and sees a sea of blue and gold, that's school spirit. At an assembly, seeing the crowd throwing their sunglasses onto the field, that's school spirit. One of the reasons people thought the spirits were so high was because, "Our football team went to zone." Says Monet Mateoni. Randy Ehrich agrees saying, "It was because of our great football team." Sean Sims thinks, "Now that sports are doing good, every one can come out and support." On the other hand, Ty Jensen says the reason the school was so spirited can be attributed to the fact that, "We've been more enthusiastic this year, we're trying to do better." Government teacher Mark Towell believes, "The leadership class has set a really great tone with really fun events and assemblies." However, Cameron Kelly links the rise in school to band. "The band brings the spirit!" Kelly said. School spirit lets students get involved and have fun while watching the games. Some choose to paint themselves blue and gold, others choose to wear the colors and even more choose to just show up and help the cause.

SPIRIT RALLY!!!!

That's what assemblies are all about, spirit

Cramped gym, no air, and a lot of yelling. When you hear these things, you know what it's describing... Assemblies. Overall, most students love the fast paced energy of assemblies which are nothing more than the no-holds-barred, in your face action animated from school spirit. These assemblies, put together by leadership class, always hold some new and exciting experience for the teachers and students to participate in. Whether it be a simple class bet, a friendly basketball shoot-out competition or a rather grotesque eating contest involving obscure food items or egg nog chugging contests, the activities are all about one thing getting students involved with their school and it's activities. Tons of the assemblies are geared around celebrating what makes Reed unique, from it's Homecoming assembly: Raiderwood, or it's traditional diversity assembly, which celebrates the different walks of life at Reed High School and what makes the individuals at Reed completely unique yet unites them in the common bonding fact that they are all Reed Raiders. Assemblies aren't just an excuse to shorten classes and walk into a cramped gym for an hour, they're one of the numerous ways we converge and celebrate ourselves, as individuals and as a school.

RAIDER PRIDE

We've got spirit so let's hear it!

This year, Reed's got more than enough to celebrate. With Varsity Football going to State Championships for the first time in 21 years, it's no wonder Raider Pride infects more students at Reed than ever before! School spirit is something that is truly Reed's own thing, c'mon think about it... how many other kids from rival high schools can say that they have Raider Pride? Exactly. Reed's done Spirit Week for years upon years in the past, yet ironically, for the first time, almost everyone at the school started to participate in it's activities. Leadership is the main fueling body of this week and truly put forward more effort than imaginable to make this week go off without a hitch. However, one sees that the work and support for this week comes from one thing, the true fire within that burns inside every student at our school: Reed High spirit. Without it, Spirit Week is nothing more than wasted energy for those who put it together, but it's not that... it's so much more. Spirit Week highlights include dress up days, rallies for worthy causes during lunch and after school but above all, the homecoming game -and traditional costume dance Saturday night. The theme this year, Raiderwood, explored the basics of pop culture at it's best. House of Mouse Monday (dress up like Disney characters), Parent Trap Tuesday (dress up like twins), Varsity Blues Wednesday (wear your favorite jersey / sports related clothing), True Colors Thursday (Class colors: freshmen: "Orange" County; sophomores: The Big "Green;" juniors "Gold" member and seniors: "Blue" Crush) and Remember the Raiders Friday (blue and gold day) complete this great week like icing on the Raider Pride cake.

Two different competitions in one night; each can only have one winner. Kim Maldonado was victorious that night. Raising her head high with pride and with every nerve under full control. The anticipation of awaiting for a single name to be called felt like an eternity for everyone there. But when her name was announced, she almost collapsed to the ground as if every happy emotion ran through her. A tear of pure excitement ran down her cheek as she was being crowned Queen. Later that night, something unforgettable had happened. The Raiders failed to close the cage on the cougars and we were defeated in a brutal fight to the end.

Everybody's cheers of happiness, soon turned to yelling and screaming in anger. The last point was scored, the last second had passed. As the buzz went off, the crowd all looked over at the score board only to find that the triumphant Raiders lost. The game ended and we got defeated by just one point. Throughout the week there were numerous competitions in between the classes. The infamous competition of homecoming week is the building of the floats. The winner was announced during the end of the first quarter; in which the Junior class came out victorious.

RAIDER ROYALTY

Assembling The Court

The crowning (no pun intended) moment of Homecoming Week is the coronation of the King and Queen at halftime of the game. Like every traditional Homecoming Royalty, the candidates are nominated by various clubs and the top five are put onto the final ballot. The Queen Candidates: Rashé Coleman, Kim Maldonado, Mandi Gunderson, Nouel Cason and Kalah O'Rear, escorted by Andrew Jones, Justin Dendary, Vincent Fusco, Walter Hinchmen and Alex Sherbondy respectively, were voted upon by their peers for the ultimate title, Fall Homecoming Queen. The ceremony begins with the traditional homecoming class parade float competition awards at the 1st quarter, then at halftime ROTC comes out and forms an aisle and the queens walk out under the aisle of swords to the awards location. There, once all five couples arrive and are lined up in front of the home audience, Judge Reed and the Reed Administration, the winner is crowned by Katie Smith, the 2003 Queen in place of Sarah Wilson, last year's queen. The night was wonderful experience for all and left a lasting memory.

SURVIVOR STYLE

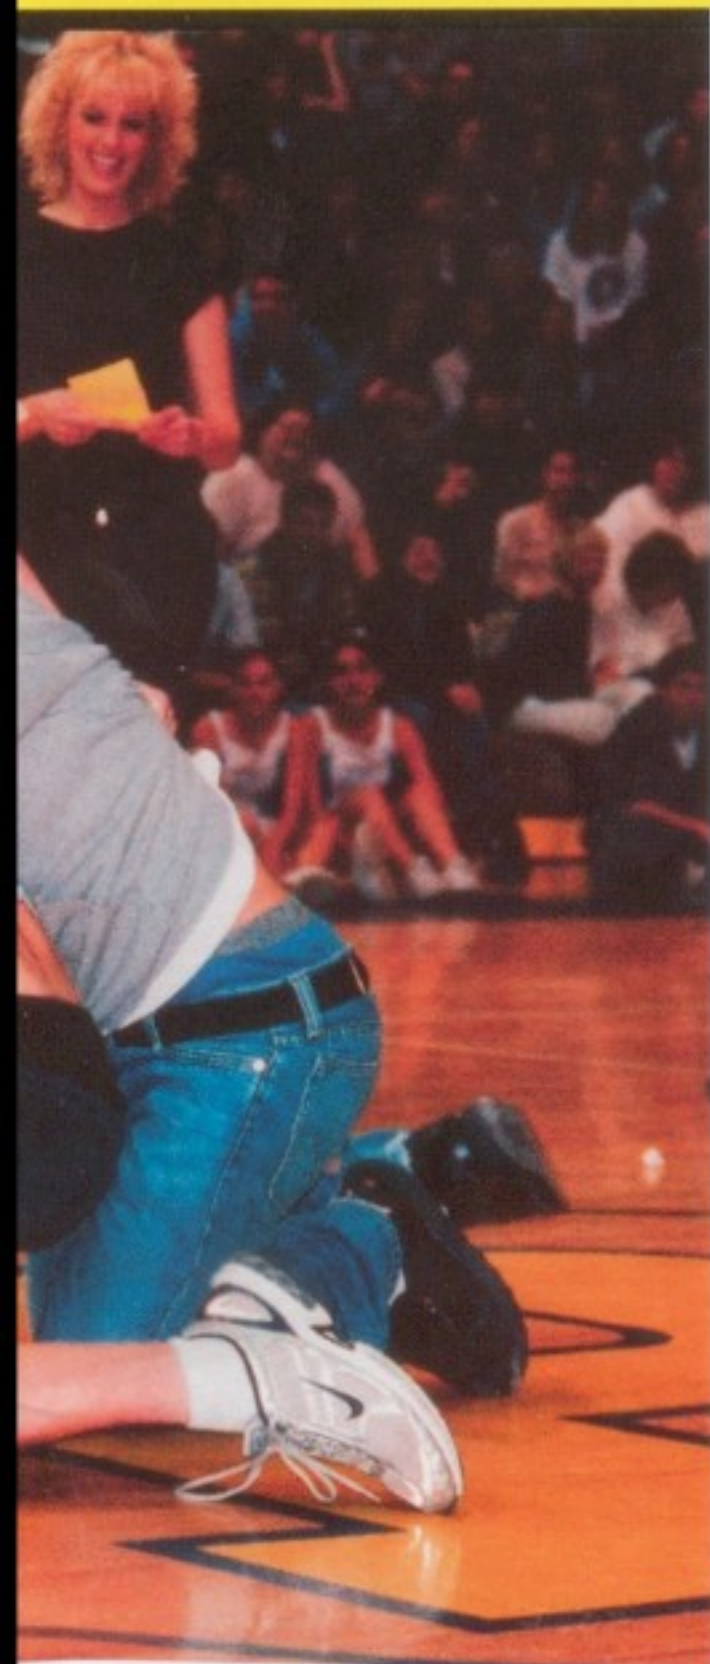

Bundle Up In Spirit!

From the first moment the face paint is opened to the final buzzer the boys Varsity Basketball team, the school sees blue and gold. The spirit week for winter homecoming is always an intensified version of fall homecoming and it's been proven yet again by the turn out rate of students that participate in its dress up days and its after school activities like the renowned second annual Mr. Raider competition. This years winner, Phillip Barlow, aka Mr. Cool, won over the hearts of everyone with his rendition of the dance from the uber hilarious movie Napoleon Dynamite, and his guitar solo "Eruption" by Van Halen, and "Crazy Train" by Ozzy Osbourne which held the entire audience captive and brought out the headbanger in even the most anti-rock students. The other competitors included Brad Hurn, Jon Mitchell, Walter Hinchman, Austin Miller, Alex Sherbondy, Skyler Nance, Jeff Weagel, Alexis Sanchez, and Kevin Wilfon. The talent portion ranged from dancing to drum solos, singing to harmonica playing, whose end result brought out the true school spirit for all those their in honest true blue respect for those who embarrassed themselves shamelessly to entertain there fellow Raiders. Overall, this weeks events filled the hearts of every student, staff member, and long time fan with that "fuzzy" feeling which lasts far beyond the end of this season, staying with them for years to come.

Mr. Raider 2005

"To be crowned Mr. Raider it felt pretty deep, I have gained friends by just being myself and I finally got to show some of my talents. I actually hadn't even come up with the idea of doing Mr. Raider with the Napoleon Dynamite dance, it was my friends (a.k.a the backup dancers). I think that Mr. Raider shows that we really do have a diverse school, you saw numerous talents and got to "taste each flavor" of Reed so to say."

BLOCKED

Brad Peterson looks around desperately for an opening in the game to keep the ball away from Damonte's tough defense. The boys worked really hard this year to win the game because of their desire to win.

Fans screaming, anticipation hanging in the air, all ingredients for a great basketball game, but this isn't just any basketball game, this one 's the Winter Homecoming Game. This game is cut out and isolated from the rest of the season because it's the one game whose work shows up in the games prior to and following it. The work and dedication shows up in it because of the desire to win, not because it's a game, but because it's the game that celebrates their school and the amount of spirit that the student body shows at each and every school event. This game stands out as a special game because not only did the Raiders triumph over the Damonte Ranch Mustangs and the Galena Grizzlies, but it also set the team up for their position in Regionals for another year. The Boys' Varsity Game held it's audience at the edge of their bleacher spots, each and every move of the players being critically watched for the smallest error, the majority of which were passed beyond the naked eye undetected due to these boys' abilities. The final shot, once scored brought the game up to another victory for the Raiders, beating the Mustangs (insert score). The Raiders came out on top all week in their events, all because of the spirit that each and every sports fan holds within their hearts, the dedication to their teams, regardless of their status as winners or losers.

NOTHING BUT NET

Left: Pointguard Sean Sims launches the ball across the court to make a basket against seemingly impossible odds. The game's score remained extremely close with the exceptions of small breaks in the score by two or three point shots.

SUPERFLY

Below: Alex Greenblat launches himself into the air for another famous shot while his Damonte Ranch opponent tries to prevent his score. The team's challenge this time around didn't involve their opponents, but their team's inner demons.

IN THE FAMILY

The Maldonado family is essential to Reed's Alumni, all of the family remains involved in the school sports and functions, so it's no wonder that Erica follows in the footsteps of her cousin Kim by being crowned Homecoming Queen. Erica and her king Jeff Weagel were crowned at the homecoming game where the Raiders beat the Mustangs in a close game which held each spectator captive in anticipation. The other candidates; Jessica Hooft, Chauncy McLaughlin, Sarah McDaniels and Mandi Gunderson, Michael Smith, Ryan Lammle, Zachary

May and Kevin Barry showed off their support for their fellow Raiders by hugging, shaking hands and giving off no feelings of resentment with nothing but pure respect for their royalty. Moments like these define Reed High School because it shows that students and staff possess the greatness to look beyond a title and a crown to congratulate each other in their accomplishments and support each other in their faults. The spirit of Reed seems deeper this year because of the intensity, but it's always been there, just beneath the surface, you just gotta "Reed" between the lines!

Somehow the Reed High Spanish club has managed to pick up plenty of dedicated members who love the language all of whom are also members of the school's Spanish program. These dedicated students work hard on all the events they host, such as the Cinco de Mayo celebration (which the club holds annually) and their traditional shindig for Dia de los Muertos, (the Spanish equivalent to the United States' Halloween.) From decorating the courtyard for Spanish Karaoke competitions to organizing special events, the club members of this unique organization put their all into each and everything that they do. The members work hard at selling items for fund raisers the proceeds of which take the club members places like Marine World and trips within the city to authentic Mexican Restaurants. All these cultural events broaden the members horizons through Spanish.

PAPER ART!

Origami folds its way into students hearts

Origami: the Ancient Japanese art form that uses a square piece of paper to make impressive, complicated objects such as cranes, and frogs through a series of intricate folds. The meticulous nature takes attention to detail, small errors can destroy an entire piece. If it's so difficult, why do students dedicate countless hours to it? Allison Stanfield does because "I can learn how to make different shapes and sizes of animals". Mr. Chan supervises it because it "provides a safe and secure environment for folding." The club itself however holds a deeper and more powerful message to convey; during World War II when the United States dropped one of the atomic bombs on Hiroshima, a young girl tried to fold 1,000 cranes because legend said it cures any ailment. She died before making all 1,000, but the tradition lives on; the club made 1,000 cranes to donate to Saint Mary's Hospital, their contribution bringing hope to the patients. A great club with a tremendous statement.

REED ROCKS

Climb as High as You can

Reed's Rock Climbing Club is one of the clubs in our school that participates more than people realize. You will always find these enthusiastic members at buildings with rock covered walls. These students learn by climbing and using their skills and knowledge to reach the top, a goal that doesn't just apply to rock climbing. They also learn to choose the best route to achieve their goals, whether it be getting to the top or safely repelling down the mountain. The one thing that every member of the club keeps on their mind is that the higher you climb the farther you descend. When these experienced climbers start their slow and rather nerve shaking descent, they're required to maintain a clear head and remember that their training has prepared them for anything they might possibly encounter, teaching them concentration and patience in the face of danger. Their dedication to this great sport teaches them to reach for the stars and never look back. Go Reed Rocks!

IT'S ALL ABOUT YELLOW HALL

Fun in History and English

There are two classes that you must take. One for three years and the other for all of the four years that are you are in high school. When you think of these classes the word fun does not usually pop up, but for a History class that word does come up. In Mr. McHenry's American Government class the students get a chance to become president of that class. Each Government class students get put in groups and each group choose a candidate to run for class president. In fifth period the candidates were Kellie Soule, Chris Richardson, Shannon Young, and Hunter George. They all were from different groups that had names like The Extreme Liberal Union, Kellie Soule's group. She enjoyed running for president. She said,

"It was freakin' sweet! Even though I lost!" They all lost against Hunter and his group, C.O.M.A. He said, "It was a cake walk... I won cause I am tuff... easy!" History might be easy for Hunter, but English might not be the same for other students because you read a lot novels, and do reports. It doesn't matter if you are a senior or a freshmen you still work hard in this class. "English isn't my favorite subject but thanks to Mr. Hadlock it has become enjoyable," said Justin Frontino. Grammar and journals are not the best things to do, but it can also be fun you just need to enjoy every moment that you have in both classes. English and History help students more than they know, and really will be needed once high school's done

IT'S ALL IN YOUR MIND

Math and Science rule Red Hall, and Right Brain activity

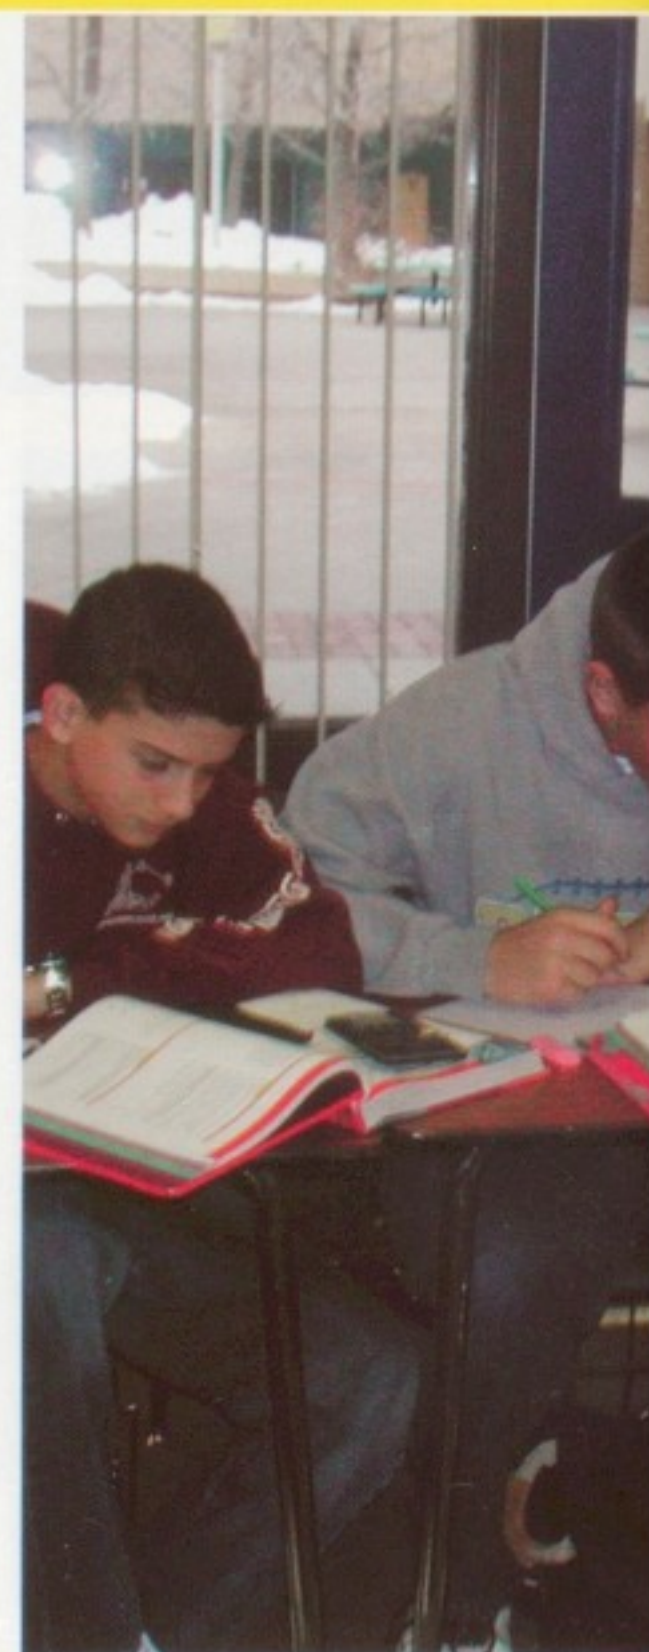

Whenever people think of math or science, they tend to cringe...but they're cringing in vain. Science and Math are cool, no questions asked. The majority of people don't realize that math and science will be in the remainder of their lives. Not exactly what you want to hear, but it's still the truth; so take this philosophy: when in Red Hall, do as the Right Brainers do! These classes are required to graduate and seem to be the "dreaded" classes, but to those who look beyond the geeky surface of lab goggles and read between the lines of logarithms and statistical equations see that it's not all for the brainy kids. These right brained activities are very fun and can be nothing short of beneficial to everyone's lives and everyone's careers as lifelong students.

The math and science departments define Reed High because, in the words of Megan Fitzgerald, a junior: "Science defines Reed because the teachers make you want to learn it, they don't have to break your arm to do it. They really seem to care about you and they really like to see you involved in something they obviously love, or else they wouldn't be teaching it." The teachers here care more for their students than the students themselves realize, that's what makes Reed's Red Hall classes so unique. They really make the "unbearable" things seem bearable and they dedicate their lives to teaching other students that which they love, they don't do it for the money, they do it to see the look in a student's face when they realize it's fun.

WORLDWIDE APPLICATION

Monolingualism is not an incurable disease!!!!!!

All studies conducted upon the matter agree, a foreign language helps students get a better grip on their education and makes vast improvements in their native language use as well. Lucky for us, the Reed Foreign Language department happens to teach four languages; Spanish, French, Japanese and English as a Second Language. The foreign language department houses 7 teachers and well over tenfold the amount of kids. With numbers like that, it is amazing that these teachers are able to pull off the lessons that they do. All the classes possess not only a basis in the language and it's fundamentals, the kids also get a crash course in the language's culture through innovative games, introductory movies and mind enthralling activities that immerse the kids into each culture and the idiosyncrasies that it possesses. These kids get to bring in sample food items from countries that speak their language, do projects to recognize the various holiday celebrations of each country; Cinco de Mayo and Dia de los Muertos in Spanish classes, Mardi Gras and Jour de St. Valentin in French classes and the Japanese New Year and the Cherry Blossom festival in Japanese classes. This department and it's classes define Reed because they bring in teachers with entirely different backgrounds and upbringings to teach about the lives and activities of other cultures. These classes also teach acceptance in diversity and the beauty of coming together under one common bond of language. The foreign language department works hard to make internationally accepted diplomatic citizens out of high school students and do so in such a manner that students actually have fun while learning. Understanding through language unites the divided, conquers the insurmountable and sees those who believe through the greatest obstacles promoting equality and peace, which all begins with a foreign language class.

GIVING A HELPING HAND

Reed Raiders Reading Together

Helping teachers and your fellow classmates is hard work, but someone's got to do it right? It takes confidence, friendliness, and a lot of patience. Not everyone is cut out to be a peer tutor or a teacher's aide, but those who are, do a great job! Peer tutoring and teacher's aides are great classes, that offer an opportunity to help out others and show other things that help them get through life a little easier. Sally Kelley (strategies in reading and writing teacher) has an awesome reading program. You can walk down yellow hall any time of the day and see one of Mrs. Kelley's aides or peer tutors helping a few students get through a book. "Strategies in Reading and Writing use tutors to assist students in improving their reading and spelling levels. Tutors work with students every-day. The results have been terrific." Sally Kelley While other teachers make their peer tutors/aides go make copies, or grade papers, Kelley's students are fortunate to have peer tutors/aides that enjoy helping them out with their class work, homework, or just getting through a book. These kids truly enjoy their work because, like most people, they enjoy helping people understand something that comes easily to them.

LEARN BY EXAMPLE

RKOM shows the freshmen a survival guide to Reed

Tutoring programs at other schools are similar to R-KOM, but they just don't possess the edge that Reed's does. In R-KOM's first year, it's produced nothing but positive things and good reactions from staff and students. The first day of freshman registration the juniors and seniors involved in this program willingly gave their time to help the little Raiders memorize the school in the first of many acts of selflessness. The majority of juniors and seniors in the program remember their freshman year, getting lost in the halls and getting detentions constantly because of it. This year, the amount of involvement from all classes in school activities demonstrates the necessity for such programs. Reed has always been dominant in producing programs that receive district-wide recognition, but R-KOM's idea came from Southern Nevada, where the programs in place improved classroom settings by decreasing tardies and discouraging bullying and plagiarism through interactive activities. One hears of this great program and wonders 'why do these kids give their time so willingly?' The answer is simple: these kids, once in this position, remember what it's like and don't want the new freshmen to endure the same confusion and torture that they endured. Leslie Anne Serra, a senior in this program said "They (Reed High) didn't have a program like this when I was their age and it would have been the biggest help to me. I got lost constantly the first month I was here and it really hurt me. If my sister had been here, (she graduated the year before) she would've helped... but there was no one... these kids are really lucky." R-KOM not only gets positive student feedback, but teacher feedback also. R-KOM advisors like Liz Knott say "it helps me in class to take away time from answering questions about the school and it's activities, I get to teach more and the kids still get the information they need." It looks like R-KOM will be a success here just like everywhere else.

The kids in yearbook grow to love each other when they realize how much they depend on each other eventually forming a family-like bond. Yearbook seems like an easy A yet it never is because of the work that is poured into every cropped picture, every typed story and every single Apple computer within the journalism department. Yearbook defines Reed High School in the ultimate way because the staff consists of the most culturally diverse individuals possible, but somehow they all come together to produce this great item before you... the year on pages.

LEADING THE MASSES

Leading with attitude, leading with character, leading with fun!

Planning, organizing, painting, hanging, and preparing are all things that the very busy and dedicated students may tend to do for Leadership. In their spare time they may be drawing fairy tale castles, or making a school survivor home video. Leadership is lead by Mrs. Young and Mrs. Fliner. Students from all grades join together to help construct a joyful display to the student body, while trying to involve everyone in the school activities. One must wonder how Leadership students brainstorm such entertaining games, or how they are able to come up with such creative ideas to spread school spirit throughout the school. Students who may not go to football games or wear school colors seem to get quite excited when news of a new Leadership theme is announced either by announcements, or by such colorful banners filling the halls of the school. Many hours have been spent numerous hours on planning. The school must applaud Leadership for their hard work and time spent.

WHO MAKES YOUR DECISIONS?

Do you really know who decides what your class will be doing?

While leadership gets the credit for most of the activities planned at Reed, there is another group hard at work, planning activities for the student body; each class has an elected president, vice president, treasure, secretary, and in some cases, a historian... these are the people who form Student Council.

Although the Student Council delegates the responsibility of dances to each class, there are other events that the Council plans and participates in as a whole. "Stuff the Bug" is one of the events they are responsible for that gains more publicity and really gives back to the community. Student Council asks the student body to donate new unwrapped toys during the holidays—turning it into a competition for each class to earn spirit points towards the next assembly. Once all the toys are gathered, they take them and fill the bug. The toys are then donated to kids in the Reno/Sparks area who are less fortunate, and might not have otherwise had gifts to unwrap on Christmas morning.

Student Council is open to anyone who wants to join; in addition to the elected officers, each class has representatives who help in the planning and organizing of each event; it's a great way to get involved with your classmates and your school.

LIFE LESSONS

The Industrial Arts teaches kids applicable skills.

When one hears the phrase "Industrial Arts" they probably assume that it means something completely different than it does. This phrase spans from A to Z, ok well to W but we're sure you get the meaning. From Auto to Wearable Arts, Foods to Woodworking, the Industrial Arts are things that the students can truly use and apply after high school. Of the majority, the students who take the foods class will use it's math and science more than those who take Trigonometry and Physics because of the practical application those classes teach kids. The Industrial Arts department also teaches kids the basics of building with Woodworking, the essentials of welding with Metals and of course, it offers many classes that involve cars, and car repair / maintenance like Auto I, II and Small Engine

Repair. These classes prepare kids for the real world by teaching them real world applications of the things the students learn in the classroom and when in the "labs" (the auto shop, the foods/ wearable arts rooms) These classes define Reed High School because while they teach lifelong applications of practical arts, they encourage the conglomeration of students to work together to achieve a common goal of building something with their hands and the appreciation that they feel when their job is complete and the feeling that you get when you know that bookshelf, that five course meal or that new car part became it's new creation through your work. The world of Industrial Arts is so broad that it can't be narrowed fully in words, but it can be simplified to one phrase, practical application.

NEVER TRUST DARK DEEDS

or A Tattooed Sailor at Swan's Place

Dark Deeds at Swan's Place or Never Trust a Tattooed Sailor is what the drama department produced. "I think the play was a big hit. Everyone put 120% into it so we can have an amazing experience" said Junior, Sarah Dutton, an actress in the play.

The director Sara Jones agrees with Sarah Dutton "The students put a lot of dedication in the play by memorizing that many lines and portraying their characters effectively."

The play allowed 28 people to act and 11 people volunteered to do crew.

While CJ Gent performed he thought "I love listening to the audience laughing especially when I am on stage making a fool of myself."

What the audience sees or in the directors words "Audience is like cattle" isn't nearly all of the work to make a successful play. It is what takes place backstage as well.

"The play in my opinion would have been better if we had our lighting system back instead of the tree lights; Which me and my light partner Justin Miller had to angle perfectly so you can see the actors faces." said the student Lighting Technician, Hailey Camino, a Sophomore.

The drama department placed a new lighting system in the theatre during Winter Break.

This isn't the only type of work the students put in Senior, Laura Gardner, Actress says "When we where in rehearsals it was sometimes frustrating when people call 'Line' because you may know there lines better."

Sara Jones says "When it is the same scene or spot when the students call 'Line' it is them being lazy."

These are just a few things to make a play possible but one thing the cast and crew both know is that they need each other.

MUSIC TO MY EARS

Flutes, Clarinets, Trombones OH MY!!

Every home football game begins with the sound of Reed High School's band playing the National Anthem. As the game continues, the band adds enthusiasm and energy to the crowd as they insert well orchestrated pieces to each play on the field; something rowdy and upbeat for a touchdown, a simple three horned pout in response to an unfair call, or just a fun diddy here and there to keep things lively.

To get ready for games and competitions the members of the band have to endure long and hard practices. They practiced after school from 3:00 p.m. until dark and did it all with a smile on their faces. They put their heart into every move, every note, every step, and every blow into the mouth of their instruments. They do everything the best that they can and it shows when they perform. You might think that just playing their instruments is the only thing that they do, but band is not just about that. They practice their positions in line, the music notes that they are to play and when they are to be played. The way that they are to step and play at the same time. It is not easy playing an instrument and stepping on the beat at the right time.

They have to be perfect on everything. They must play and step in different directions at the same time. They are also not allowed to look at their music book while they are performing in the games and in the concerts that they perform at. But at the end everything is worth it. They still get to have fun and make wonderful friends.

But this year the band had a unfortunate loss. Their band director, Doc, passed away in October. He had just retired the year before. He was a wonderful inspiration for every person in band and not only there, but also for the whole staff. The band still loves him and will miss him.

"The band was awesome!!!" said Adam Allen.

PLAY THAT NOTE!

Ready, Set, Play!

Some say that the greatest music comes from orchestra, renowned for their use of stringed instruments. "I am in orchestra because I love music and I want to learn everything I can about it," says Michelle Yee. When orchestra starts playing, their music is so beautiful that everyone falls in love one aspect, whether it be the beauty and movement of the piece along your ears like silk or the strength of the parts combined. String instruments are part of jazz, country, contemporary, as well as bluegrass. Some even consider the guitar as a stringed instrument. Concentration and dedication are essential to succeed in strumming musical masterpieces. Megan Fitzgerald, a bassist says, "Music has made my life and has always been a part of my life. I grew up playing music on the piano and the violin, then I started playing bass in the seventh grade and I always want music in my life, it has taken me places, seen me through the good times and the bad times, and sure there's been a few bumps in the road but it's always turned out to be for the better." For most of the students participating within the strings program, they have dedicated hours of practice already. It only seems right to acknowledge the student's hard work, dedication, skill, and hours spent reading music. "Props" seem to be in order for these outstanding students.

I love what I do even if there are some seasons that are crazy but I wouldn't have it any other way. It was my love for music that brought me to musical education. I had wonderful experiences myself as a high school student. We may still be developing but we've come a long way." John Lorentzon has selectively chosen musical pieces such as traditional choral literature to help his students develop their voices. Some more types of music studied are, folk, ethnic, as well as many choral pieces in foreign tongues. To give the students a change, they often delve into some popular music as well as Broadway/Show music. While John Lorentzon, may be an alto, soprano, or possibly both, he tries to keep in mind and assist all students with as many pointers as possible. It so happens that 90 students have decided to participate in either the beginner's or concert choir.

SING IT LOUD, SING IT PROUD

Intermezzo and Women's Choir Never Fail to Impress!

Intermezzo never fails to deliver an exciting and energetic performance whether it be on stage or in the choir room after school. Intermezzo isn't like anything you've seen before; full of fun, dancing, singing and uplifting spirits from every member, you're sure to thoroughly enjoy one of their performances. However, it takes a lot of time and effort; yet in the end it all pays off. Derrick Atkinson says, "The intensity and dedication for the final product is so great. We all are a big family." Intermezzo doesn't happen to be the only awesome singing group that Reed's renowned choral department holds, Women's Choir is filled with sophisticated and talented young women who're all dedicated and always willing to do their best at practice and performances. Their concerts are spectacular to hear, especially when the ladies' beautiful voices grace the auditorium. Lots of preparation is involved, but unlike most activities at Reed, singing can be practiced almost anywhere. These kids can practice and improve upon their lovely voices at nearly any given moment. Although the atmospheres of the two programs are very different, they're both dedicated, outgoing and talented people. When asked "What does it take to be in Intermezzo and Women's Choir?" Anne Lorentzen responded, "A lot of people don't realize it, but it does take so much dedication... We're like a family, if everyone puts their share into it, it's such a blast! I can't even describe it!" Intermezzo and Women's Choir Rule!

DROPPING BEATS HOTTER THAN THE SUN

Drumline is more than just pounding on a drum!

To a lot of people that go to Reed the phrase NCBA Championships means nothing, but for the few that saw last year's winter drum line show they'd know that Reeds drum line took champions down in California. With their award winning show, based off of The Matrix trilogy, Reed's drumline swept nearly all of Nevada and California clean of awards. Competing in five to six different competitions, taking first constantly except for one third place. They practiced for endless hours during the week and long into weekends, but after every competition they'd be required to learn all new movements and music, trying to get the right combination by the time that championships rolled around. How did anyone think they's be able to repeat such a great season? Last year they lost two seniors, therefore, every one who did it last year are back. They've got the same instructors who challenged and forced them to perfection last year, and this year the drum line has decided to play music based off of the Apex Twins. If the Apex Twins seem obscure, they create a techno sound using synthesizers and other various instruments, which means converting the techno sound to make it sound good when played on drums and xylophones. This year's going to be very challenging because of the very fast paced and sporadic music; a single dry run of the show is equivalent to the work of one half of a football game. The drums carried weigh anything from 15 pounds to a whopping 45 pounds. They practice three hours every Tuesday and Thursday, their shows kick butt so get out and see one!!

TRUE COLORS

ROTC teaches the definition of freedom to its students

A large majority of the student body thinks that ROTC is a joke, but that couldn't be farther from the truth. The students of ROTC are some of the most involved students in school. Their class trains them for the military exclusively focusing on Navy procedure. Reed's instructors try their hardest to instill a deep love for their country and an ardent passion for what it stands for: freedom, equality and justice for all. Students in the program feel that ROTC trains them for the real world and what it holds for them. ROTC isn't all about pushups and marching; OK, well it's MOSTLY about pushups and marching, but the program doesn't revolve around physical conditioning. It revolves around the discipline and dedication required to be in the greatest military on the face of this Earth. Stephanie Ercolin says: "The program is a nice change because there are guidelines that keeps you from going crazy. It reminds me of how much I love living in America and what it takes to keep this country the land of the free....this is the home of the brave." Those inspiring words make one remember what sacrifice really is to keep our lifestyle intact. These select kids possess the same patriotism and nationalism of those who died in the name of freedom. This group of students are truly a select few...they're prepared to dedicate their lives to our country fully and willingly. That's the measure of Reed's ROTC program, their dedication to their heritage.

IN THE ZONE

Varsity Goes for the Gold!!!!

What, in your opinion calls for a massive celebration on behalf of the entire school? I'd say that the Varsity Football team going from zero to hero this year, becoming Zone Champions and hosting State Playoffs for the first time in twenty-one years. The varsity players were beyond stoked when they realized that they beat longtime rivals, the McQueen Lancers, for the right to host State Playoffs. This year, the team was determined to win and come out on top, considering the majority of the team this year is from the Senior class. Their determination to win held through, inspiring the other teams to play their hardest and give Reed a stellar season for Fall Sports overall. This, the determination, the work and the time these boys gave to the sport shows pure Reed Raider spirit because it's what really made memories for the year and made our school spirit increase tenfold. The guys stepped it up and put out more effort than anyone thought imaginable and proved to those who doubted that the Raiders can do it, come out on top and shine when others doubt them.

NOT JUST A GAME

Set, Tackle, Score!

A team with a lot to live up to; the junior varsity football team did a fair job holding their own this season. "We got a lot of support from our players during the season," mentioned Coach Lott.

Without this support, the JV team wouldn't be the team they are today. They endured pain, bruises, mud, dehydration, long practices, and the pressure from the die hard fans of Reed High School. The majority of the football players have dreamed of playing football since childhood, and view their participation as a way to contribute and be involved with their school. school, or to pursue a professional career eventually; secretly hoping to become like idols such as Randy Moss, Steve Young, Joe Montano, or Drew Bledsow. These boys are rough, tough, and willing to run the length of numerous football fields just to get into the game. This dedication is especially important because of the main fact that Varsity boys made it to Zone and State this year, therefore all of the other teams are trying to kick it up a notch. These boys will be Varsity next year, so they will need to step it up a notch to reach that level of performance. We all believe that these boys will exceed all expectations next season, and make it all the way to dominate all other high school football teams in the Northern Nevada region.

AGAINST ALL ODDS

with a few crippling losses, the team was never down

What a season for the Reed Freshman Football team. A completely new roster comprised of players who've never played in an organized football league. Couple that with a few crippling injuries and losses from Jordan Rousso getting drafted to Junior Varsity, to Zack Koch's back injury during the game versus Manogue. One might think that a team with that odds would just die off, however that did not put an end to their season. The team stormed back with a tougher line, with nose guard Jesus Casenada leading the charge. So too did the offense take it up a notch. Corry Whitaker with several amazing passes, together with a strong offensive line, kept the points flowing. What led to this amazing season? Varsity player Randy Ehrich says, "It's because the team worked so hard for it." With practice every night after school and games every Thursday, the team most definitely worked hard for their 6-2-1 record. These players came to Reed on the first day of school already knowing what they will be doing for the next three months, playing on the freshman football team. "We played and worked so hard to have done this well" said Running Back, Zack Koch. As you can see with their record 6-2-1, their hard work did pay off for them. They went from playing against each other individually for a position during the summer to playing as a team against other teams during the season.

STOMP AND SHAKE IT...

Let's Go Raiders Let's Go

One of the of the main reasons that cheerleaders tryout for the Varsity Squad is to gain a new respect for the game and acquire new and lifelong friends. Cheerleaders are required to possess very strong friendships with fellow teammates because if there is anything wrong with the squad members, the atmosphere and energy of the game can be destroyed from just one bad vibe. Cheerleading is a sport, the majority of the girls from all of the cheer squads go to many competitions held in big cities where they face very talented cheer squads from numerous other cities on the West Coast. During the week, these cheerleaders give up three days to make sure that their choreography is perfectly synchronized. For one of the cheerleaders this is there first year cheering for Reed, while for the rest it's their third or fourth year. Other cheerleaders welcomed the new combers with open arms, helping them out by teaching them Raider routines. It takes a long time to learn a routine, and to be able to perform it in front of the student body. The majority of the moves can be very challenging and always require a lot of skill and finesse.

Dark skies and frigid air. A muted crowd. Freezing snow and slushy ground. And one lone cheer leading team cheering their hearts out, even though no one else seemed to care. The Junior Varsity cheer leading team at the regional championship against Las Vegas. Even though the football team lost, you wouldn't have known it from the cheerleaders. The JV cheer leading team has survived some tough times. After a devastating loss from disqualification at the tournament at Anaheim for advanced tumbling. Even though they had some disappointments, Kelli Uren says, "I think the JV team bonded throughout the season. We had our ups and downs but we still pulled through!" And Rachel Johnson says, "My best memory would have to be bonding at cheer camp and just goofing off and having a good time together."

Camp was not just Rachel Johnson's best memory, but also Jessica Whitaker. She said, "My favorite part of cheer leading this year was camp, it was so much fun and we all goofed off the whole time!! Plus, we got to see varsity with unibrows!!" Camp wasn't the only good memory for the Junior Varsity cheerleaders. They also hold multiple cherished memories cheering at the football games where they made wonderful memories. Michelle Avilla said, "My best memory of this year was just cheering at all the football games. They were fun!!!" And Brittany Matteoni said, "My favorite Junior Varsity cheer memory was cheering at the state game!" Everywhere they go they hold great memories about events like cheering at freezing cold games where the crowd is too cold to care. This leads people to think the work and effort is in vain, but if you were to ask them what was the best part of the year they would say the games, cheer camp, and many more things that they do through out the year. Although the girls' tumbling was too advanced for a competition that resulted in disqualification, they still had a lot of fun. They got to go to Disneyland during the weekend where they had a competition, and had a chance to have fun other then compete. Cheer leading is about having fun, making friends and cheering their lungs out during games and competitions. It might seem like it is very difficult, but ask the Junior Varsity cheer team how much fun they had this year and you will get a list of all the events that they had fun at.

BLOOD, SWEAT AND CHEERS

Frosh Cheer is what teamwork is all about

Freshman cheer is the start of many high school cheerleading careers. It is fun, fast-paced, and full of dance routines and practices. But why do it? Why cheer? It has a certain amount of prestige and provides a sense of accomplishment, but it seems as if that's not why people do it. The general consensus of the team feels they do it for an opportunity to be with friends, make new friends, and find a positive way to support everyone in their athletic endeavors and school spirit. Cheerleading is far more demanding than the average person sees. They gracefully pull off choreography and make it seem so easy, but the reality is, there is hours of creating and rehearsing the routines seen by spectators. Friendship is a powerful reason for all the hard practices and events. Practices seem to be anything but easy. First they all have to go through a series of stretches, then they practice a synchronized dance sequence with all the different year teams. They then break off and learn new dances and try to create new routines. This ultimately leads to the events where they execute what they practiced. With all of the hard work involved, it just goes to show the bonds with friends and amounts of fun it is make everything worth while. This years freshman cheer team has clearly proven what it takes to be a great team, and also what it takes for a team to come together.

HIT LIKE A GIRL.....

.....doesn't exactly mean what it used to!

The coolest thing about volleyball is it's a female dominated sport... entirely. Volleyball is a rather young sport, getting it's renowned history from a 1885 invention for classes at the YMCA. William G. Morgan created a sport that combined the fundamentals of basketball, tennis and baseball, with a less demanding curriculum than sports like basketball. Almost twenty years later it's become an international Olympic game and a symbol of "girl power" in high schools across the nation.

Varsity volleyball at Reed holds all the qualities of hard work and great effort, but it possesses something more; these girls have one thing in common, they're the best of the best at what they do... winning. These twelve girls push themselves the most, hit the balls the hardest and run their bodies to near death... then get up the next day and do it all over again. The work and effort all pays off, while the girls, the Lady Raiders, become known as the true force that takes Washoe County School Sports by storm.

GIRLS JUST WANNA HAVE FUN

But There's Still Work To Do

Mine!!!! Is what you hear the girls yelling during a game. Volleyball is a very intense game with a unique way of scoring.

Between the jumping, setting, diving, and spiking the girls sure play hard. The girls didn't have that great of a year, but they kept their heads high against all odds and tried their hardest to win no matter what. The girls created a strong bond between each other and their coach. Before the games their coach would give them pep talks to pump them up. This would also give the girls a chance to tell the other players what they were going to do to have a better performance than their previous game. They would also talk about different strategies to help them during the game.

Another thing that the coach had the girls do was at the practices when she would have them all stop what they were doing and come line up from tallest to shortest, birthdays, last name/first name, or anything else. The challenge was that they couldn't say a word to anyone which is how this exercise helped the girls bond with each other. The bonding of the team made them able to be friends on and off the court.

Volleyball

Being able to get along with one another is a big advantage to being on a team. These girls worked hard but still had fun doing what they do best. The girls would pump each other up before and during the game and would encourage their teammates in anyway they could.

"We all got each other really pumped up before the game, and then during the game we would give each other high fives and stuff to help keep the energy up." Jennifer Mastelotto

BRITTANY ZUCCO

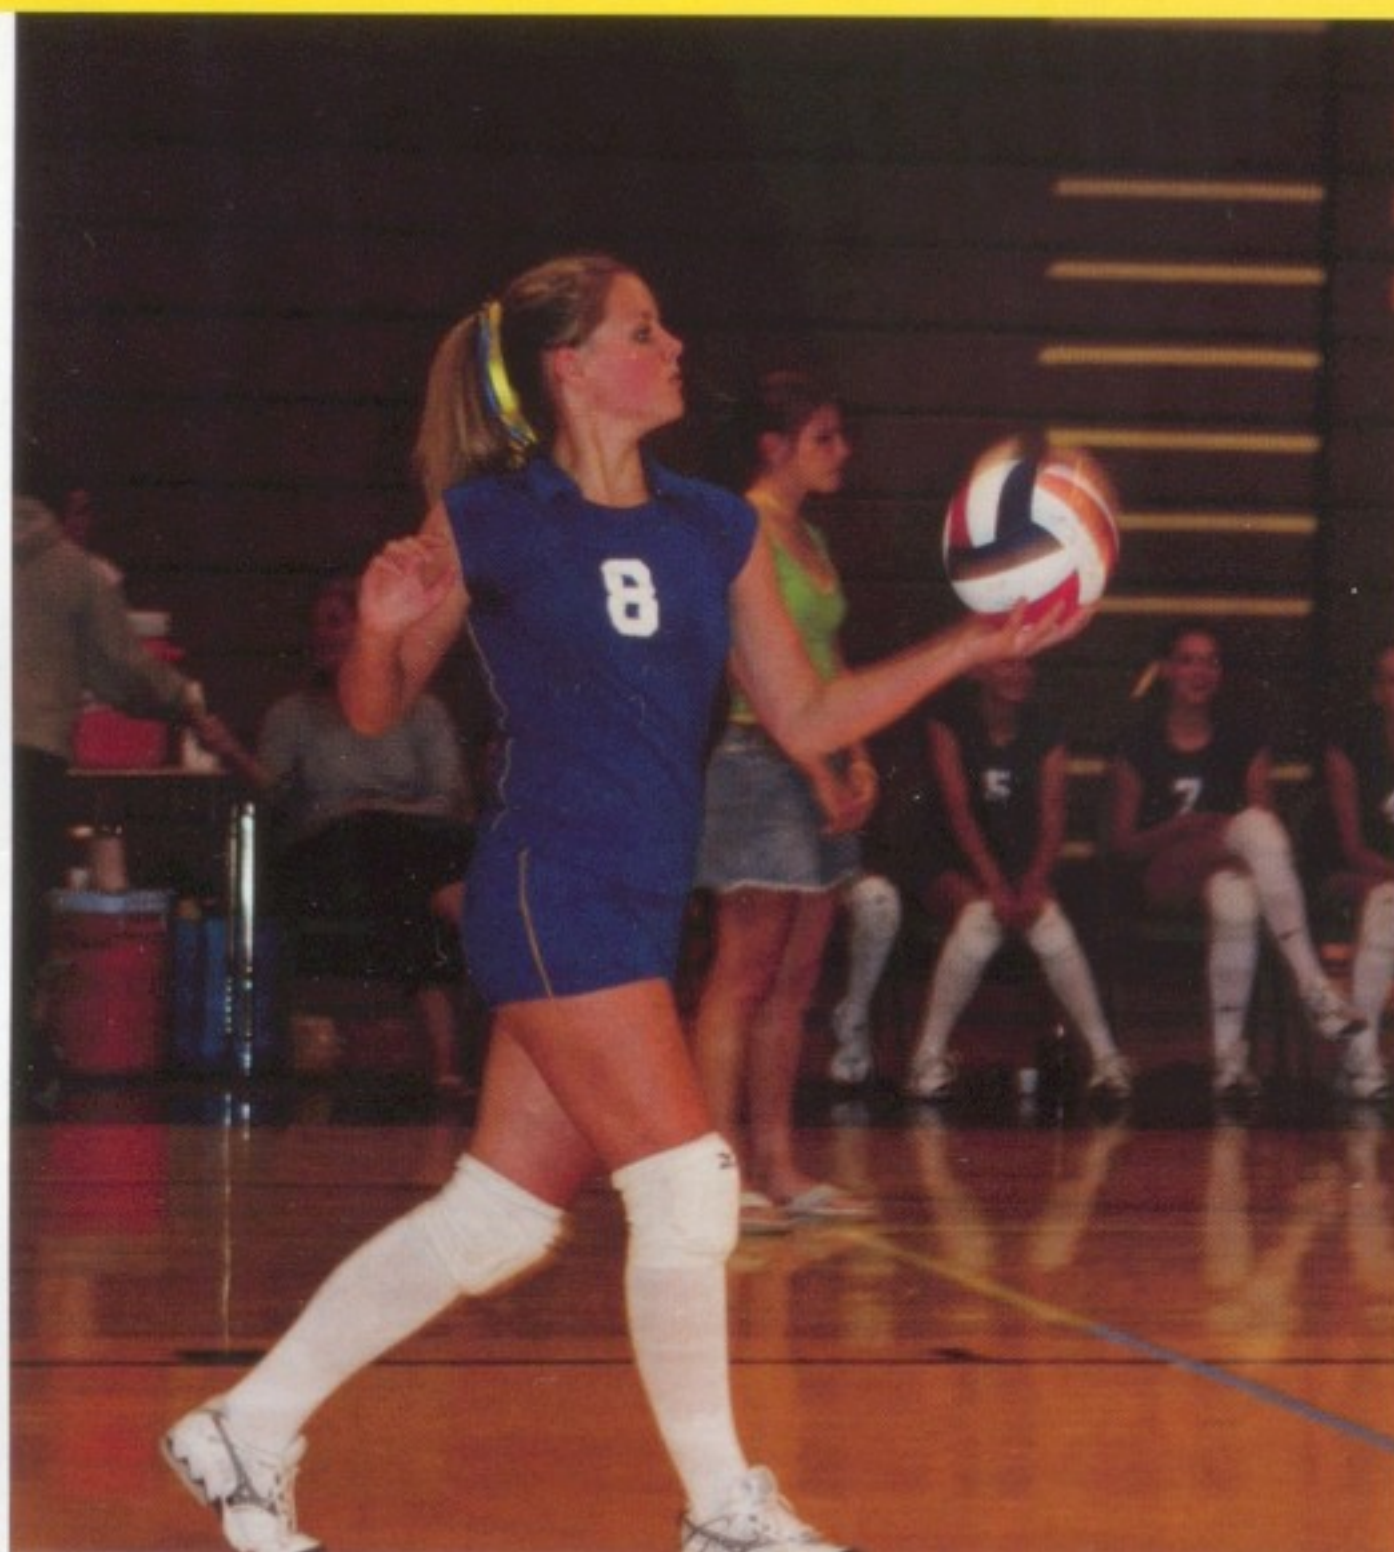

"VOLLEYBALL WAS DEFINITELY A LEARNING EXPERIENCE THIS YEAR. EVEN THOUGH WE LOST A LOT OF OUR GAMES, WE CAME OUT ON THE TOP AS A TEAM."

LEARNING THE ROPES

Freshman Volleyball learns by game experience

Teamwork is the freshman volleyball's first priority. They showed us that they can do it if they work together, especially with their exquisite spikes, drop dead passes, and dynamite serves. They learned that their needs were to prove their skills and teamwork. Freshman volleyball helped form many friendships and bonds for their next four years at Reed High School. The girls on the freshman volleyball team played very well. The majority of the girls weren't playing for their first year, they're returning players from their middle schools or different leagues in the Reno/Sparks area. Marie Terry says, "My favorite part was the girls on the team, because we all got along really well and it was really fun and I enjoyed myself a lot. I also enjoyed getting first in our league so that was fun." The girls worked well together because they got along great. Marie's quote proves that the friendships formed were great.

Teamwork and Friendship

1: SERVE IT UP

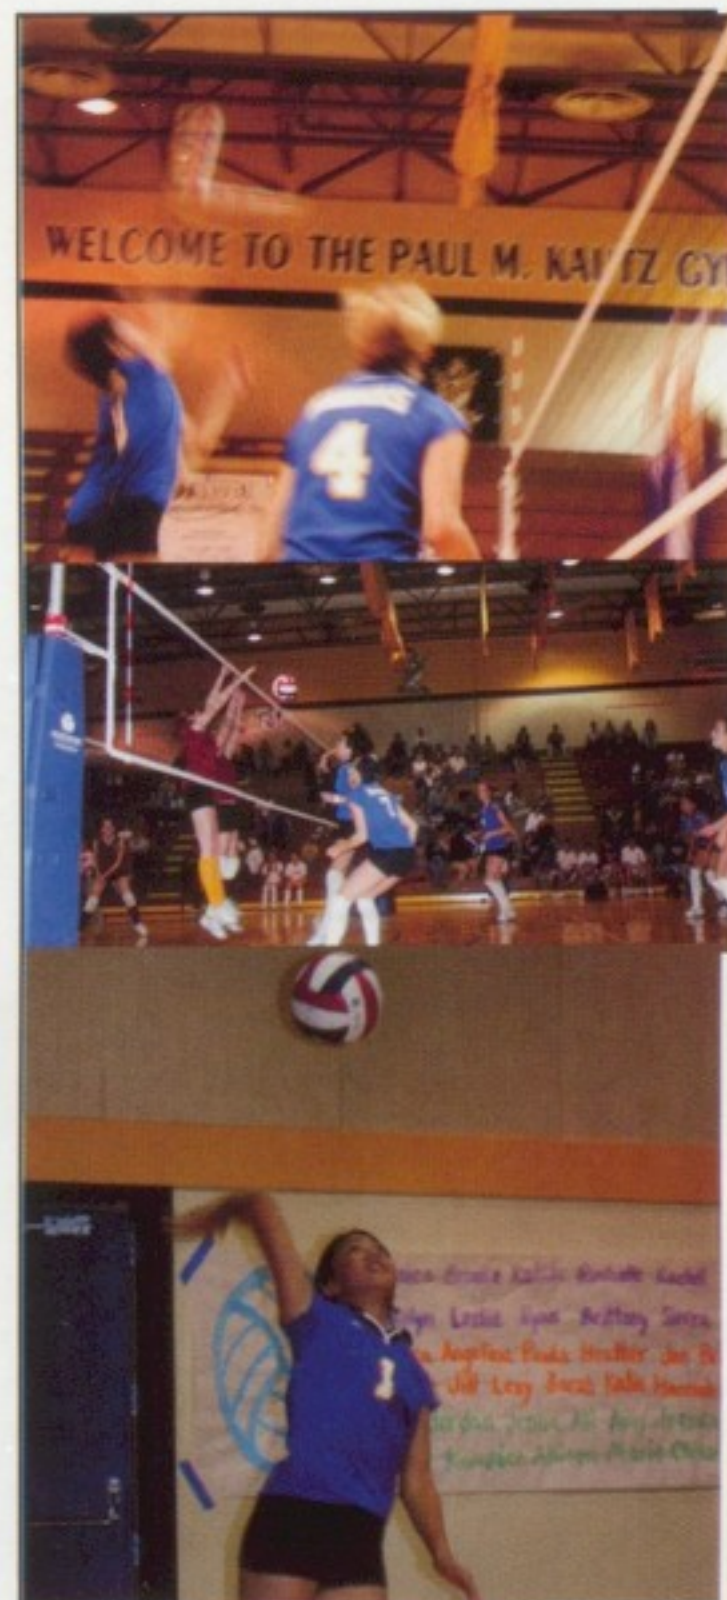

The girls of Freshman Volleyball work their butts off to maintain a tough game, which is a symbol of a strong team requiring the team members to have strong friendships and even stronger ties to each other as friends.

2: READY TO GO

Anticipating a spike from Sparks' team, the girls line up ready to return the ball in their faces, working together by strengths and weaknesses to achieve a balanced team.

3: HI YAH!

These girls are required to be in peak physical condition to be able to serve powerfully, jump gracefully and dive with the beauty of a swan landing on water, mandating them to have support systems formed from friendships that run deeper than everything.

GOING THE DISTANCE

Focus on the Finish Line

Sweat, exhaustion, pain, water! Some common words to describe a sport not fit for just anyone. Not only do you need to get in physical shape but you also need to master the art of mind over matter. The majority of people can't push themselves to the edge of complete consciousness, but these select runners are able to do so with ease. With your lungs being pumped to extreme measures to where air is an acid and it's torturous to the human body. Well a group of kids do this on a daily basis. They have determination in their eyes and competitiveness in their blood. These fine runners will go far, literally. They run at least 2 hours everyday after school going to different places and having sweat run off their bodies. These fully dedicated students will do laps as far as from the Reed track all the way to the Sparks Marina and back with nothing more than a little break for water. This sport requires a lot of determination and you can't eat pizza and wings everyday.

SWING INTO ACTION!

Girls' Golf gets into the swing of things!

Golf takes a "hole" lot of talent and these girls definitely have what it takes. How is the girl's golf team at Reed able to bring victories home and do their best whenever they play? One word; experience. The girls on the team definitely are not new to golf, a game that requires dedication, concentration, and most of all, heart. Mary Sprinkel says, "I have been playing golf since I was 8 years old. I find the sport relaxing but challenging at the same time. I love the fact that it is a team sport, but also an individual sport at the same time. Playing at Reed for the past two years has helped my game tremendously." As much as experience can play a great and important role in the life of a good golf player, a great coach and team keeps a team together, organized, and focused. The love for the game keeps all these girls motivated and there are always new challenges to face. No two games are the same which is one of the main reasons golf is so appealing and never gets old. No matter how long you've been playing, it's one of those games that everyone can love.

"The coach is very experienced and my teammates are very helpful."

WIMBLETON'S GOT NOTHING ON US

Speed, agility, and grace gets it done

Tennis, a sport that requires quick feet, and great hand eye coordination. In Sparks weather fluctuates faster than an avalanche. So when a sudden rain shower pours onto the courts, you would think the day is done right. Wrong. The tennis team waits patiently, and goes over their strategies, revising them as needed. Still going out with the same finesse, and skill and taking the other team with a single swing of their racquet. The team ranges from freshman to seniors all at various skill levels. The best thing about tennis is that you don't need to be a superstar to have some fun. Even if you are skilled, the tennis team gives you a chance to practice the challenges to prove that you can be a superstar. The kids on the team can choose to play individually, or as a pair. There is a big difference between singles tennis and pairs tennis. Pairs tennis requires a person to be in touch with their teammate. When playing singles tennis, you need a sense of personal orientation on the court. Being able to take things into your own hands, and cover the entire court all by yourself.

Alicia Goss, Junior, is in her third year of competition tennis. "I love the sport. It's a good way to stay in shape, and I love beating my older sister [Australia Goss]." The two sisters are very close, and they are both excellent tennis players. Striving to one day achieve the greatness of the Williams sisters they give all they have at their daily practices on the courts in back of the school. Although there is some sibling rivalry, their closeness brings the rest of the team together to create a team with not just two sisters, but a team with twelve sisters working together as a family. THE BOYS ARE BACK

Boys varsity soccer comes back full force

They're rough, they're amazing, they want to win and they're not afraid to get what they want. Boys' Varsity Soccer became the team of teams this year, making their work seem effortless. The team went above and beyond to make it a good year for everyone. This team of experienced players competed like there's no tomorrow and everything's on the line. With their new coach, and new players that do nothing but bring the heat on the playing field. We in this nation pride ourselves on diversity, and Reed is no different. The governor of California is an Austrian born actor, and an Italian native takes Reed to victory on countless occasions. Lorenzo Dominici played soccer for years, like most of the team, but Lorenzo's native country, Italy, bred a love for the sport beyond what our own love for football is. Senior Ryan Clark, who also played soccer since age 5 says, "Lorenzo inspired us all to play better because of his skill and dedication to the sport." This entire year will be forever burned in memory as a year of dedication, hard work and pure love for the game, hard work paid off to make it a great season.

READY SET GOAL!

Hard work, dedication, and endless practice

"S" is for the score board that lights up to show another victory. "O" is for the oh so many practices these boys have to improve their game. "C" is for the caring and support each teammate shows one another. "C" is for the creation and coming together of a group of dedicated players. "E" is for the effort and hard work put by every player every second of every game. Finally "R" is for all the running because no other team works as hard. Practice, practice,! These boys step on the field everyday ready to improve. The constant running and exhausting drills never bring these players down. Every player works as hard as the next. These boys finished out their season with an amazing record of 13-3-1. Their hard work, dedication, and enthusiasm was amazing. Each player steps up their level of play every game to prepare themselves for their future spots on varsity. To describe this team in one word it would have to be teamwork. Teamwork and communication play a key role on this team. Whether the coach is instructing and calling out from the sidelines or a fellow teammate calls out for a open pass, the field is never quiet. Every play is made successful by the amazing bond this team shares and their ability to communicate between one another. When a player can't seem to find his place on the field or just can't get his head into the game there is always some one there to point them in the right direction. This team captains played a crucial role. "As the season went on our team really looked up to our captains, they helped us improve and when we watched their hard work and effort it made the rest of the team want to improve." Says Donny Otto. Not many people realize the time spent and the sweat shed in the game of soccer. These boys have had to play in temperatures as hot as the nineties, and have sprinted their hearts out in the pouring rain and snow.

Donny Otto

"I think this years team compared to last years team has improved greatly. We work together much better"

NOTHING WILL STOP THEM

..from dominating and uniting

It's been a very exciting season for the Girls Varsity Soccer team. With their new head coach, Mr. Saville, who surpassed the bar according to Tarah Wiltsie, "He united our team and made us feel that we can accomplish anything." The team unity was a major factor of how well the girls played with each other. Even with the loss of their Captain, Ashlie Brown, from a torn ACL, knee injury, "The team still played strong." Playing strong isn't their only success on the field; members on the team believe it feels good when they play together. This team held together through the good games and the bad games, and even if they didn't win, they still came out ahead of the game. These eighteen girls are stronger than anyone realizes, because they withstood the test of the season: keeping their cool when the odds were against them and remembering that they are the best at what they do. All of them will go down in Reed's history as a team who stepped it up and never backed down, regardless of the odds facing them. The trials and tribulations are nothing short of amazing although they still did it, with smile, on their faces and songs in their hearts, the songs of winning phrase.

"Girls Varsity soccer defines Reed High School because it's so competitive and Reed is extremely competitive in sports and academics, it's good to have that in high school."

Girls JV Soccer

"During the season I got to play right up until my leg injury. It was pretty hard to watch all of the girls' games from the sidelines, but I'm proud of how great of a job they did. I plan to tryout for the soccer team next year once again as a Senior." -Quote given by Jaclyn Durant.

Karina Heavilin

Kick it, keep running, she's open, block it, you can do it! If you happen to participate in the girl's Junior Varsity soccer team you may hear these encouraging shouts from the esteemed head coach, Joye Williams. You may hear similar phrases from the assistant coach, Mike Dyer.

The JV soccer team both met and exceeded all expectations in the duration of the season. Many players commented on how short the season seemed while both secretly and openly hoping that the season was still in progress. Some thoughts from a dedicated player were: "I love to play soccer. It just so happens to be my favorite sport. I've played soccer since I was seven years old. I plan to tryout once again for the team next year. Hopefully I will be able to successfully make the team next year, as I know that I am capable of," Kellie Dunn. Her positions alternated between goalie and forward. After a duration of time, many have come to realize that you must possess a certain level of both dedication and a love to run to meet what standards this years team has amazingly supplied for future years, and future teams. "The girls faced a ton of adversity and overcame every bit of it. They were truly a team who placed each other before anything else. I am so very proud of each of these girls for all that they accomplished and for who they are." -Quote given by Joye Williams the head coach, of the girls JV soccer team.

Maureen Choman

"I've been playing soccer since I was about 6 or 7. It's one of my favorite sports. My positions were goalie and sometimes forward. I preferred goalie, because you don't have to run as much. Fortunately, I haven't endured any severe injuries."

Dancing the Night Away

The majority of people believe that the members of the Flag and Dance team are just want to be cheerleaders. This couldn't be more of a myth. All members have the balance necessary for doing more than cheers and spirit, they choreograph difficult dance routines either using their balance or twirling a bright flag. With their spirit oriented costumes, and key sense of style, these girls can dance to any song with the aide of their captain Nicole Spalka. With her leadership abilities and choreography techniques, she has been able to keep the crowd entertained during school assemblies, basketball games, as well as football games. These girls have enough spirit for the joyful students of Reed to be as spiritual as these girls.

MAKING IT COUNT...

...and breaking all the records

The varsity boys basketball team is breaking down walls with Kevin Barry shattering records. Kevin broke the shooting record, previously set in 19[] with[] points scored in a single game. With 42 points, Kevin set the new record on February 1st at the game against Spanish Springs. This was only one reason for the teams stellar record of [] and []. Another reason, says point guard Sean Sims, is that, "This season is full of energy and team mates willing to put out the effort that it takes." These guys comprise the elite group whose desire to win earns them a reputation throughout the district as a veritable fortress to get beyond, which in turn makes their opponents throughout the state quiver with fear and shudder at the very mention of their name. The intimidation factor runs throughout the team and yet it never makes them feel superior to their teammates or their schoolmates. These boys are so deserving of their wins and always show their respect to those they've triumphed over by being good sports and showing their respect as the winners to their opponents, treating them as if they were the ones who won instead of the other way around. In spite of the irony in nearly every sport in our league, every player from Reed all holds the same values of respect for every aspect of the game.

STUCK IN THE MIDDLE

The J/V Boys work it out

Every year, the focus of the basketball season is on the varsity teams. Sometimes, though, the junior varsity teams have amazing seasons as well. With a record of 21-6, and a win at the winter Donnelly Classic, the team should be very proud. The team has some very dedicated players and coaching staff. With players like Ray Hooft, who broke his nose during practice, or Tony Maldonado who wasn't afraid to get down and dirty for the ball. Aex McKenzie, who always seemed to pull off the big shot when the team needed him, and especially the freshman Omarri Williams, who really stepped up to the challenge put forth by the team. The season also had several events that stood out over the rest. When Shane Sobrio dunked during the game versus McQueen, or the win against the Spanish Springs Cougars at Spanish Springs. Colby Fountain says that, "It was one of the best feelings, beating Spanish Springs at Spanish Springs." Surely these boys earned every ounce of their victorious mentality, their work and strife paid off for them tenfold. The victories always stem from their dedication to the sport and their dedication to the school, which is the true meaning of Reed High School, the dedication to a common cause.

IT'S GAME TIME

Bring 'em out, bring 'em out

When people go to the freshman games, they don't realize what kind of a show they're really in for. With guards like Michael Allen and John Pelino; forwards like Luke Tonata and Dohn Matteoni; and point guards like Zack Wood and Travis Peterson, these boys are sure to impress all members of the fan crowd. These boys still can't do it on their own, which is why they've got a great coach like Paul Kautz, whose been coaching for a number of years. Running down the court, these boys show they're not afraid to show us their abilities to break through their opponents' blocks, into the key and get the ball through the net. This drive and skill is what makes up a fabulous team, which is what everyone really wants to see out of a first year set of boys. The pride in these select guys is what defines the spirit of Reed, the ones who came along knowing very little and stepped it up, above and beyond the success rate of those who've come before them.

A TALE OF TWELVE RAIDERS

These girls get what they want, perfection

With a regular season record of 22-0, our girls varsity basketball team holds the best record in the AAAA division. With Maria Moore leading as point guard and Brittany Moore following up as guard, it's no small wonder that the team has done so well. They work hard to achieve their small goals of winning every game which leads to their greater goal of a perfect winning season. These ladies hold immense faith for themselves and their coach, Richard Shaw, "We're an older team, so we all believe in what Shaw's doing," says guard Brittany Moore. The work and effort is something that shines throughout the season, in the games, in the practices and in their everyday lives, showing their dedication to what they love. This "For love of the Game" attitude carries these girls through the hardest times, if it all boils down to it, these elite women just play for two things, themselves and for the love of playing on a team. This plutonic love for a sport defines the spirit of Reed because all these ladies hold the same amount of love for the school they play for and hold the same respect for what they represent. When these ladies put on their jerseys and step out onto the court, they show what it means to be the best and what the best really act like: they like "elite Ladies (Raiders)."

SHOOTING FOR THE STARS

high goals for star players

Our school is very gifted in having so many good sports teams. The girls Junior Varsity basketball team is no exception, with a record of 21-2. But winning isn't always important, says guard Rachell Morris. "I think that winning isn't always important, but gaining friendship with your team mates is, and that's exactly what our girls did." Of course, winning is a plus. With their win at the McQueen tournament, and officially becoming the first place team, their spirits were high, and they stayed that way, up until their last game, when their awesome record became official. When asked what she thought was most important about the season, Rachel Morris replied, "Winning the McQueen tournament and becoming known as first place, and then ending up 21-2, at first place in the league." These ladies and their dedication in stepping it up to the next level impress all who they play against and who they play to entertain. They're games make everyone who watches them want to take up basketball in hopes of someday becoming just as talented as the ones who inspired them to lace up their tennis shoes and attempt a lay up. This inspiration is what fuels Reed, the desire to apply what they've seen at a Reed function.

The freshman girls basketball team had a great season. #45 Adrienne Hill, #22 Paula Bolan, and #23 Alexis Hadley are excellent examples of those who played in middle school. They played extremely well as a team for their first time working together. One of the reasons the team did so well was the fact that all of the players stepped up and did their part, such as the great

#54 Stephanie Kao, a dream with a ball and speed demon when on the court. The combination of all this talent creates a batch of winners who work their sweatbands off to achieve their goals and never stop from attaining them. The kids take their skies and poles out of the bags and get them ready for the race

Adam Tuttle takes some time before the race to pose for a quick picture

Being in a tuck keeps your wind-resistance minimized for a better race.

Even though the team is up there to race they some-time goof around and have snow ball fights for fun.

SPEED DEMON

Right: Slaloming down the slopes at an extended speed. Cutting past pylons, and staying in a tuck formation the whole way down.

SHREDDIN' SOME SLOPES

...Watch out for those trees

3.2.1. Your heart beats faster and faster as the gate slams open. You push off on your poles and jump out onto the course, shooting past the pylons at upwards of fifty miles an hour. For the average minute and a half you feel free as you tear through at break neck speeds. Some of these kids have been skiing since they were very young, but then for others it is just the beginning. The kids on this team go up to Mount Rose and many other ski resorts every weekend to practice and compete in races during the week. People can't understand the feeling that you get when you blaze down a mountain and beat your opponent by only five thousandths of a second. You get a huge rush while you fly down the mountain slopes. But then again, this sport has its downfalls, like crashing, or tripping over your skis. .

STEADY THERE!

Right: Steven Whitney steadies his hand to make sure the bullet does not go astray at the last second. One trick of the trade is to squeeze the trigger on the rifles instead of pulling it because the gun moves when the hand pulls while when squeezed it keeps the steady position

TURN UP THE LIGHTS

RIGHT ON TARGET

Lock, Stock and Two Smoking Barrels

Looking through a small opening with cross hairs tends to create a sense of claustrophobia within the eye of the beholder; however in the eyes of the Reed Raider Rifle Team, it brings them a sense of comfort and solace, opening themselves up under their surrounding conditions to flourish like a rare bird of paradise in the middle of Times Square. The rifle team holds all the values of Reed High School within its fundamentals...never take your eye off the target, safety first, put your best foot forward and learn from your mistakes but don't dwell on them. The rifle team this year and to rebuild itself from massive losses due to the graduation of nearly the entire team last year, including students like Tyler Island, Kyle

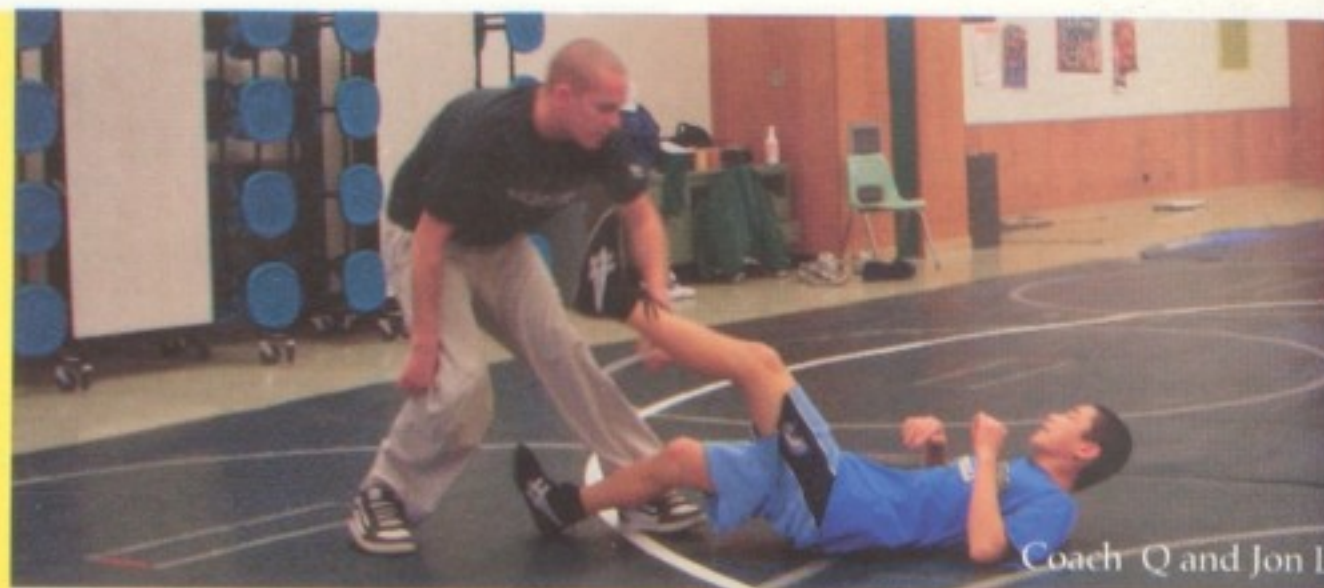

Jones and the famous Candice Noel, who all led the team to victory on numerous occasions, placing our school in the top ten rifle team bracket nationwide. This seems like insurmountable odds, but the Rifle Team scoffs at them and confidently continues to keep their eyes on the prize, a first place trophy. This year's competitors like Alexander Ruud and Michelle Hoefer hope to continue the legacy of Reed's well renowned Rifle Team, as well as make a name for themselves while teaching others the basics they were taught by former teammates...always look on the brighter side of things and keep your eyes focused on the target, because if you lose your focus at all, even for a brief millisecond, you lose your concentration and the prize.

RUFF AND TUMBLE

Down To The Mat

WORKIN' OVERTIME

"I do wrestling because it's the best sport, it's the most physically demanding sport that you could play. Wrestling defines Reed High School because of the level of the fact that level of commitment needed to compete in wrestling requires the same level of commitment needed to excel in any aspect of Reed High, whether it be in academic, other sports or anything that Reed has to offer"

-Kevin Carter

The intense energy, the heat of the room flowing through everything, the sweat pouring from bodies that glistens in the penetrating light, bulging muscles staring their competitors in the face, trying to psych them out..."it's all in your head" the wrestlers tell themselves as they prepare to square off with an opponent who wants to win so bad they might tear your head off within the first five seconds after the referee blows his whistle, trying to psych each other out with grimaces and eyebrow raising....scared yet??? Too bad that it will take more than a little bit of intimidation to deter these guys from losing their concentration and slipping up from one of their numerous intricate positions, losing them a match. The boys of this great team at Reed work harder than anyone to come out on top from the bottom of the pile. These select kids push themselves to the point of blackout and pull themselves above the pain to dominate the match and survive the terror of the center ring. These boys lack the fear of rolling around and getting dirty with their opponents in order to get what they want, a victory. This sport originates back to ancient contests in Rome, Greece and Northern European nations like Ireland, Scotland and the Norwegian ruled islands like Greenland and Iceland. In the competitions back then, the boys used to wrestle for women and the victor married the prize after he won the privilege of stoning his opponent to death with small sandstone pebbles, which were thought to be sacred. Fortunately for the less than triumphant, the winners of these matches only get a shiny gold medal and the title of "Number One," while those behind the first get room for improvement instead of a granite sprinkled sundae. These boys define their competition by pinning, twisting and wriggling their way to State Championships like the winners they've become. These boys define Reed in their own unique, determined way.

HEADS UP!

These boys always make a hole in one

One of the oldest games in the world, which gets its roots from, Ireland, where the land is covered in rolling hills and thick choppy grass. There are few people in this world that have the control and skill to hit a tiny ball into a hole that is usually over 500 yards away. The game's numerous rules were set from the first time that little white golf ball received a swift stroke from a driving iron. Golf, undoubtedly one of the renowned games for its sophistication, holds many different players from all walks of life, especially in recent times. The players at Reed spend hours on the driving range trying to perfect their swing hoping to get into the perfect rhythm, to hit the perfect ball. The work and effort these boys put into their sport is unsurpassed, the time and dedication put into training overcomes much of their fellow competitors, working the metal off their clubs just to get a single hole under par.

DIVE INTO IT

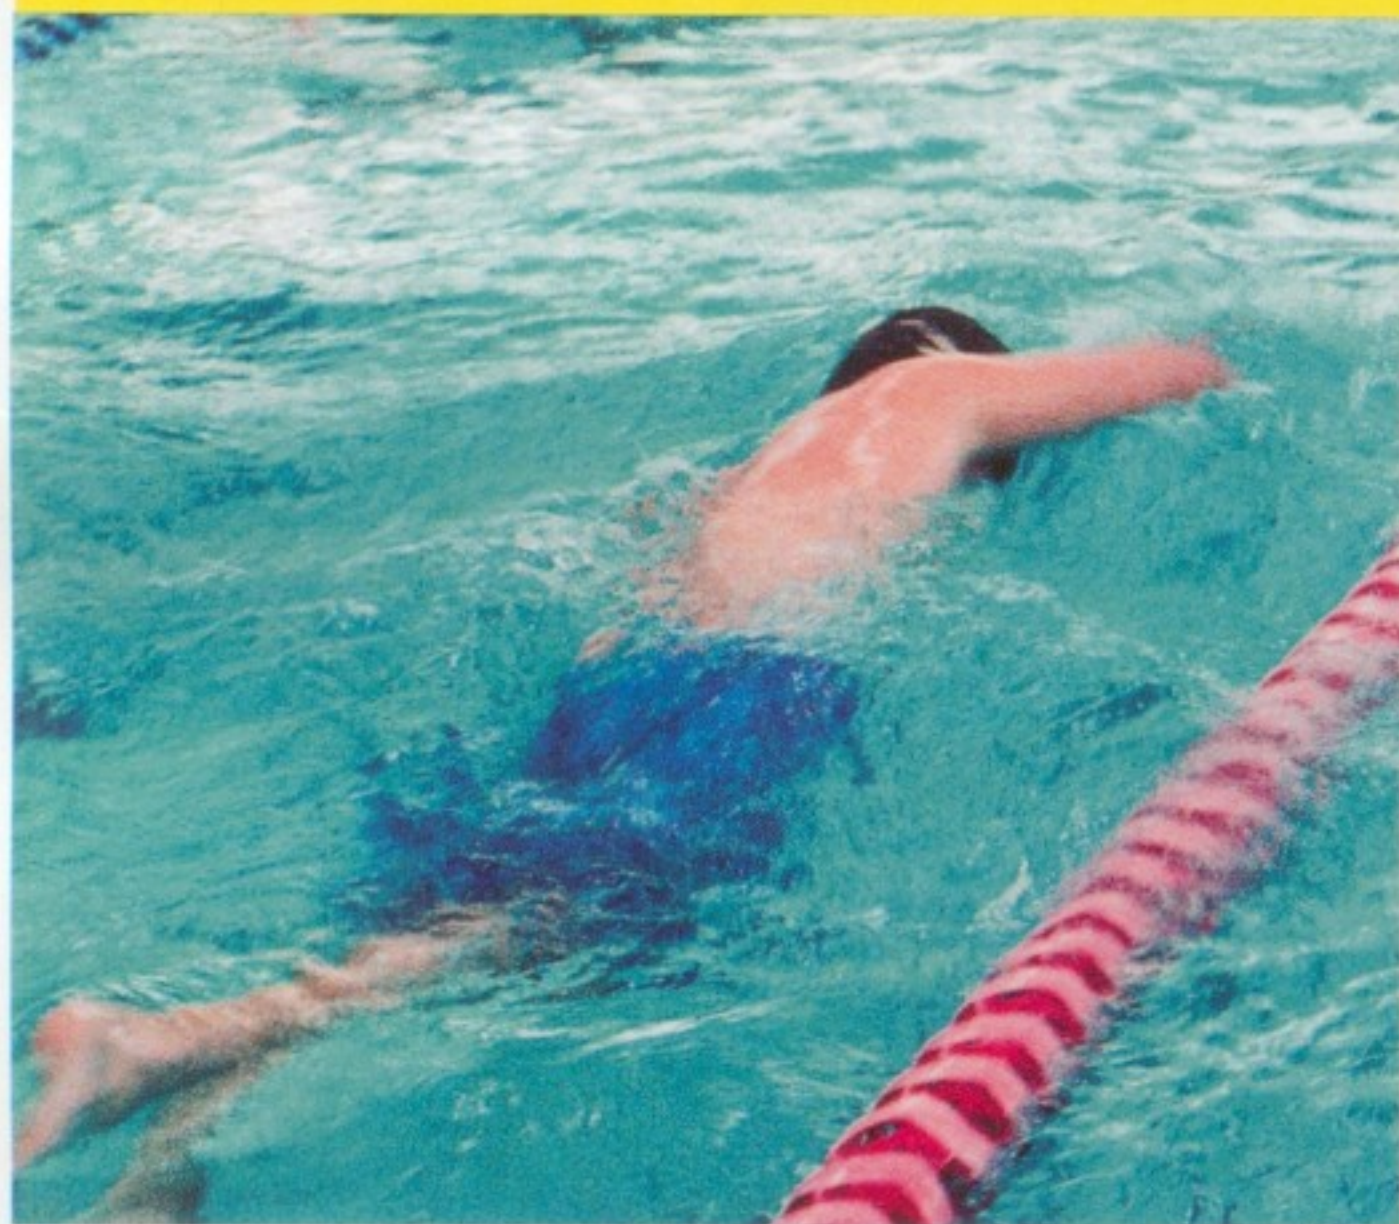

The Reed Swim team makes waves

From the first second where the tranquility of the water is disturbed to the last stroke of the final lap, the Reed Raider Swim and Dive Team keeps working and never gives up until they hold a winning spot on the top three pedestal with their hair tinted a lovely shade of green from the chlorine filled water. These elite kids live in the water, exhausting themselves beyond the fathoms of human capacity, then diving back into their work head first for another set of grueling laps to get themselves first. The drive and determination of the entire team comes from the great leadership of seniors like Katie Foster, Dominoe Imus and Quincey Sweeney, who have all been swimming competitively since they were young, and from the dynamic new talent that's recently acquired like Jourdan Douglas and Sarah Petrie. The work and effort that these kids put into their extra curricular activity defines Reed High School because it is what the school is all about. This work and dedication is amazing and truly impresses everyone whomever attends their meets or sees their records. Great job guys, you deserve the gold

FROM THE ASHES

If you rebuild it, they will come out on top

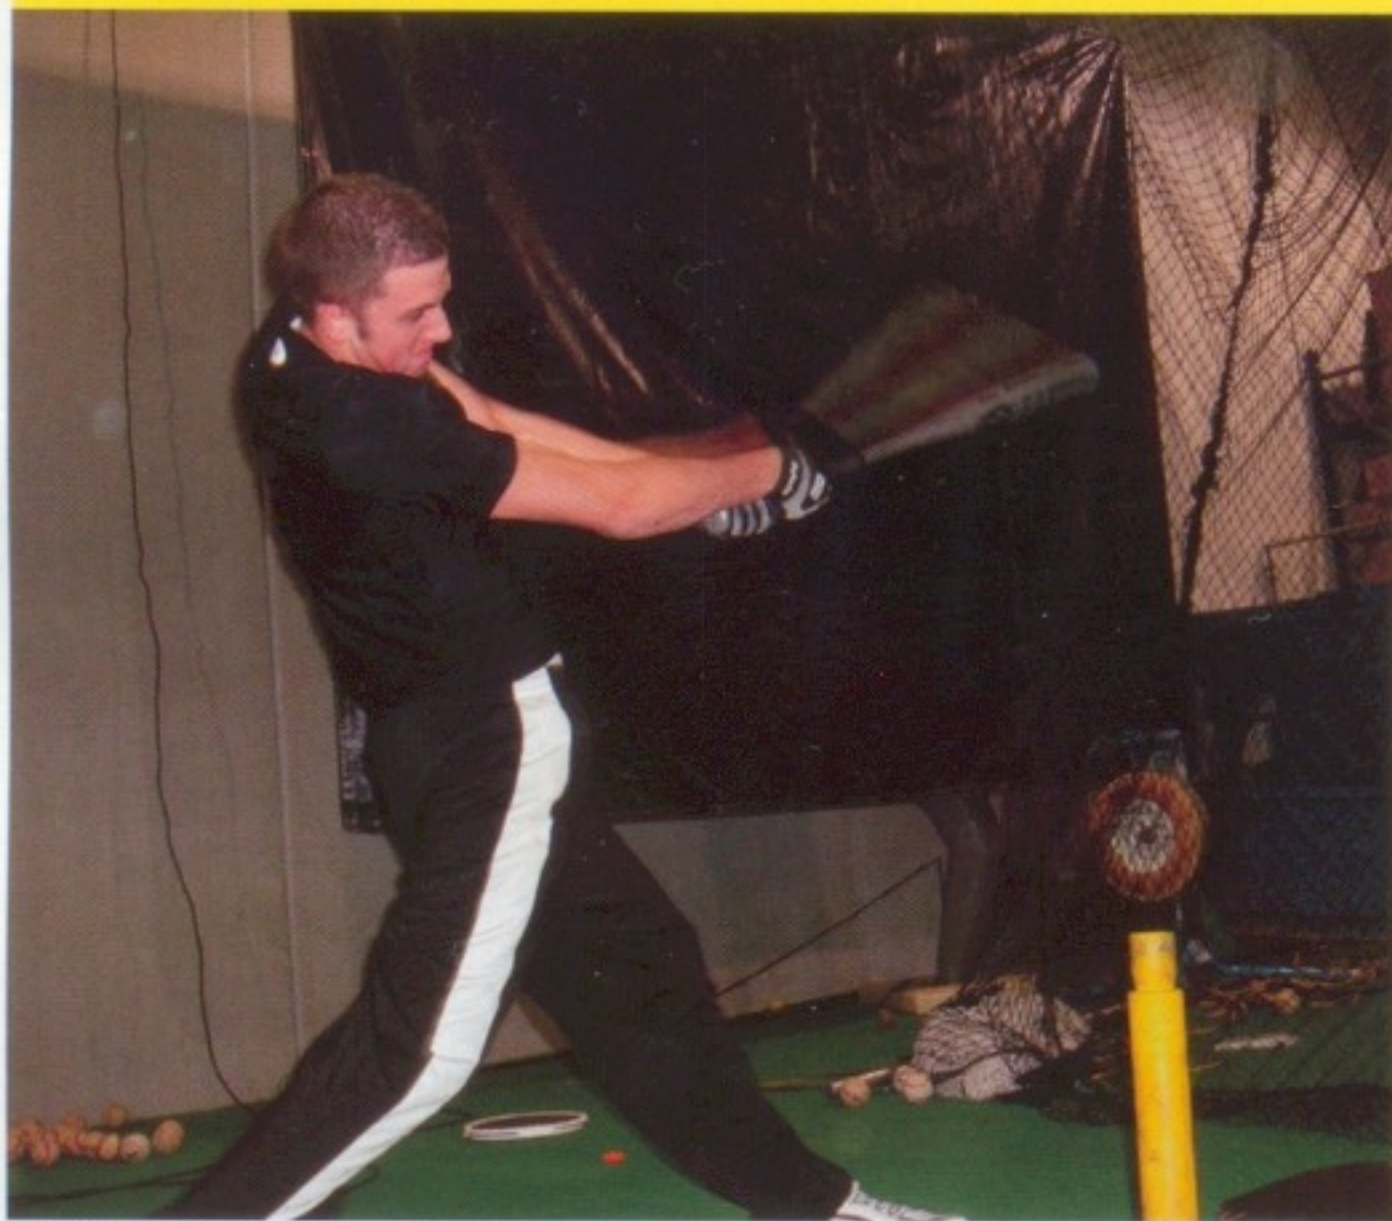

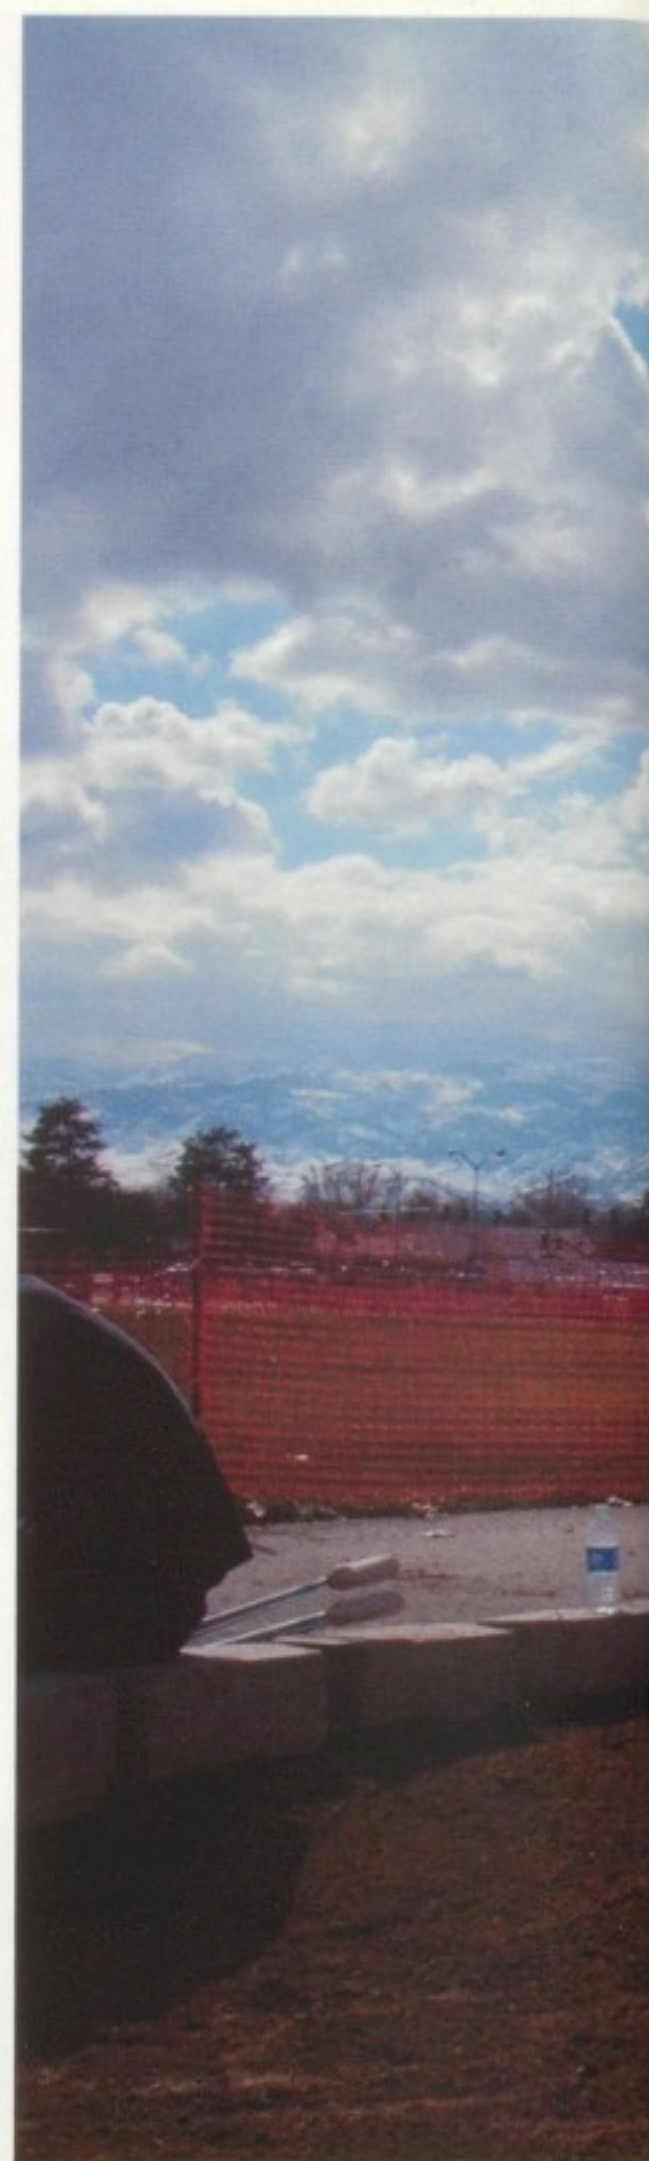

This year, the Varsity Baseball team's quite a job to complete this year, trying to gain back their momentum after losing 9 of their former players, 6 of whom were starters on last year's state qualifying team. Their coach, Jon Foss, is preparing these elite boys for something that this school's not yet completed, to qualify and win a State Championship, something they've been trying to do for a number of years. With returning members like Steven Hook, Bradley Hurn, Jeremy Merlino, Nate Weeden and Garrett Silva, hold the experience needed to achieve this seemingly impossible goal, while new members, fresh up from J/V like Matt Moerdick, Jimmy Reed and Kyle Hamilton will create the fresh face needed to step things up. The players of this demanding sport play until their gloves meld into their hands and the baseball helmets form fit their heads, working hard at achieving the common goal, the championships, the state title, and who knows, perhaps more. These very individualistic people who're come together as a team to overcome odds that nearly anyone might fear and quit early in the game, not like these boys.

GAME FACE

The JV Baseball team's gonna git-er-done!

The beating of the sun beneath baseball hat shades, the vibrancy of the hunter green and chartreuse mixing with each other, irritating the eyes of the players, the grainy tan color of the diamond freckling the bleached white bases and lines, making them look spotted and slightly less than perfect...all these components are what create a winning team and how lucky we, the Reed Raiders, are to receive such an elite set of kids. The boys of this small but very powerful team work until they're too tired to move and the dirt they've rolled around in covers them from baseball cap to cleats. The dedication these kids put into their work is more than surpassing and seemingly insane, but at the end of the day all they do is roll into bed and wake up the next morning with the same desire to win that they held the day before. The love of the game that these kids hold runs deeper than the majority realizes, these kids staying long after everyone leaves...still staying and playing until they can't move to save their lives. Their dedication and strife will pay off tenfold this year, their work and effort showing their desire to move up in the pecking line of sports, showing their leaders and coaches that they are ready to do what it takes to step it up and show that they aren't going to quit until they're bleeding sand and blood, all for the game. The desire to be the best is what really defines Reed High School because their work and will to win is what the school is all about. Their dedication and love for something inanimate like a sport or the honor of playing a sport is the essential of every amount of school spirit and activity that a school, our school, puts on to get everyone involved. Reed's finest gentlemen of J/V work hard and are always dedicated to their prior commitments and hold them above every other thing that might possibly come into conflict, which shows the dedication that these "kids" put into what they do. Their time and effort always pays off in the end, and this year's no different, their work and dedication showing off in all their victories and their improvements in this sport making them better than the rest and making them stand out in a crowd, making them a somebody, making them the Reed J/V baseball team, one of the best teams in the league, the ones who work until they're dead and still come out on top, against all of the odds.

Cody Cate

"I play baseball because I like it, and chicks dig the tight pants. The baseball program is good for Reed because it keeps kids out of gangs and away from drugs and gives them something to do after school and sometimes hot girls come to the games."

HIT OR MISS

These ladies do more hitting than the other

The determination to make Varsity Softball, The highest ranking of the girls spring sports, becomes the fuel for those who desire it and for those who do make the cut step their playing up and refuse to quit when things get dirty. These girls, the elite women who show us that throwing like a girl isn't always a bad thing and who lack the fear of breaking a nail if it means a victory and a trophy for their cabinets that staggers everyone who looks at it. Our Varsity girls work hard during practices and thrive during games under the great amounts of stress and strain they've put upon themselves, working harder and faster and stronger until they get the top dog position and the respect that comes with it. The effort and spirit they put into this sport defines Reed High because they, like the Raider spirit, never give up and when the going gets tough, the tough get tougher and still rise above the odds, never dying, never stopping from working harder than before they ever did at first.

TRAINING DAY

"Beginner's Luck" Isn't Always Just Luck

The girls of J/V Softball clearly deserve much more credit than they are usually given. These fabulous girls work their baseball cleats off, sliding into bases at dangerous speeds and catching pitches that fly towards their faces at speeds which make activities like dodging cars and archery spoofs like William Tell look like safe indoor games. As well as vigorously running from on base to another just to ensure each other that they will be able to 'take out' an opposing team player. The drive to be the best comes from excellent leadership, inspired by the Varsity Softball Team. Their inspiration comes from example and instills inside the players a desire to beat their J/V opponents. These girls spend either months, or all year out of their precious time to condition, train and practice because of their deep embedded love for the sport. For some of these girls this year will mean more practice and more fun. Exhaustion is a widely known ailment that these determined girls endure very often. Practices everyday after school and tryouts put both stress, pressure and excitement into these girls's minds. Although this rigorous sport may take time, for these girls, they would rather be running through mud, dirt and grass, or be lifting weights so that they are able to perfect their pitch, through, or a simple toss. None the less, blood, sweat, and tears seem to be simple enjoyments for these girls. At least when they have the wonderful chance to participate in Softball. That then means that they as well as the sport define Reed High School showing all opposers who will dominate whenever they may have doubts of either our school spirit or dedication.

Ready To Play

RACE TO THE FINISH

Stay Focused, Work Hard And Have Fun

Athletics are a major part of Reed High School. Track specifically combines all expertise of the enthusiastic students who only wish to be a part of Reed. Track has events for all participants. If a student is particularly gifted in running events or events that focus more on upper body strength. Dedication and patience are key elements essential to participate in any sport, although key for track. "I have been participating in Track for my second year now. My events are Shot Put and Discus. I've tried doing running events but I didn't feel entirely comfortable with those events. Shot Put and Discus seem to fit my abilities like a glove." -Jennifer Mercer. For some students they would rather rely on themselves than on others. Track's events can be entirely individual if wanted. The coaches of the Reed High School Track team know exactly how far to push and train these students to their best abilities. Knowingly, the Raider's have such perseverance that they are able to do absolutely everything while giving 150%.

The joys of being a freshman

Certain things come once in a life time, such as learning to ride your first bike, a first kiss or driving your first car. Or being a high school freshman. It's a highly underrated stage of education, with legends of hazing and cruel pranks. In middle school that's all I ever heard about the rite of passage into high school. Friends and teachers kept warning me that it would be a rough year. My first couple weeks were full of new experiences, one of which was lockers. My middle school didn't have them, and while my combination was a pain to use at first, my locker soon proved to be a blessing for my aching back and bursting-at-the-seams book bag. The teachers took some getting used to, too. Some care whether you're passing the class, while others hardly know your name. In the case of the latter, it's up to you to get the grade. It's not fun or easy, but I guess those teachers are there to prepare you for the real world. All in all, they do a good job of cramming the information down our throats. I understand it's a tough job controlling teenagers and keeping us awake, and I have nothing but respect for the teachers who can do this. In middle school, many people seemed unsure of where they fit in. But in high school, everyone knows who they are. Sometimes this identity can be considered antisocial, freaky or downright offensive, but students are who they are now, and they probably won't be changing any time soon. Childish behavior has been left behind. The fact of the matter is we're mature young adults now (at least most of us), and we've got to get ready for the real world. The days of arts and crafts and playing kickball at recess are long gone now. For some, the shock of harsh reality has been difficult, but everyone has to grow up sooner or later. So, as it turns out, being a freshman has been way better than it was cracked up to be. And as long as you go into it with confidence, you'll have a blast. Just be yourself and, most importantly, don't get lost in the crowd. -Paul Bowers

"Every child wants to be a man and every man is at heart a child.
Where they meet is the sophomore." -Patrick

Between freshman naivety and senior depression lie the middle grades of 10 and 11. 11th graders are too busy worrying about tests so we'll scratch them out. That leaves us, the sophomore (wise fool), remarkably, beautifully, outstandingly, average and uninteresting. Yes, it's true, there's nothing interesting about the 10th grade and if there ever is it's just because there used to be nothing interesting about the 10th grade.

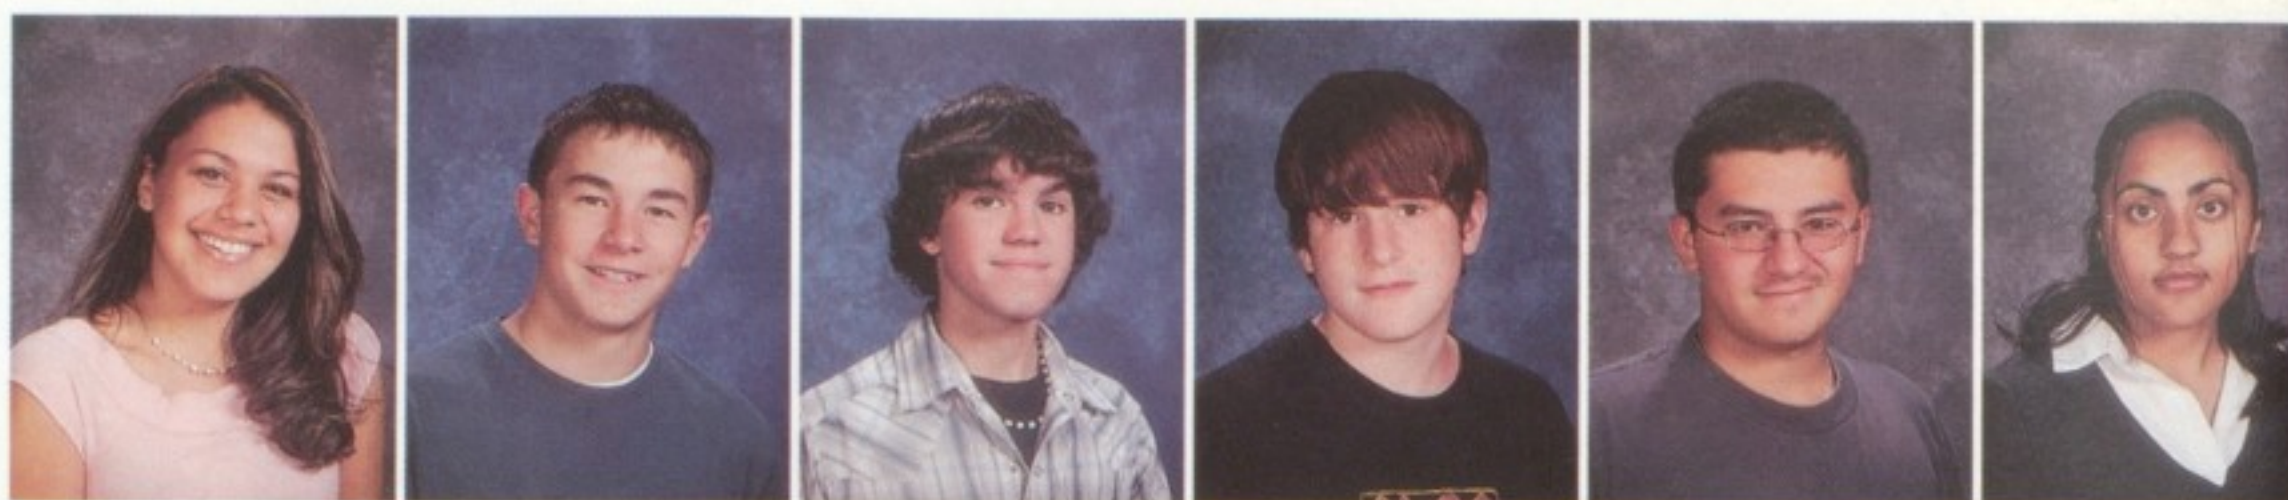

But don't look at it so harshly, in the dull and boring environment we can capture a unique perception of what's happening around us. Think of a sophomore as inside a bubble, there's nothing interesting where he is, nor can he escape, but there's plenty of stuff going on outside the bubble, so all he can do is sit back and watch.

Realizing this, and being in my sophomore year, I've decided to keep track of anything remotely interesting or funny.

As I stepped through the doors for my first day of school this year, the realization suddenly swept over me: I was a JUNIOR. It seemed incredible to me. I remember being a little girl, looking up at the juniors at my school, and thinking, "When I'm a junior, just think how grown up I'll be." But as I prepared to become a junior myself, I couldn't imagine anyone looking at me in awe. I just didn't feel old enough. I knew that in less than two years I would be out in the world and it seemed amazing to me that in just a little while I would be on my own, all by myself. Along with these realizations, came another: junior year would be the most important of my scholastic career. Everywhere I went I was reminded that this was the year that I had to work hard, get ready, put my nose to the grindstone. In the first few weeks of school, I didn't want to think about it. Preparing for college nowadays is such a momentous, all-encompassing act, and I just didn't want to accept that pretty soon that would be my life. I still feel the same way a bit, but it isn't so overwhelming anymore. Now, I can at least bear to hear discussions about college, scholarships and everything that comes with it- but I still won't bring it up myself. Along with the change in my perspective, I also noticed a change in my teachers. For one thing, I was taking harder, more demanding classes. But also felt that, although I didn't feel like a junior myself, the teachers were treating me as an "adult." I say that tentatively because any teenager feels that they are not treated as grown up as they would like. But I feel that once a high-schooler crosses that two year mark and into junior territory, the teachers' perspective changes. Along with the constant reminders of the demands of junior year, in everything they said and did was the hint that we need The Grade, because "If anything matters at all, it is the grades we get junior year." It was as if another layer had been added to the already thick paint coat of power they possessed. With each passing day, I understood the added importance of each and everything that I did this year. As as I understood more and more, I began to accept the significance of junior year and although junior year was very different from the past two, and I felt the pressure on all sides, getting through the year was exciting. Junior year was definately worth the wait.

And so we talked all night about the rest of our lives Where we're gonna be when we turn 25 I keep thinking times will never change Keep on thinking things will always be the same But when we leave this year, we won't be coming back No more hanging out because we're on a different track And if you got something that you need to say You better say it right now cause you don't have another day Cause we're moving on and we can't slow down These memories are playing like a film without sound And I keep thinking of that night in June I didn't know much of love But it came too soon And there was me and you And then we got real blue Stay at home talking on the telephone with me We'd get so excited, we'd get so scared Laughing at ourselves thinking life's not fair And this is how it feels as we go on We remember All the time we Had together And as our lives change Come whatever We will still be Friends forever So if we get the big jobs And we make the big money When we look back now Will our jokes still be funny? Will we still remember everything we learned in school? Still be trying to break every single rule Will little brainy Bobby be the stockbroker man? Can Heather find a job that won't interfere with her tan? I keep, I keep thinking that it's not goodbye Keep on thinking it's a time to fly And this is how it feels As we go on We remember All the times we Had together And as our lives change Come whatever We will still be Friends forever We will still be friends forever Will we think about tomorrow like we think about now? Can we survive it out there? Can we make it somehow? I guess I thought that this would never end And suddenly it's like we're women and men Will the past be a shadow that will follow us 'round? Will these memories fade when I leave this town I keep, I keep thinking that it's not goodbye Keep on thinking it's our time to fly As we go on We remember All the time we Had together And as our lives change Come whatever We will still be Friends Forever

There are so many opportunities that await you as you build your life. Your confidence, self-esteem, family values & faith will be the solid foundation on which to build. Through all things... know that you are loved. Live your best life!!

Love, Mom & Dad

Sean Geyer

Congratulations! We are so proud of you!

With all our love,

Mom and Dad

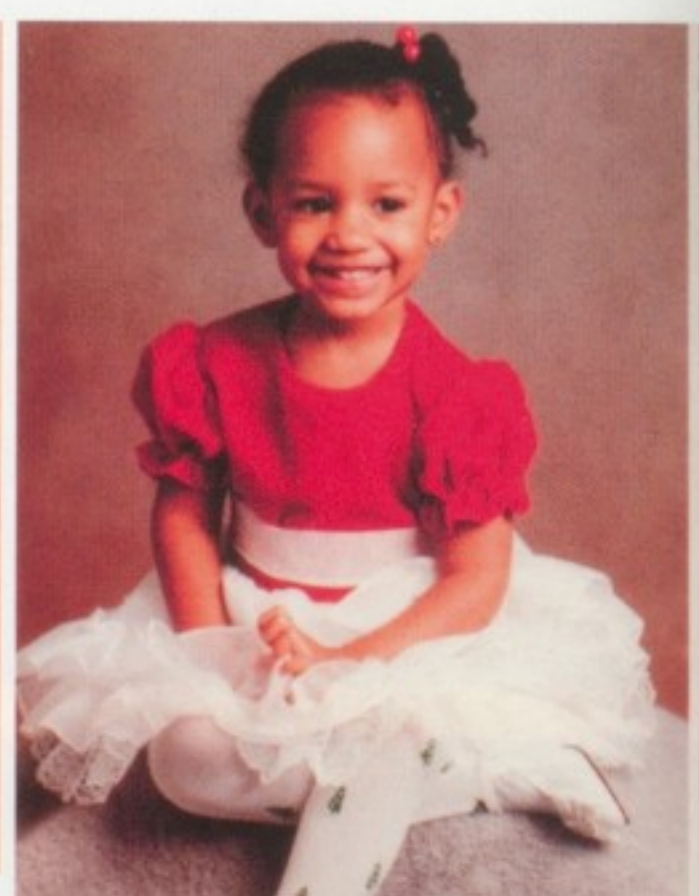

Lachelle Adams

Lachelle,
We are so proud of you! You have worked and accomplished much. Your positive attitude and determination will ensure your continued success in life. Your exuberant energy and enthusiasm is contagious. We are most proud of the fact that you are as beautiful on the inside as you are on the outside. You are fun-loving and warm and care for others. Keep shining that beautiful smile!

Love Mom and Craig

Robyn Allen

From a very thin-haired newborn, to a head full of hair you often fight with. From a toddler who refused to sleep all night, to sleeping until noon if we'd let you. From a chunky elementary school girl, to effortlessly petite and thin, but with the appetite of a grown man. You have grown into a young woman who is far more intelligent, fun, athletic, confident and beautiful than we could ever have imagined. Your accomplishments so far are only the beginning of the wonderful things in store for you. You are truly an amazing person and everything you need to continue on your road to success is already within you. Be true to yourself and to your dreams and know that we will always be here to guide you, support you, and love you..... no matter what. We are proud of you!

All our love, Dad and Mom

Cameron Bellamy

We are so proud of you; for all of your accomplishments, and even more proud of the fine young man you have become. You have a wonderful life filled with success ahead of you! Follow your heart and your dreams. Never compromise on what you believe in. The best is yet to come!

Always with love, Dad, Mom, & Mitch

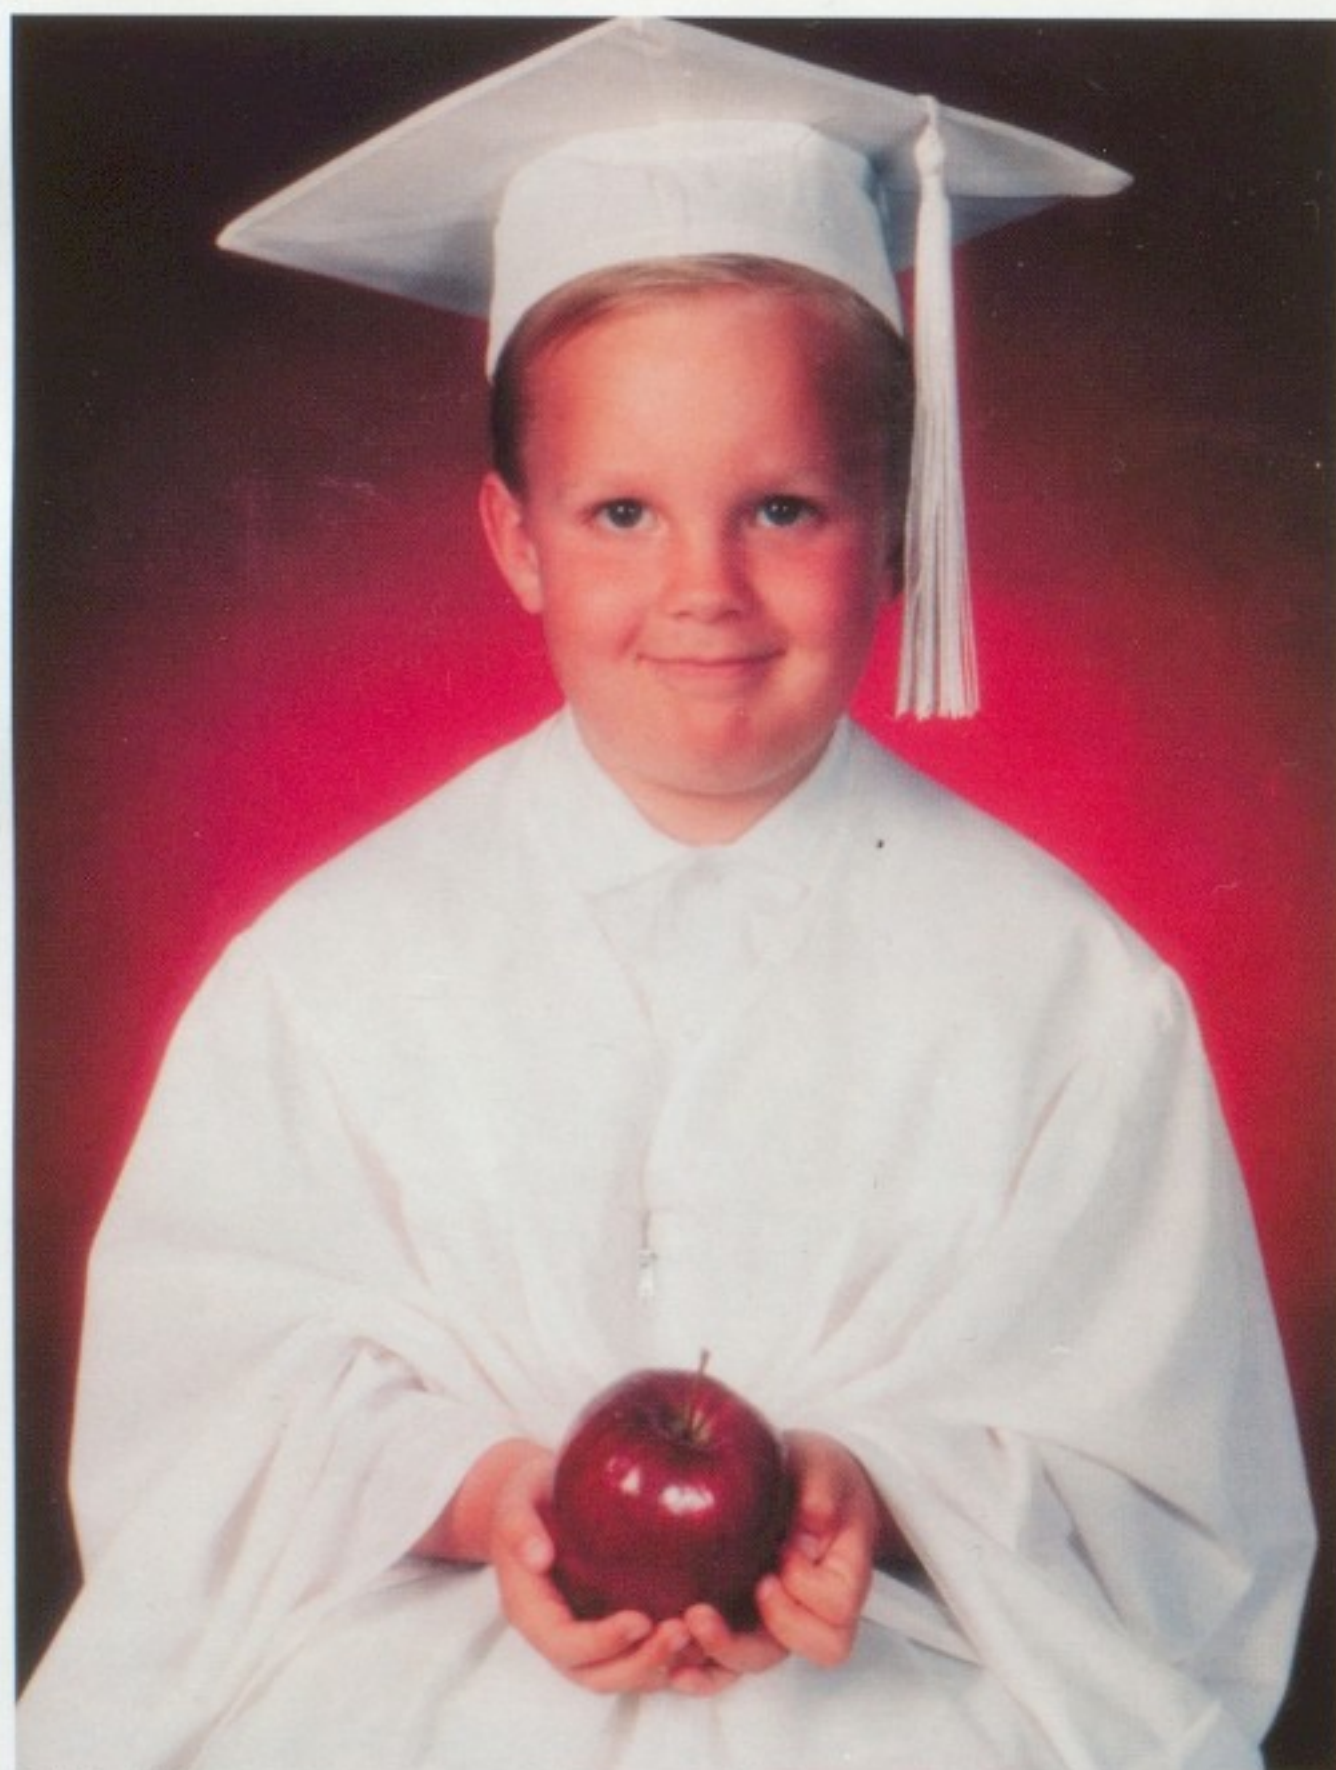

Allison Berger

Dear Allison- Reach for the stars. They are well within your grasp. We are so proud of the beautiful and talented young lady you have become.

All our love,
Mom and Dad

Michael Anderson

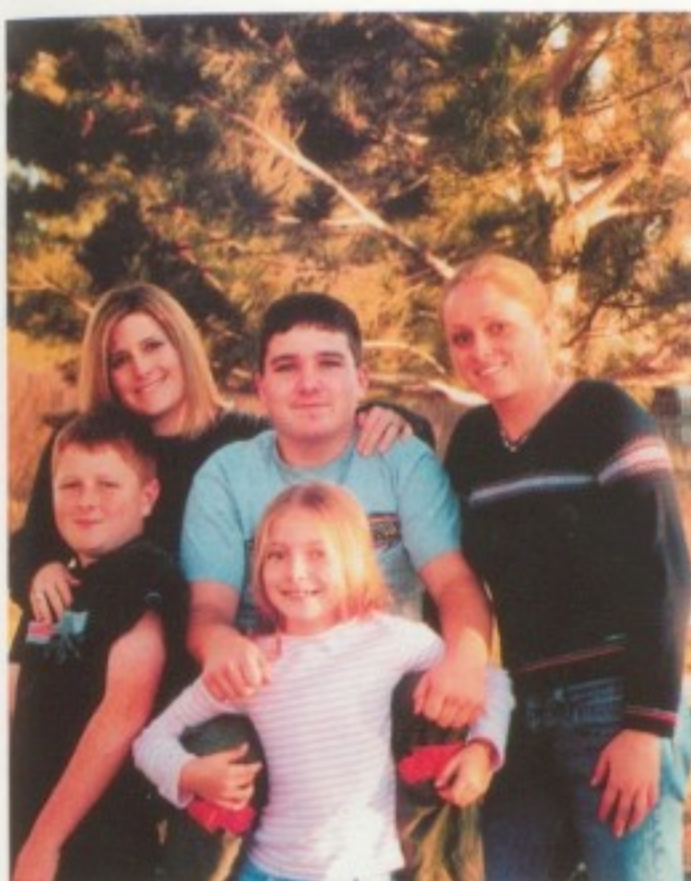

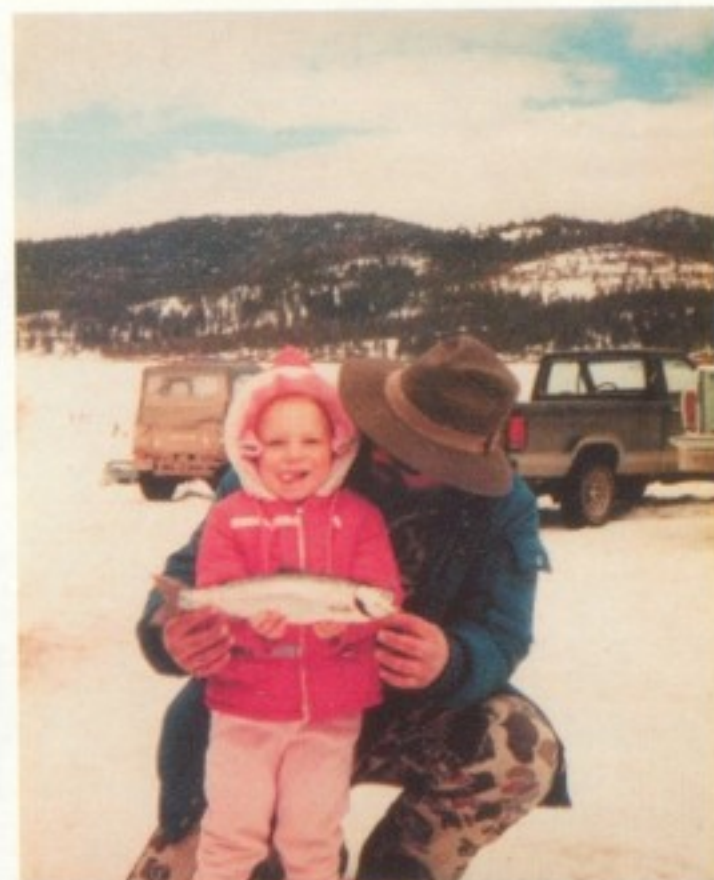

Bippitty, Boppitty, Boo from bumps and bruises, sports, and music lessons to the statuesque, young man you have become. We are so very proud of the outstanding, young man you have become. We are so excited about your bright future. We will always be there for you. As we tell you everyday, "We love you, son."

Love,
Mom and Dad

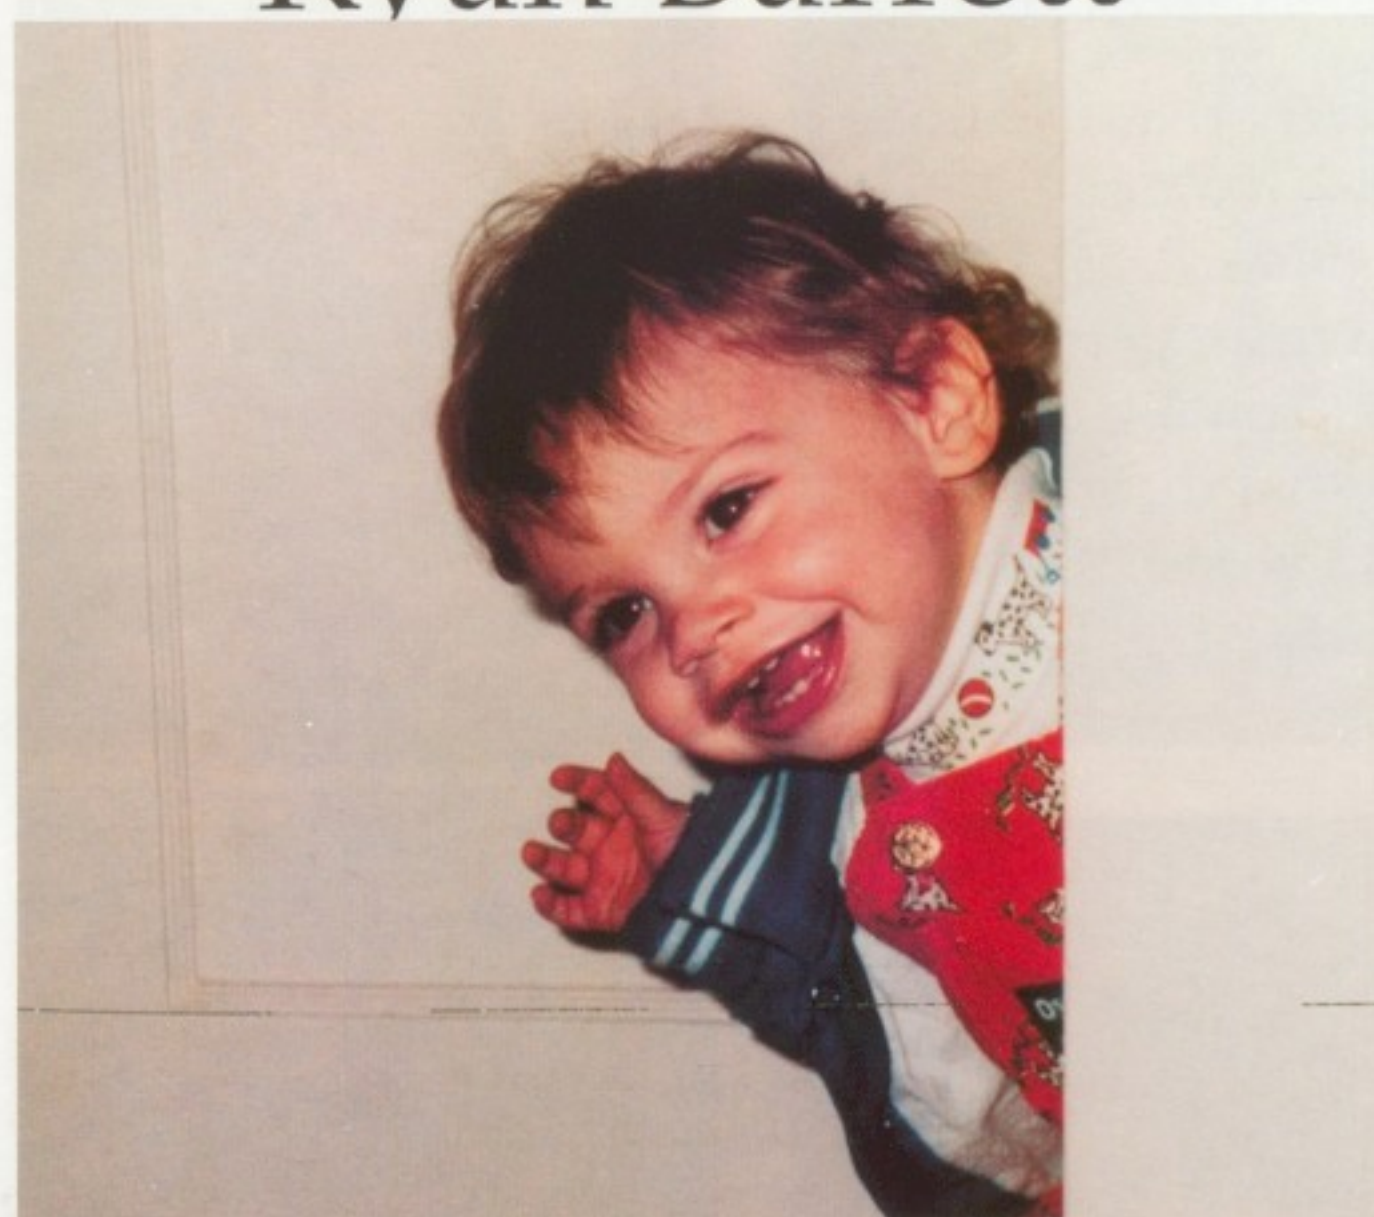

Jessica Bombard

Jessica Morgan Bombard Congratulations! We are truly proud of you. You have always achieved excellence. Follow your wonderful heart. Believe in yourself. Always remember how much we love and cherish you. Mom, Dad, Lisa, Nick, Ryan, and Isabella

Ryan Barrett

We remember when you were our little boy. An extension of our very being. Our every waking moment belonged to you. One night, when we called you to supper, you came to the table all grown up. Where did the in-between go? Suddenly, we were to let you go. Now, we should always call you our son, but in our hearts, you will always be our little boy. -D. Morgan Ryan, we love you so much and are so proud of you.
Love always, Mom, Dad, & JoJo

Hannah and Sarah Bellows

Congratulations on your upcoming graduation. For the past years, we have greatly enjoyed watching you grow from "diapers to diplomas." Hopefully, we've done our job right. You are beautiful, intelligent young women now and it's time for you to start making your own decisions. But know that we will always be here to help, all you have to do is ask.

Much love to you both,
Mom and Dad

Darby Boe

Darby

Congratulations Alex!
We are so proud of you! You have grown into a fine young man.
Continue to follow your dreams and accept no limits! We love you very much and always remember we will be here for you.

Love,

I admire...I only ask you that during your lifetime you continue to, "Nono'tsa Pesa Manne," Always try your best

Kelly Brisbios

Kelly,

The moment you were born, we know how lucky we were to have such a special daughter. As you grew, we watched with pride as you twirled batons, played basketball, and hosted the infamous tea party. Now that you are about to graduate, we are even more proud of who you have become. Your compassion for others, your determination to achieve (T.O. is still a possibility), and your outlook on life has made us realize how special you really are. You are beautiful not just on the outside but more importantly on the inside. We know you will reach all your goals in life and hope your future is bright, healthy, and happy. Always know we are here for you.

We love you- Mom & Dad

Kel,

Even though we argued a lot growing up, we still had some good times. I love you and I'm proud of you. Love, -Brian

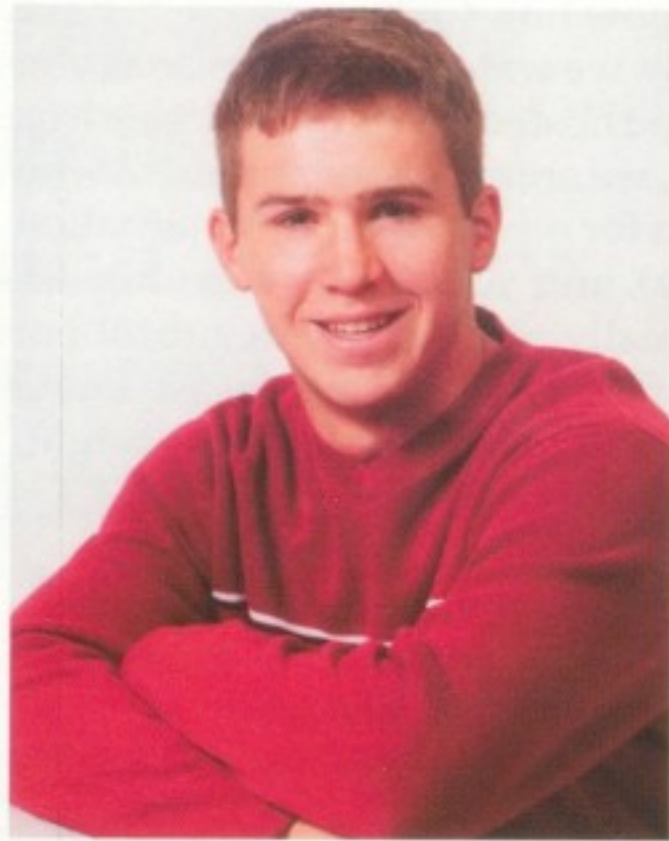

Nicole Brittain

Nicole, I am so proud of you. you amaze me in so many ways- the way you treat your family with love and respect, the wonderful way you are with children, your maturity in making good decisions, your sense of humor and your natural academic and athletic ability. I could never have asked for a better daughter. I thank you everyday. I know you will succeed in anything you put your mind to. -Love Mom

Congratulations Nicole! I'm so proud of your academic and athletic achievements, but most proud of your awesome character, integrity and honesty. Keep on the straight and narrow track, and the future is yours. I love you more than the weight of all the whales in the world, plus one aardvark. - love you always, Dad

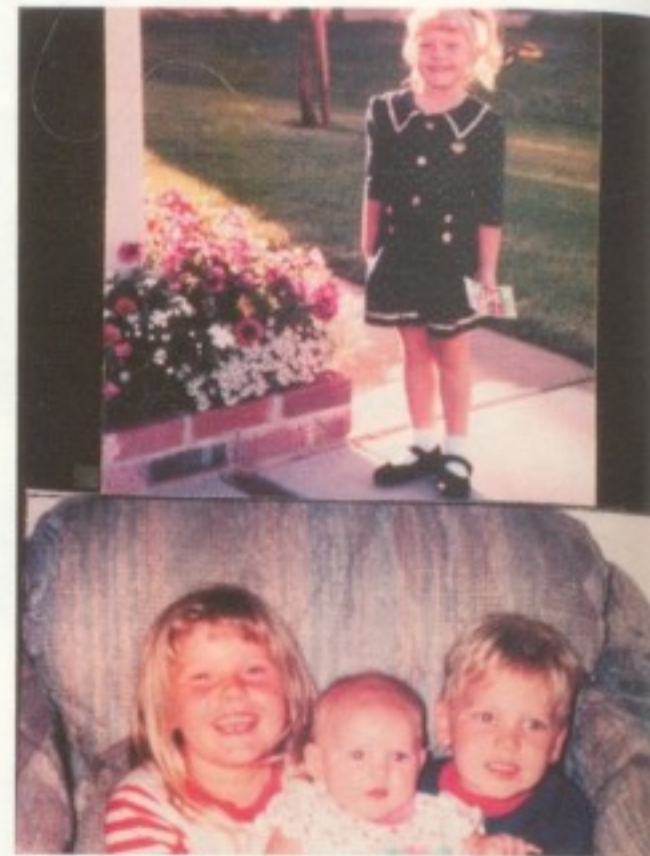

David Bolingbroke

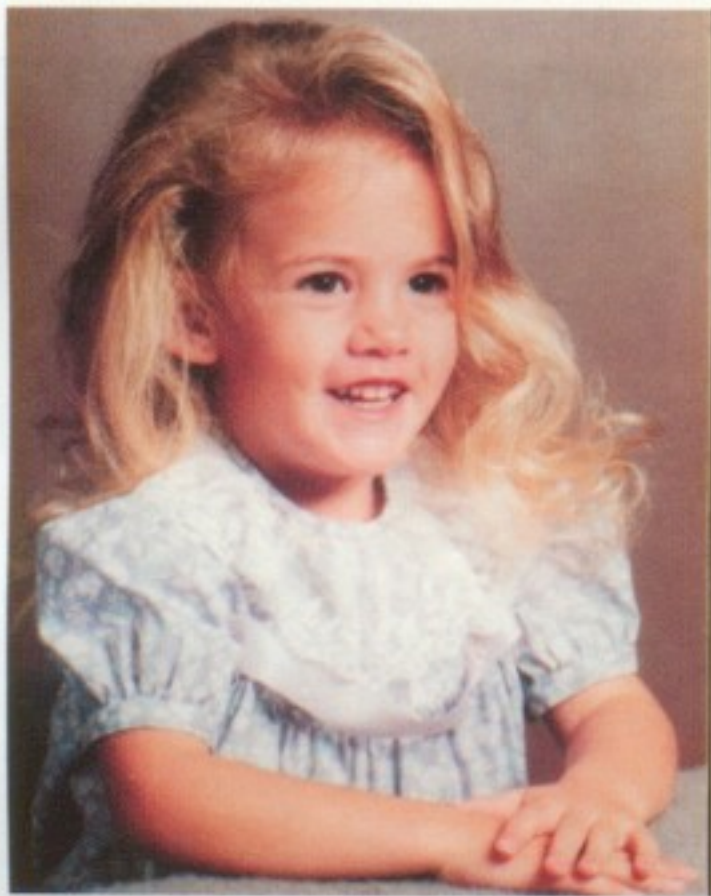

Congratulations David! We are proud of everything you have achieved in your life. You have never been afraid to stand up for what you believe. You are a young man of principle and we know you will excel in all you do. We have enjoyed following you in sports, music, and in year academic accomplishments. You have developed many alents. Thanks for being such a fine son, brother, and friend. We love you very much. Love, Mom, Dad, Sara, Adam, Joshua, Matthew, and Hannah

Megan Braunworth

It seems like only yesterday that we brought our beautiful little miss Megan home. You have given our family so much joy. Your beautiful smile lights up a room! You're kind, funny and loving. Our family has been truly blessed to have you in our lives. Your senior year is a stepping stone into the future. Hold your head high, follow your dreams, and remember you're never alone. God will take every step with you. Congratulations! We love you, Dad, Mom, Brandon and Courtney

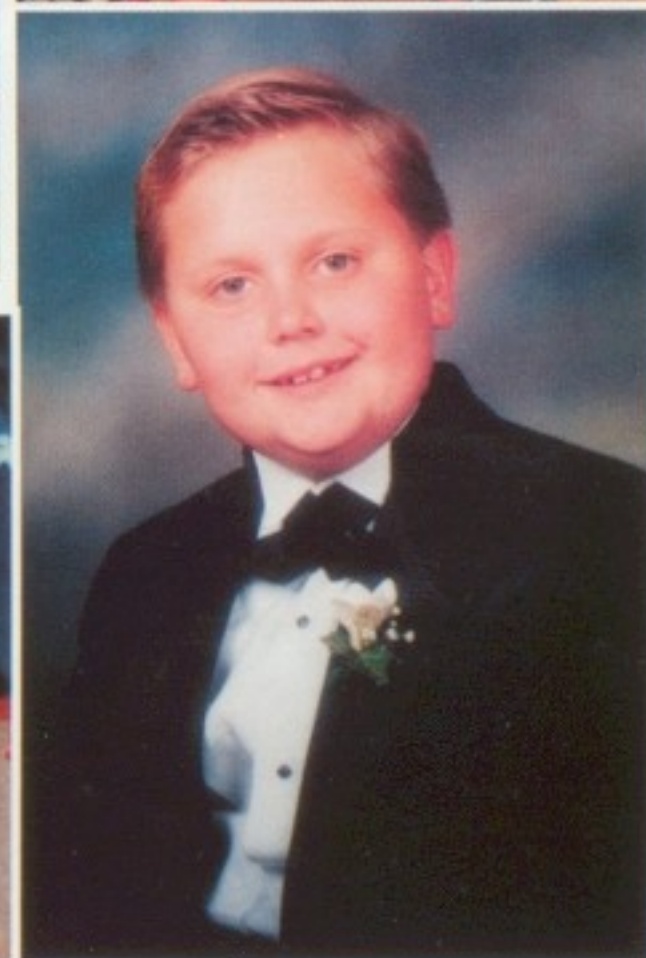

Ashlie Brown

Ashlie, You have turned into such a beautiful young lady. Your energy and dedication to life and the people around you always amaze us. You are a very caring person, looking to forgive and move forward. You have set your gaols , and no matter what you may encounter on the way, you do not give up! Your work ethics and strong personality will carry you far in life. We believe you can accomplish anything and everything you set out to do. We are so proud of you, and thank god for blessing us with such a wonderful daughter We love you so very much baby! Dad and Mom

Curtis Harvey

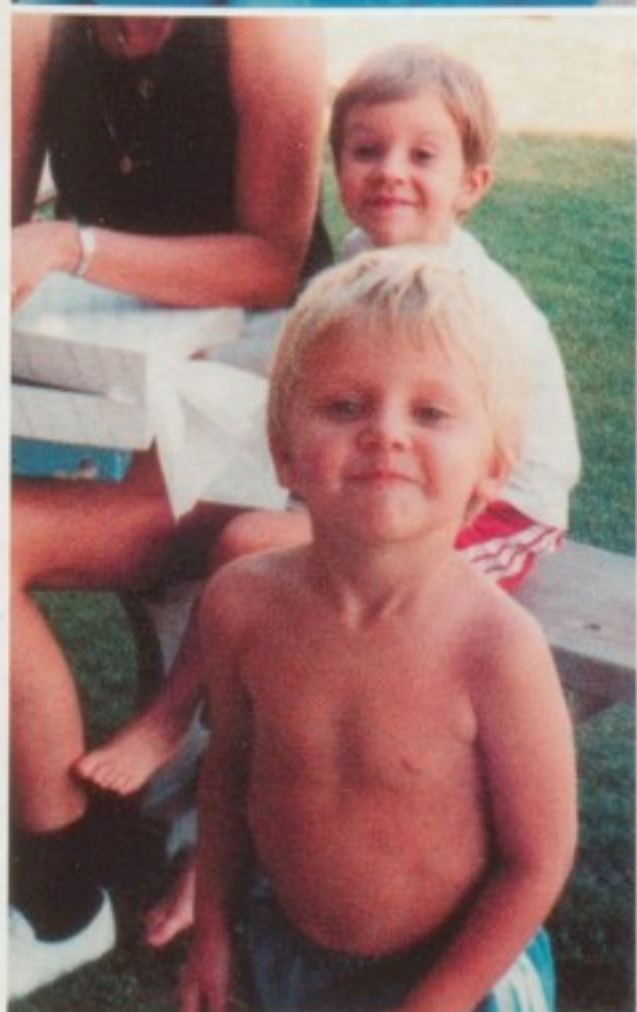

Curtis-

Gina Cabanilla

Gina-

These past two years with you have been so special and happy. You are finally done with high school; I know it has been tough for you, but I'm so proud that you did it. You have been my inspiration for all of my decisions and have kept me straight with everything. I have watched you grow into a smart, beautiful, and talented young lady, and looking at you for the past two years I have learned so much from you. I hope in the future you will be very successful. No matter what happens, I will always be there for all your decisions that you make. I love you always and forever my sweet cheeks.

Love,
Mark

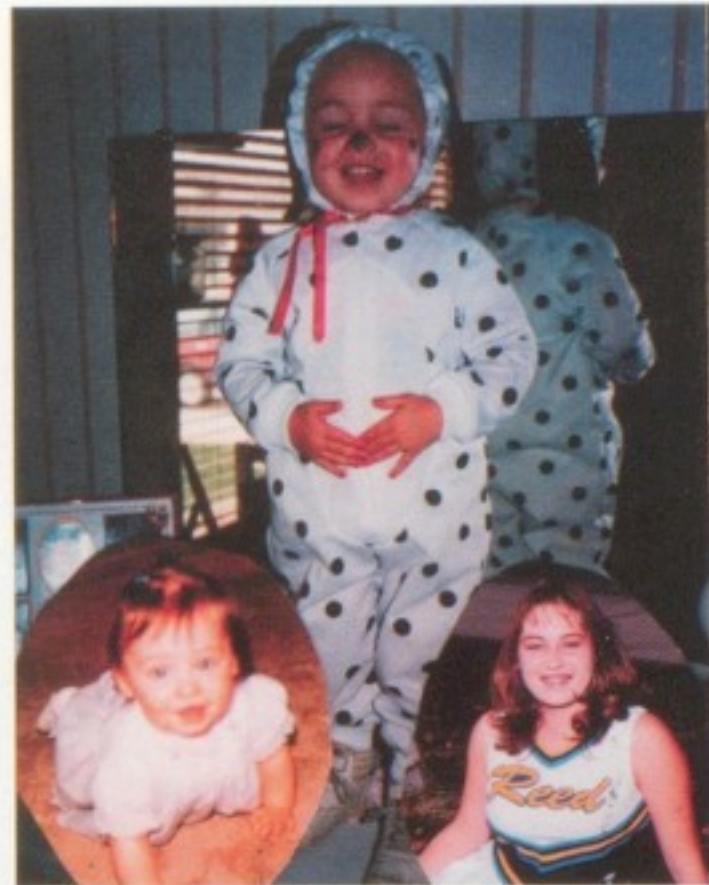

Kaitlin Canale

Congrats Katie Bug, we're so proud of how hard you've worked to achieve your goals. If you continue to use your strong will and determination you can achieve anything. We'll always be there for you with our love and support. You Go Girl!!

Love ya, Mattchu

"Life is just a mirror, and what you see out there, you must first see inside of you" Looking back at all the good times and memories we have created are great, but looking forward into times and memories we are going to have is even better. You are full of character and have so much potential and drive that you can offer to the world, that I know you will give your all. Not only knowing you, but believing in you I know you will succeed- I just want to let you know that I am really proud to say I am your brother- Good luck Sis, I love ya- Richard

Your special charm is just one of your unique qualities as a person. You bring special joy that comes from deep inside. As you grow into adulthood, you bring special joy into our hearts with pride. With every year that passes you are more special than before, through every stage and every age, we love you even more. The pride and gratitude that comes from having a daughter to love and cherish is as special as before. Shine bright Heather and go number "3" We love you with all out heart. Love Mom & Chuck "We celebrate you Heather"

Our sweet memory of special times with you was playing catch in the park, helping you get ready for softball and seeing how far you have come since then. Everything you did you put your heart and hard work into. You are a winner at everything you do. Granddaughters are special in so many ways, their gift of comfort will last for all our days.

Set no limits in your life and be the person that you are and every goal you will achieve being that person that you are!

We are so proud of you! We thank you and want the best for you.

Brittany Erickson

Brittany Amber Erickson~ You have been a beautiful surprise from day one! You have grown from that little girl who twisted her hair in knots and sucked your finger, into a wonderful enthusiastic young lady. You are a tender hearted person and try your best to help others. You have achieved many outstanding accomplishments throughout your youth, that have made us truly proud of you. You are a hard worker and have a true love of attitude. I feel you have good values and ethics to pursue the wonders of life and your wings Will allow you to soar high. Keep your expectations high and never settle for less what you really want in life. When the day comes and you leave our home, "I WILL MISS YOU!" Keep smiling that perfect smile. We love you, Mom, Kendra, and Tyler.

Brittany~the best of luck in your future, Britt, I will always be taller than you! I love you...Wyn

Brittany~ It seems only a short time ago since you were a cute little girl. Do you remember your first school bus ride?? That big bus...WOW! You have matured into a lovely young woman, made many good friends, Worked hard at school, cheerleading and softball. We wish You lots of happiness, love, and success in your future. We know you will continue to do well. Keep that beautiful smile always. Remember to stay PERFECT!! P.S. Reach for the stars... We love you, Grandpa Virgil & Grandma Ivy

Brittany- When you were born, Grandpa and I were so happy because we had another beautiful granddaughter! You have always had a wonderful smile along with being happy, hope that continues. Remember when you would come back for the summers and you dad had you driving the pickup in the field, so you learned how to drive. Where ever you found a cloud of dust you could find Brittany, because she flew across the field. Luckily we were all on the other side of the field! You are a very bright and beautiful young lady. Keep working hard to achieve all your dreams. I still want to live in Hawaii!! HE HE. All out love... Grandma & Grandpa Erickson

Our Dearest Meaghan,
Little did we now the full extent of how our lives were to be blessed the day you were born. You brought a brilliant excitement and a prominent focus to our daily lives, and more importantly, a parent's anticipation to the future. While thoughts of your early years brings only smiles today, at the time we anxiously wondered what you would be like as a teenager and what you would make of your precious life. Now, with great confidence we wonder no more about the prospect of your future. You have proven you character, and we are so very proud of the determined young lady that you have become. Your future is so bright and full of promise; and with the choices being yours' to make, we look forward to the next chapter in your life. You are a wonderful daughter, a beautiful young lady, and an encouraging promise to the future. We love you Meggers!

Amanda Macaluso

Dear Amanda,
The day my baby girl was the happiest day of my life. You were the cutest little baby, and before I know it, you grew into a beautiful and intelligent young lady.

Lauren & Rae Lathrop

Dearest Lauren-

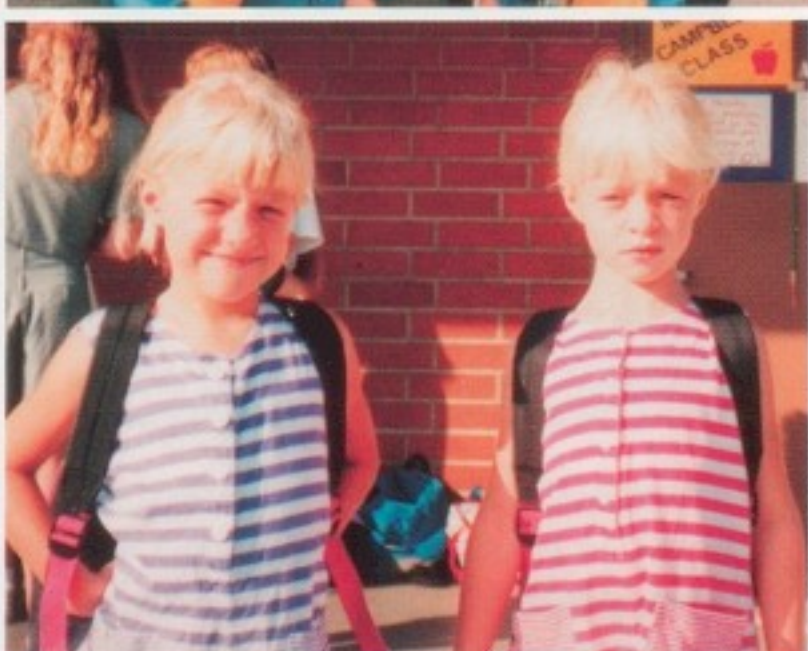

The last time I came close to writing you a letter like this was in 1988 in North Olmsted, Ohio when we were a bit overwhelmed and shocked to be the parents of two beautiful and intelligent two-year old toddlers. I remember wanting to tell you so much about our hopes for you and for the wide open future that you could be facing. Now it's obvious to me that your Mom and I have been the ones who have been learning about our own future. Our family has been such a wonderful and wide open experience because of your unique way of looking at things. You have taught me so much about music, books, self-expression and creative strength. It's a humbling thing to watch and listen as you continue to explore your universe and to take a new approach to sharing it with others. You've done such an amazing job of becoming friends with interesting people of all ages and backgrounds. Those relationships are the key to opening new doors and to quenching your constant desire to take a new road of discovery. Thank you for being an example to us and to others in your spiritual and worldly search for the honest and purest truth. Many years from now you can read this with your loved ones and remember the crazy Reed High says. Please take a minute between chuckles and remind them of how much we love you.

Always. Mom & Dad

Dearest Rae,

It's amazing to me that we're writing this note to such a beautiful and mature young woman... I don't have words to describe the amazing and wonderful journey you've taken from the cute blond kid to where you are now. I guess we've all changed a lot in that journey and I hope and pray that it's been as fun and exciting for you as it has been for your mom and me. I wonder about all the people reading this yearbook and how they have grown (and continue to grow) into the people who will soon be in charge of the world around us. We're so happy that you've made it through your Senior year and that you've made some solid decisions about dealing with the chaos we call modern life. Stay true to yourself and stay open to having some fun and making nonsense out of the pressure to make order out of everything. You're very smart in many different ways and that's better than any SAT or ACT Test score in your entire Class. Some people will tell you to "don't change" as you enter the next phase of your life. They want to keep the sweet, quiet, smart and wonderful young girl exactly the way she is now. We are eager and excited about the new directions your life will take, and we support and embrace the changes that you will bring on yourself and the world around you. Thanks for being a great example for us, and don't forget our retirement fund when you patent that cure for cancer! We love you! Mom & Dad

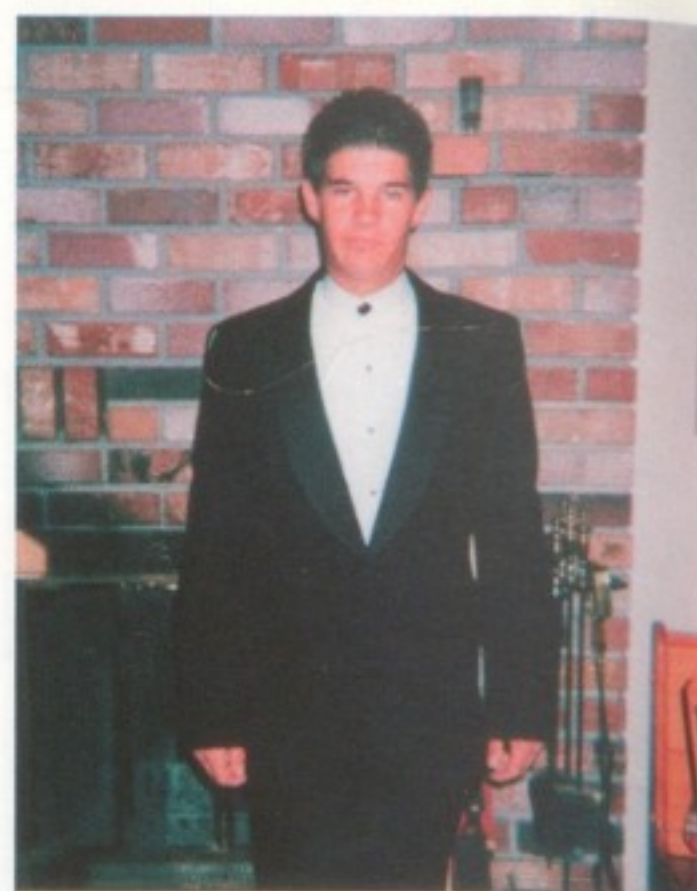

Kyle Masterpool

Your graduation is a celebration for our whole family. We've watched you grow from a little boy playing GI Joe's with Dad to a young man ready to take on the world. It's been an adventure with a new challenge just around the corner. The future is yours! Love,

Jean Lee

To our wonderful daughter Jean: Congratulations!!! Yesterday, a little girl, today a beautiful young lady. You have filled our lives with such joy, we're proud of you. We love you more than anything. Reach for your dreams, the world is yours.

Love Forever,
Mom, Dad and Wan

Jeana Lee, Finally, you are out of high school! I'm so glad you made it through without getting into too much trouble. Seriously though, I'm very proud of you. I hope you will be happy in all the decisions you make.

Your too cool sister (jk)

Thomas Mansfield

It is still hard to believe that our cute little boy has now grown into a handsome young man. It seems like yesterday that we were waving goodbye to you as you embarked on your first day of kindergarten. Now you are all grown up and graduating from high school. Where did the time go? We are always in awe of your intelligence and your kind spirit. You have such a great sense of humor and you have made us laugh since the day you were born.

The joy you have brought to our lives is overwhelming and we feel blessed to be your parents. We know you will have success in whatever the future holds for you. Remember to follow your dreams and everything else will fall into place. We love you very much. Congratulations- YOU DID IT!!

-Mom and Dad

Zack May

We were so proud of you the day you were born, and we are still proud 18 years later. You've always shown good judgement, from your first friend in kindergarten (Ryan), to your first love (Mandi). Keep making the right choices and nothing can stop you. We love you (and your friends). Mom & Dad

Gina McCormack

From infant to child to daughter to young adult. I thank the lord for Gina every day. What a ride!!!

Love You,
Papa

To my Gina,
From the first moment I saw you a flood of emotion filled my heart; everything from love to worry to always wanting to protect you. You have grown into a beautiful young woman with a smile that lights up the room. I pray that all your heart desires are fulfilled. I'm so very proud of who you have become.

Love always,
Mom

Gina,
It's been a long, great road in our relationship for you to get here. I wish it were five more years.

Love,
Raquel

I love my beautiful sister, I love you so much, and I want to go with you everywhere and play games with you when I get home from school

Love
Little Sis-babe

Gin,
There's so many things. Danananana...I love you

Sare

Gina,
I'll always care for you and love you.

Lindsay Maurins

Our little girl- and little sister- is all grown up. We are very proud of the person you have become and of everything you have accomplished, and we know this is just the beginning! You are a warm, bright, funny and caring young woman, and it's a joy to have you in our lives. We know you can do anything that your heart desires. We wish you happiness and success in your future, wherever it may lead.
Mom, Dad and Andrew

Jamie McGregor

Thank you for being the patient, caring, loving, and gorgeous girl that you are. You have truly shown me what love is and can do in any situation. No matter what you decide to do, you will be unstoppable and successful.

I love you "pumps"
Love always,
Jeramie "Luvey-Bear" Lu.

Bethany Michaels

Dear Bethany,

From a baby girl
in pretty dresses to
a style all of your own.

From ballet, piano,
singing, theater
and soccer, life was a whirlwind.

Your personality will take you anywhere you want to go.

We love you and are proud of you.

We planted the roots
now take to the wing
and soar.

Jeremy Merlino

Jeremy,
No parents could ask for a better son! We are so proud of you! No matter what you choose to do in life, we know you will succeed because you always give 110%. So remember, focus, focus,
focus, and git er done!
Love Mom and Dad

Big Bro,
We've laughed, we've cried,
and we've fought...but I am so proud of the wonderful person that you are today and I will be happy if I turn out to be half the person you have become. I wish you the best of luck in the future
and I know you'll do great.
Love always,
Your Little Sis

Jared Painter

Jared,

These last 5 years have been so enjoyable for me. Watching you grow and mature these years has been both enjoyable and adventuresome. Get ready for another exciting time in your life with college. Jared, you and your mom have been the best things to happen to me and I hope that the future will be bright for you in whatever you plan to do with your life.

- Paul

Jared,

May all your dreams and hopes come true.

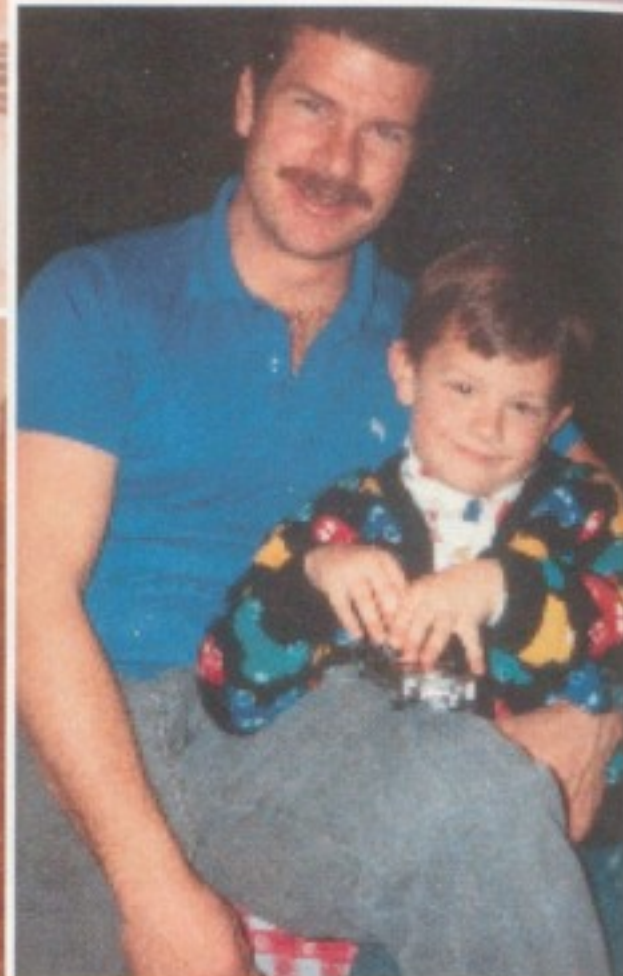

Jared,

This is very hard for me. As you know, I am not very good with words, but at this very special time in your life I do have a few things to say to you. Looking back over the last 18 years, the first thought that comes to me is gratitude. I am so grateful that you, your mom, and your dad, while he was here, have allowed me to share in every part of your life. We have had a very special and close relationship from the day you were born. You bring sunshine just by walking in the room. You make me laugh. You make the world a better place just by being in it. I know that as you go out into the world on your own, no matter what you do, you will leave your mark. I wish for you all the things you have given me; pride, happiness, laughter, and most of all love. I wish you success in whatever you do. Remember I will always be here for you and you will always be my very special baby boy. You are truly the "sunshine of my life"

I love you,

Gram

P.S. None of this would be complete without a thought from your Dad. I remember your dad on the day you were born. You were the center of his world. He looked at you with such pride, excitement, love, and hope. On graduation day, know that he is looking down on you with that same pride, excitement, love, and hope and saying but one word. PERFECT!

Jared,

What a ride we've had together! You are, always have been, and always will be everything to me. You've made me so proud of you. I know your Dad would be just as proud. You are everything I could have ever wanted in a son. You always know how to make me smile with your crazy antics. From t-ball to baseball and bowling to football it has all been a great bunch of fun that I wouldn't have missed for anything. I know you will do great things in the future. Be strong, believe in yourself, be honest with yourself and others, always remember who you are, and never give up on your dreams. Remember, life is a journey, enjoy the trip.

All of my love,

Mom

Jared,

My heart sees a baby boy, the youngest of our three. Days at the park, feeding the ducks or climbing the apple tree. A blink of the eye and it's your graduation day. We've shared your life from the start. We wish you success, happiness, all the best, and that you'll always keep a smile in your heart.

Way to go!

Love, Nana and Uncle Johnny

Hey, Robot! I can't believe you've already made your way through your time at Reed. You are one of the most hilarious, intelligent, caring and downright crazy people I know and I'm totally proud to be able to call you my brother. Continue your piratic-robotical rampage of excellence. VLL, -Mark

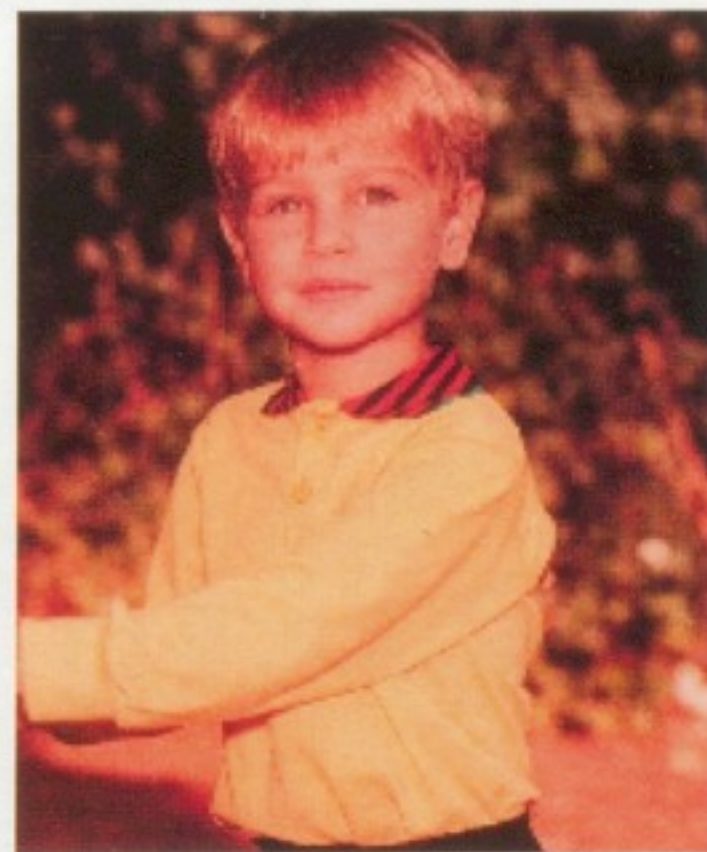

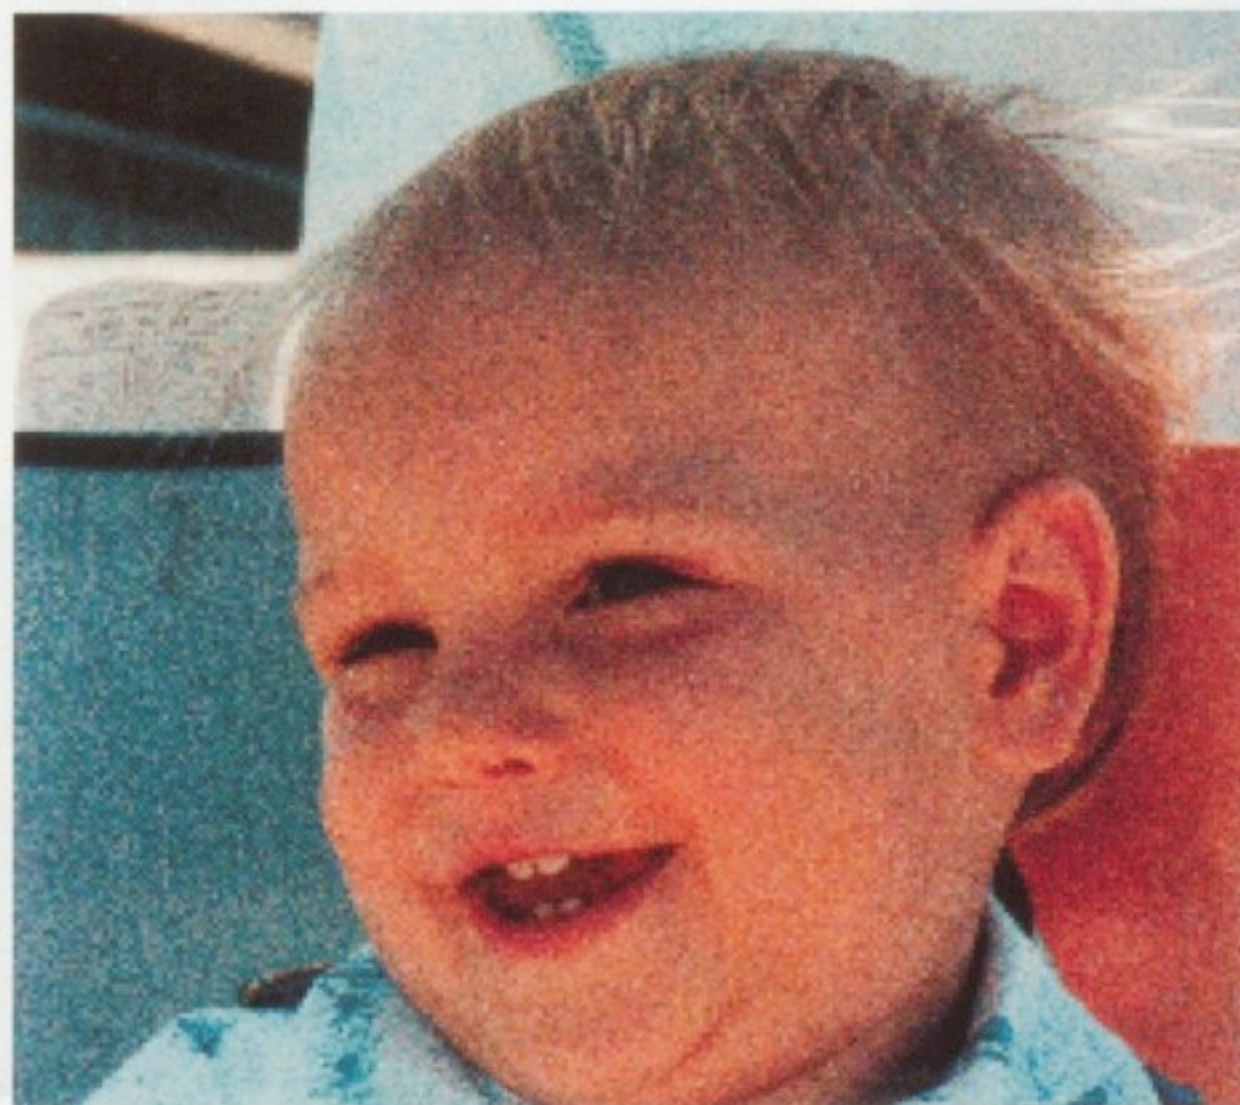

Lana Zenz

Congratulations, Jeff! You've done it -- and we could not be prouder! Now it's on to the next big adventure and we know you'll be up to the challenge. Let your wonderful sense of humor and occasional silliness temper whatever life throws your way. Let your love of sports and teamwork stay with you and lend itself to work and personal relationships. Work hard at college and your career-- and remember, WE LOVE YOU!!! Mom and Dad

Brett Metter

We are proud of what you have accomplished. Now you can strive towards your future with all your fun loving creativity. We love you and want the best for you. Mom, Dad, Lauren, Grandma, Nanny and Grandpa

Ashley Van Brocklin

Ashica,

It was not so long ago we were singing silly songs and reading "Angus Lost"... It's scary how quickly time goes by. From the moment you were born you've been our bright and shining star, bringing with you immeasurable joy. We are so proud that you are truly your own person, blessed with inner and outer beauty. Go out and make your mark on the world "Tinky!"

Love you always,

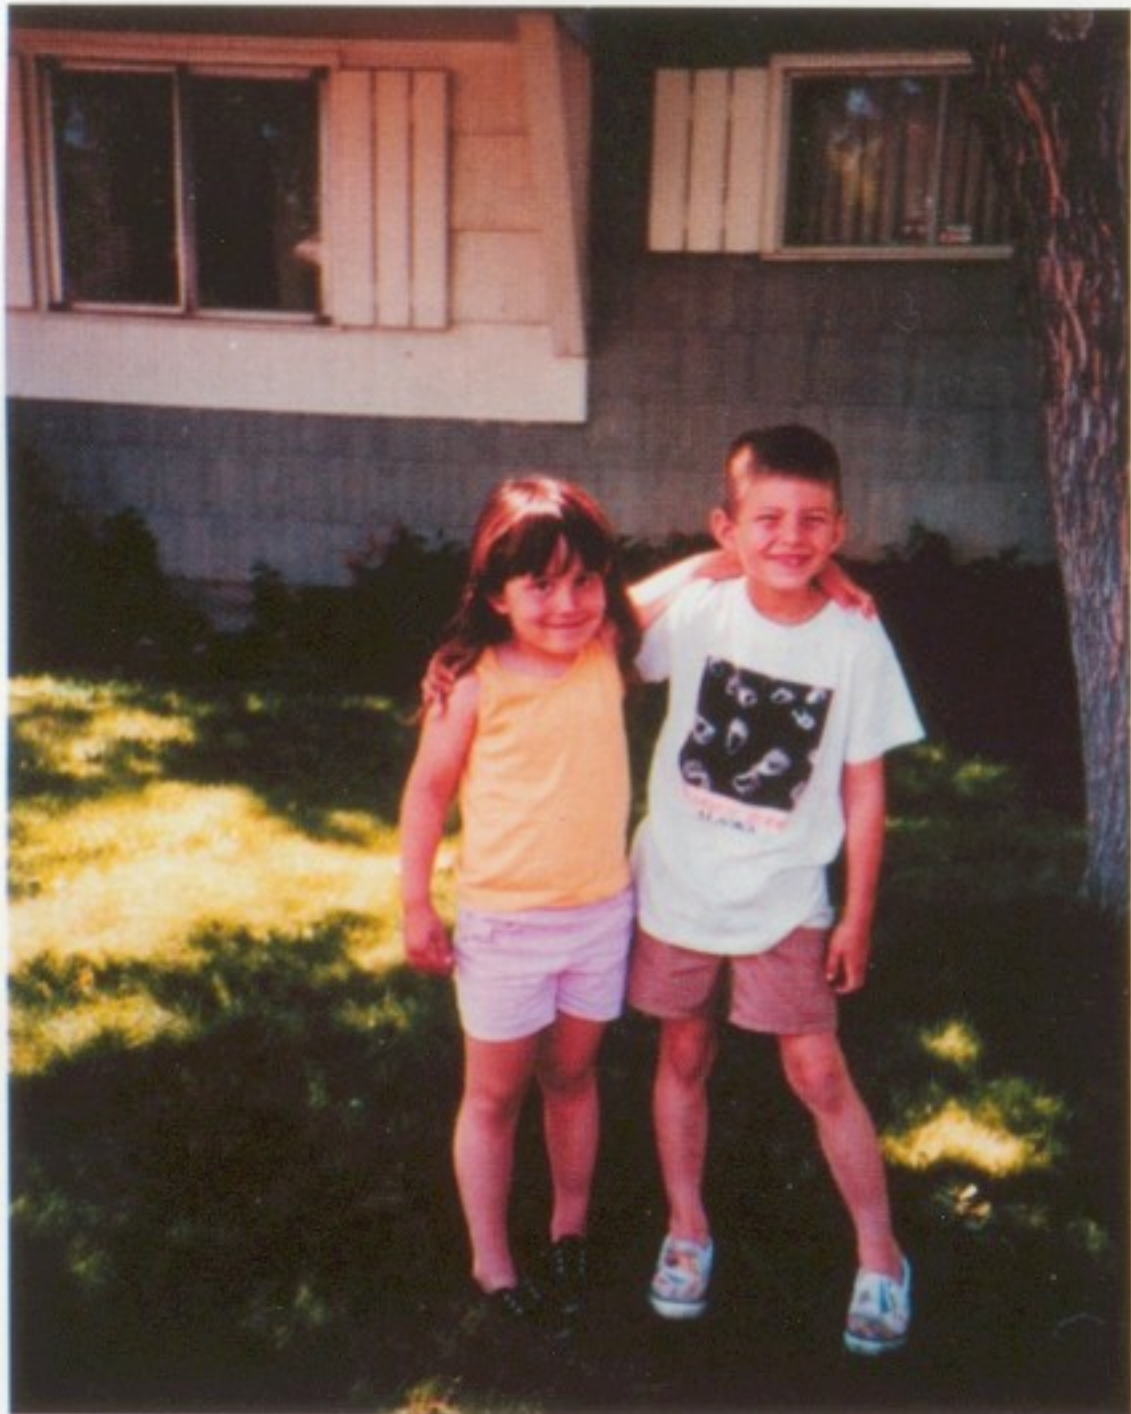

Mom + Dad

Miss Ashley,

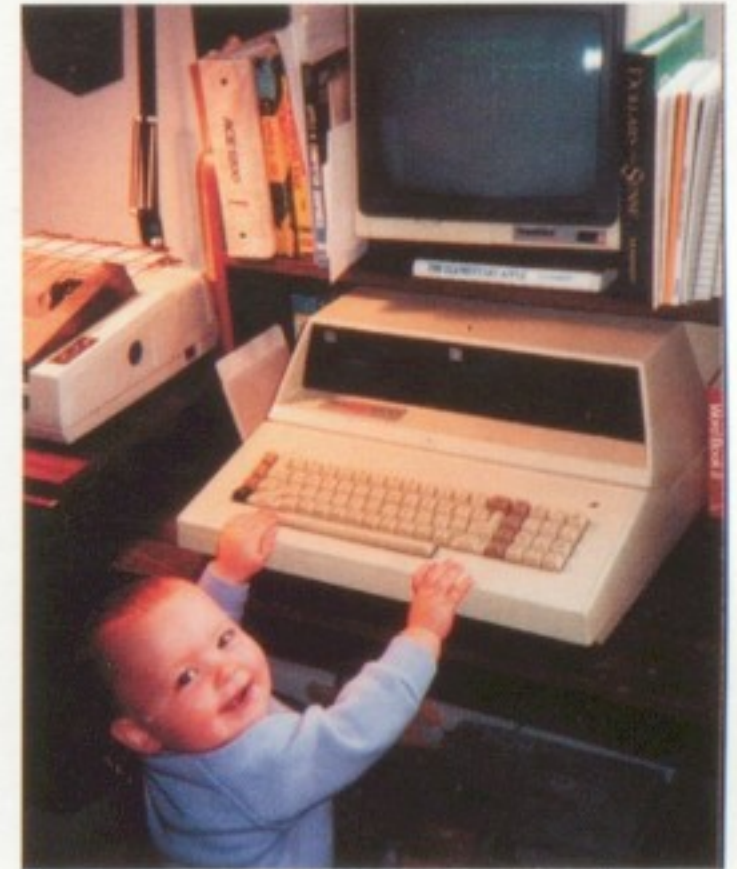

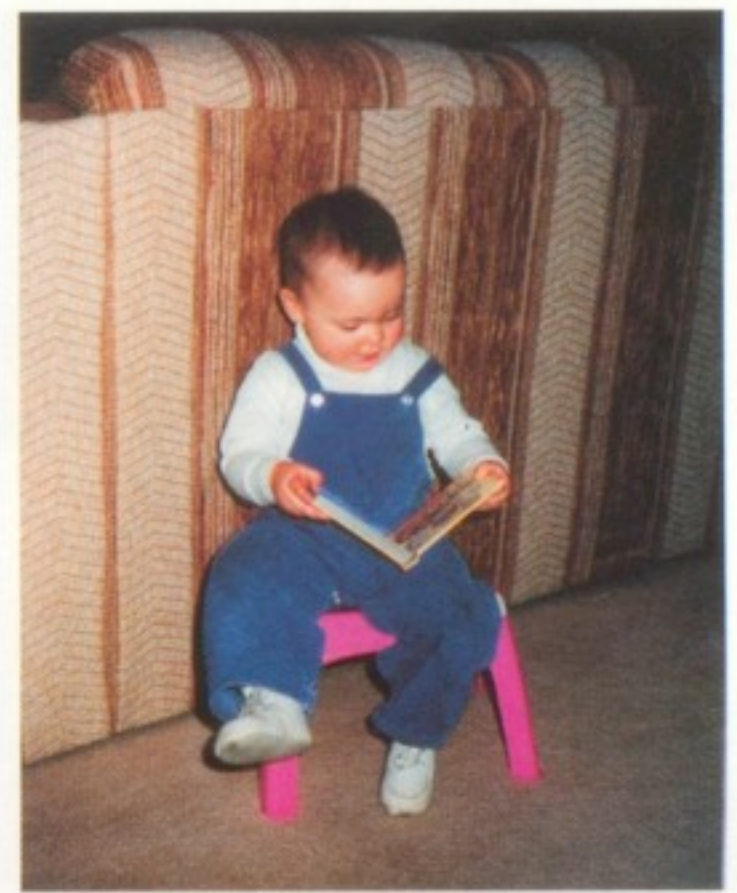

You are sunshine, laughter, hope, and the future. We are so very proud that you're ours.

We love you, Mom, Dad and Donny

Nich O'Neil

Well, you finally made it and I am so proud of you. In the last 17 years you and I have gone through so much together. I can't even explain it all because it would take up too many pages, but I will never forget anything that has happened. You are the best big brother I could have ever asked for and if you weren't in my life I don't know what I would have done. No matter what I will always be here for you and I wish you the best of luck in all your life experiences. Love Always, Your little sister -Janaay

We are extremely proud of your accomplishments. You are blessed with talents both artistically and athletically. However, we're most proud of who you are as a person. You've set high standards on how you live your life. Your understanding, compassion, and respect for others is priceless. We all love you and will always be there for you.

Love- Dad, Mom, Ben, Stef, Oscar, Meka, and Kenya

I can't believe the little girl who used to cry for hours at Mama Louisa's when Dad dropped us off id graduating high school. You have grown from a quiet, shy little dork, into a beautiful, strong young lady. Always remember to keep your head up as high as you enter the next stage of your life
With much love and support,
Thaibinh

Randi Porto

Since the day you were born you have been a parent's dream. You were a good baby, sleeping all night, not crying. Now that you have become a beautiful young lady you are making up for that keeping us up all night waiting for you to get home. But you continue to be a parent's dream, getting good grades, being very responsible, holding a job, and most of all being a loving daughter. We know that you are going to continue to make us proud by excelling in everything you do and by NEVER moving out! We are and always will be very proud of you Ranni. We love you more than you will ever know,. Love Always,
Mom & Dad

Aubrey Shaffer

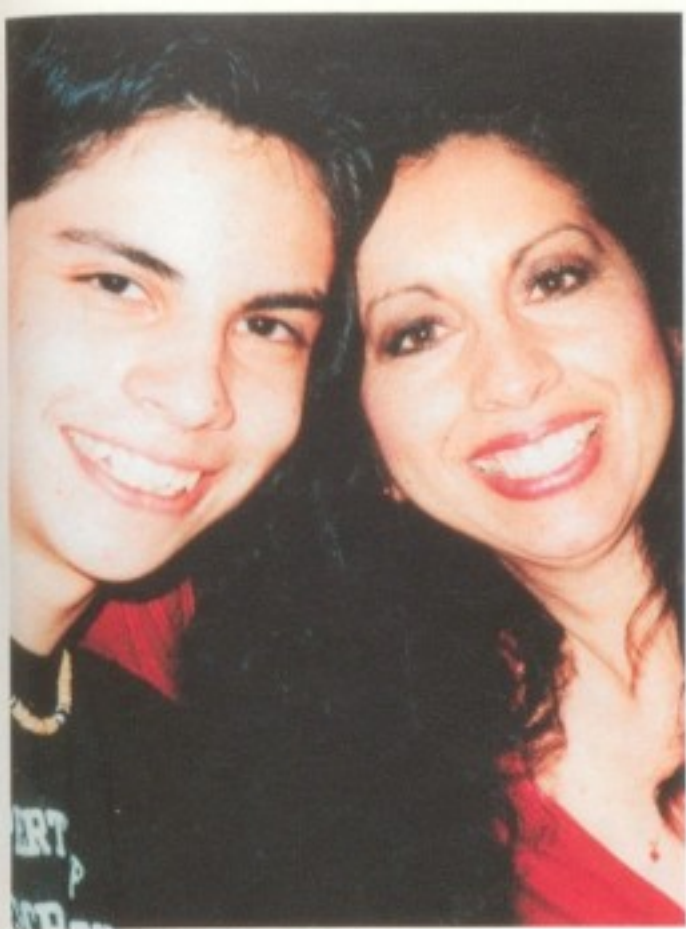

To a great daughter and sister, Aubrey, I can still remember when you were little and such a tomboy. You could do anything the boys did and most of times better than them. Now you are a beautiful and a smart young lady who has overcome all the adversities that life had dealt you. Even though your Dad has not been here for the last three years, I'm sure he is looking down from Heaven and saying "Good job Tiny Tot." Bryan and I are so proud of you and we will always be there for you. Love, Mom & Bryan

To our very special grand-daughter and niece, Aubrey Shaffer. You are an amazing young lady, very beautiful both inside and out. A lovely smile and gorgeous blue eyes and platinum blonde hair. You have more courage and stability than most girls your age and you will be a big success in life. You are so strong! God made an extra special piece of art when he put you together and I am so glad he gave you to us.

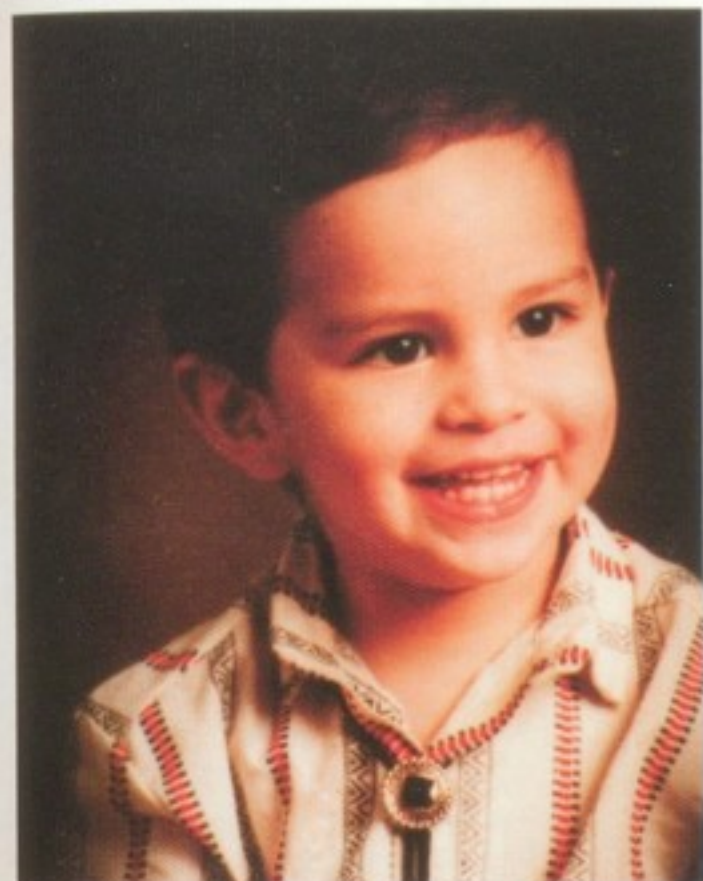

Love you, Grandma Joyce and Aunt Rebecca

Alexis Sanchez

Rex, Congratulations on a job well done. I see all the beatings I gave you finally paid off. Just kidding! I'm very proud of you. Love, Huggy Bear - Lex, Since the day you were born you've always been my best friend. I'm so proud of you for overcoming countless obstacles and being stronger for it. Remember to get a whiff or biff, look out for lil' gruesome, dance to microsreens, eat you cheerios, & you'll be fine.- Love and luck, Nanny -Son., Celebrate! Remember to listen to all kinds of music, dance when you feel, and keep your heart warn. You will continue growing and being the wonderful person you are.

Love you too much and forever, Mom

Melissa Shuster

Melissa,

Well, what can we say? You have grown into the most beautiful person, inside and out. We are so proud of you and who you've become. We know the move back to Reno was hard on both you and Danielle, but in the end I think it has strengthened you and given you a strong sense of self. This also proved you can accomplish anything you set your mind to, regardless of the obstacles in your way. This will hold true for your future, although it is unknown at this time, we know you will continue to be someone we are very proud of. Always know that no matter what life sends your way, we will always be here for you. We love you so very much and pray that all your dreams come true. Also remember, you have angels above who will continue to look over you and help guide you through this next phase of your life, loving you as we do.

-Mom & Dad

Melissa,

I love you so much and am so proud of you! You are one of the most beautiful people I know. I hope that no matter what path you choose in life, you are happy. I am so glad that we have the relationship we do, and I can't wait to get even closer as we get older. -Danielle

Miss Mallory,

The day you entered the world, we knew a star was born. Your blue eyes danced into our life and they just keep on dancing. You have brought so much music into our life. We love to hear you play your piano and watch you sing in the choir. We admire your ability to always find time for others and to help with all the youth. Watching you grow into a beautiful young lady has been pure joy. Always remember where you're from and where you are going. The stars in the sky shine bright, but you are the brightest. Continue to make great choices and the world will be yours. With all our love...

Mom, Dad, Chris & Wendi

You're A Star!

Carla Wheeler

I look back on my life and I realize I wouldn't change it for the world. Why, because you were in it. You were always there for me and my time with you will affect me forever. You have taught me so much and I wouldn't be the person I am today if it wasn't for you. We have laughed together (a lot), and cried together, and you've offered me such comfort and hope.

Carla,

Hey Mini-me you're an inspiration to many, and even though I have to look down at you I really look up to you. I am very proud of you for doing so well and keeping your focus on the ultimate goal. I thank God every night for the gift of a sister such as you. I know that no matter what you do with your life you'll be successful. Don't lose your will to succeed and don't forget to keep your focus on the Word. I don't care what anyone says about you, you are alright. You are my favorite sister.

Love you, Brother Wheels

You are a brave, courageous, extraordinary person and I admire you. The sky's the limit. You have multiplied the good in life and divided its evil. To find a real friend is good fortune, to keep her is a blessing. I love you "sexy monkey!!!"
-your best friend for life,

Jessica

Carla Wheeler

Carla,

Words cannot describe to you or the rest of the world what a beautiful person you are, not just on the outside, but more so on the inside. You have such a sweet spirit and unfortunately that is what people take advantage of. You are the best daughter we could have ever wished for and we are so proud of you. We pray that you allow God to fill your life with all he has planned for you. Remember to always focus on Him and everything else will fall into place.

All our love,
Mom & Dad

Tara Quigley

You have always made me proud. You are the best thing that has ever happened to me. Throughout your entire life, you have always been daddy's little girl. And when you were younger, we would spend lots of time doing all the things you loved most. I did so much for you because of the fact that you were such a good little girl. One that always looked out your sister and listened to me and your mother without having to be told twice. You have always had a great attitude towards life even when the going got tough. Keep your head up because you have a tremendous amount of ability and determination. You impress me with every report card because each one shows just how very conscientious and hard-working a student you are. I am amazed by your accomplishments, but this is of your own doing and fortitude. Your integrity, loyalty, and intelligence has made you a wonderful role model to your younger sister and those around you. You are extremely serious as a student and very focused on your goal to become a world class chef. You know that it has always been a dream of mine and I can only hope that you will fulfill that ambition for the both of us. You will always be my little beep-bee. I Love You So, Dad

-I am so proud of you. You have grown into a beautiful young woman. You are the kind of daughter that everyone dreams of having. You are loving, kind, responsible, and always look forward to the nights when you make dinner. The times that we spend together mean a lot to me. You have a great sense of humor and you always make me laugh. You work so hard in school and have maintained excellent grades. You will be successful in everything that you do. It's time for you to go off and make a difference in this world and fulfill your dreams. Remember that your family is behind you and we will always support you. Love, Mom

-It's been 10 years since I came into you, your sister, and your mother's lives. I can't believe you are already going to be a senior. I've always felt like you are my own daughter. You are so kind, sweet, lovable, and most of all, you know how to treat everybody with so much respect. That is a great quality you possess. You have made your mother and my life so much easier by just being such a wonderful young lady. Keep up the good work, not only in your studies but also being the super neat person that you are. Always follow your dreams. I know you will be successful at anything you do. Thank you for being such a GREAT daughter. Love Always, Mark

Jessica, My favorite quote describes the way I feel about you. "If all my friends jumped off a cliff, I wouldn't jump with them; I'd be at the bottom to catch them." You are, without a doubt, my best friend. I love you like a sister. And sisterly love never dies. I'm so happy I've been able to spend (almost) 5 years with you right by my side. We have so many great memories, funny, sad and some not so good memories. Your friendship means the world to me. I don't know what I would do without you with me. If I lost you, my life would not have as much meaning. Thank you for always being there when the sky was gray. I hope our friendship never dies, just like the love I have for you, my sister. Love Always, Your sexy monkey, Carla

Sophie Wong

Sophie,

We are so proud of you for your accomplishments in the High Schools years. All the tears, laughs, and every single past moment will give you a wonderful and unforgettable memory. Enjoy your life and accomplish your goals. Your dreams will come true. You're always one of our proudest babies.

Love,

Nick Tangen

Nick, You have filled my life with music, laughter, and sunshine. Haven't you changed from that very first step you took, to now as you walk down the aisle to get your diploma. You've grown from my little boy with Ninja Turtles, buffalo, Little League baseball, and basketball, to a talented musician. Throughout all these wonderful years I have had the blessing of being your mom and you have made me so proud. We have been together on many journeys, and I look forward to the future and what is ahead for you. Whether it's Hollywood or Hawthorne, you will always shine to those who love you. Reach for the stars, but keep your feet on the ground, and always remember to trust your heart. Live your life to the fullest. Carpe Diem my Rock-n-Roll son. Love Always,

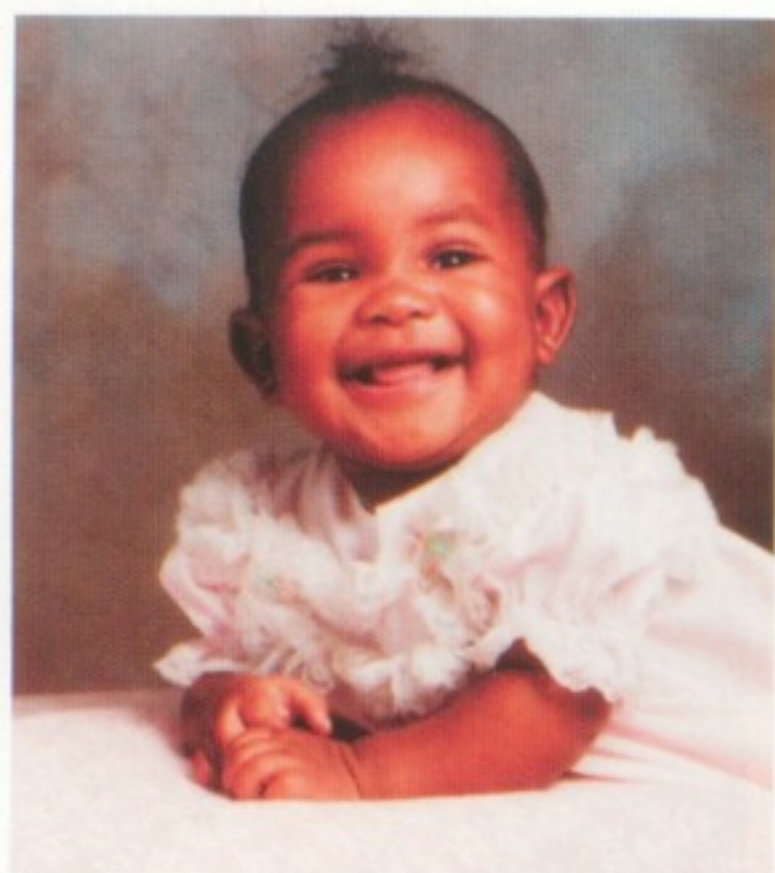

Mom

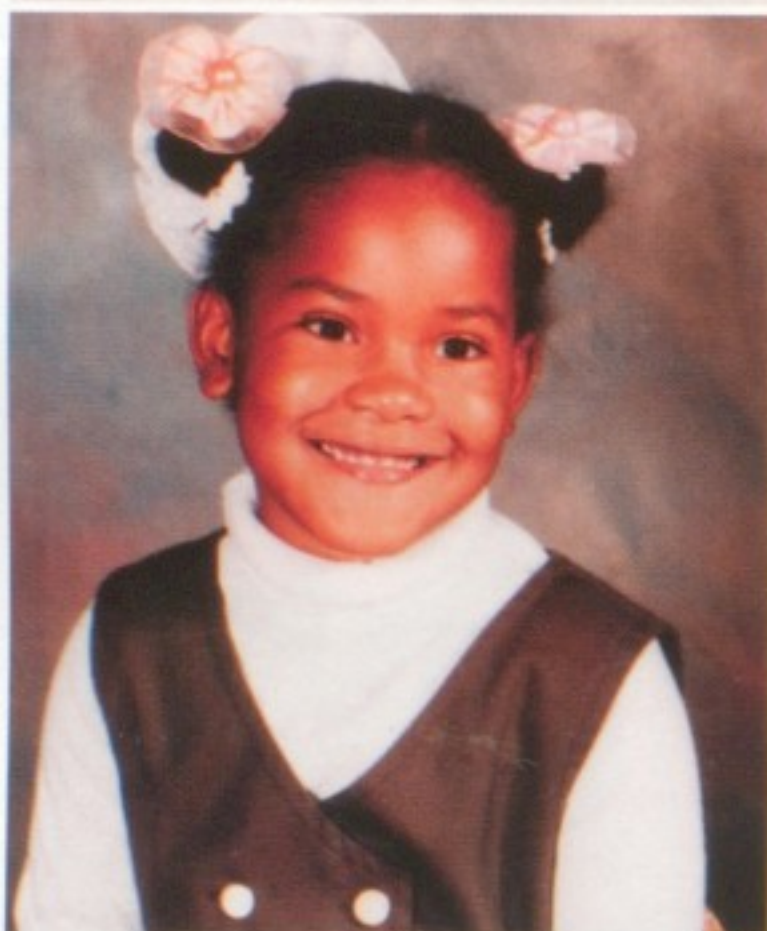

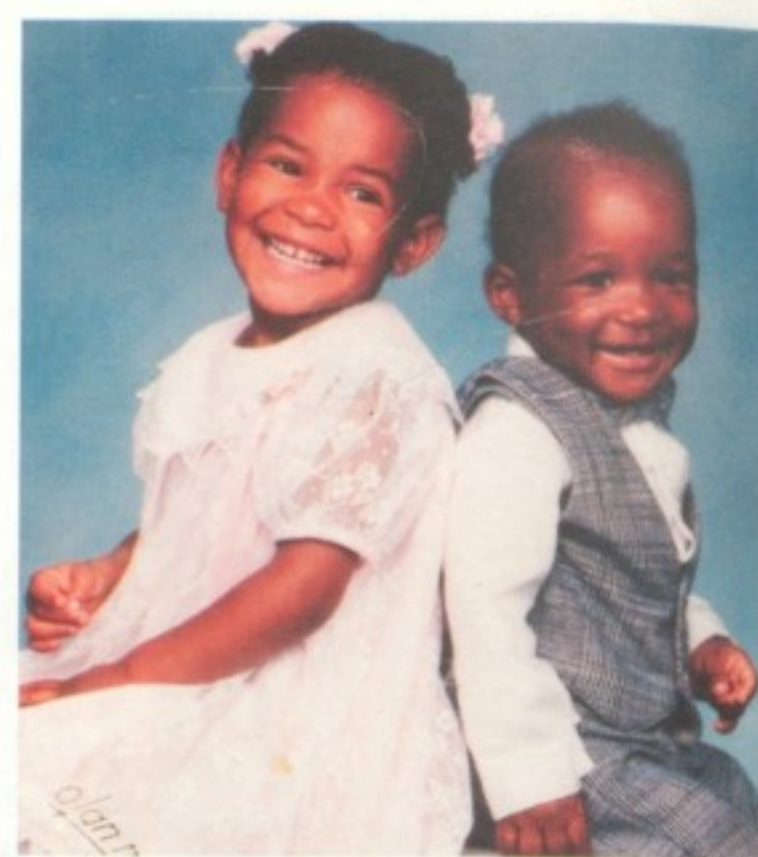

Nico Valencia

Lunch box in hand, your journey began. From Mrs. Wishy Washy, to Ms. Cox' voices, to Teddy Roosevelt, to Captain Von Trapp, to band to General Grant, to mathcounts, to Soccer, to Ted Turner, to Tennis, to APS to.... Now, with car keys and CDs and cell phone in hand the journey resumes. Make the most of it, Nico, as you always do! Love Mom, Dad, and Gino

The childhood nicknames just don't seem to fit anymore. Its hard to believe you're at this point in life already. Graduation is more than completing high school, its graduating to a new point and time of you're life. The world is out there for you to conquer, take it by storm.

Good luck Schmicks we're already all very proud

Brian Sullivan

Brian,

For all the good times our family has had, for all of the times we have held each other together; for all the laughter and joy, The ups and downs; you are still the bright smile in the midst of a difficult moment. Watching you grow into a man has been my privilege, one that dad would have enjoyed too. You have gone from toy trucks, legos, and Buddy Bear to 18 holes, knee boarding, and a mission trip to Mexico. Your family is so very proud of you. Its so hard to let you go....we love you so!

Your family forever,

Mom, Meghan, Scott and Kyle

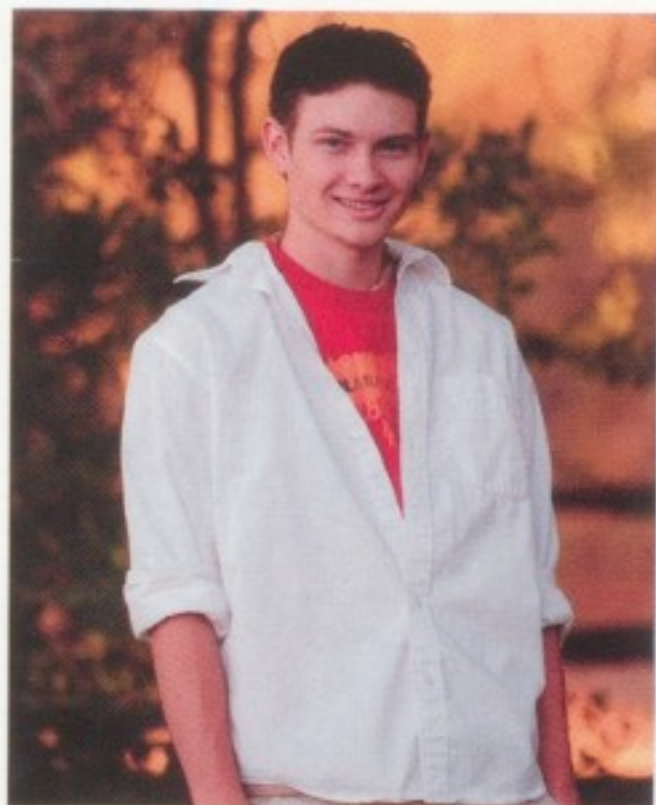

Casey Tingley

Dear Casey,
It is hard to believe that you are already graduating! You have been such a "special" boy right from the start; focused goal oriented and determined. These traits, along with your faith, will help you set your life's course.

Remember to trust your heart. Be true to who you are Casey and you will find joy and happiness. Dad and I are grateful to be your parents. You will be a great success in life! God bless you and keep you.

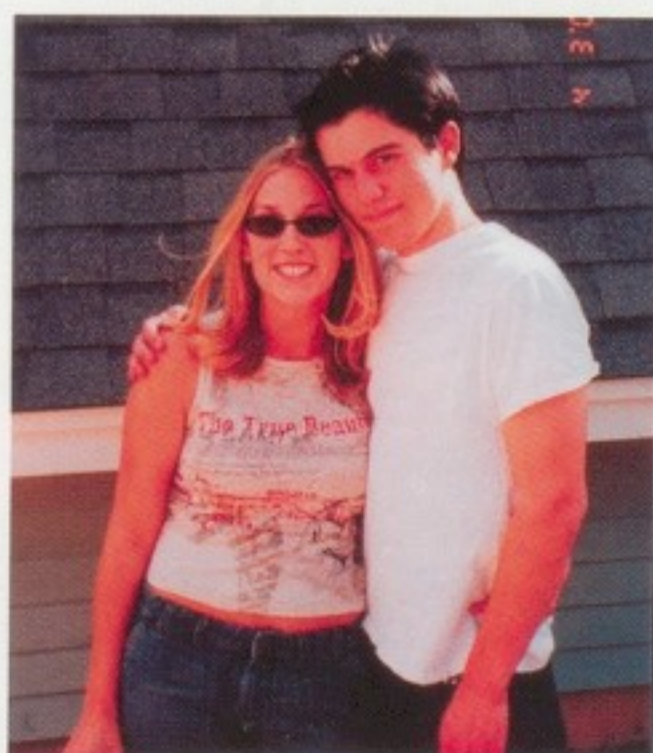

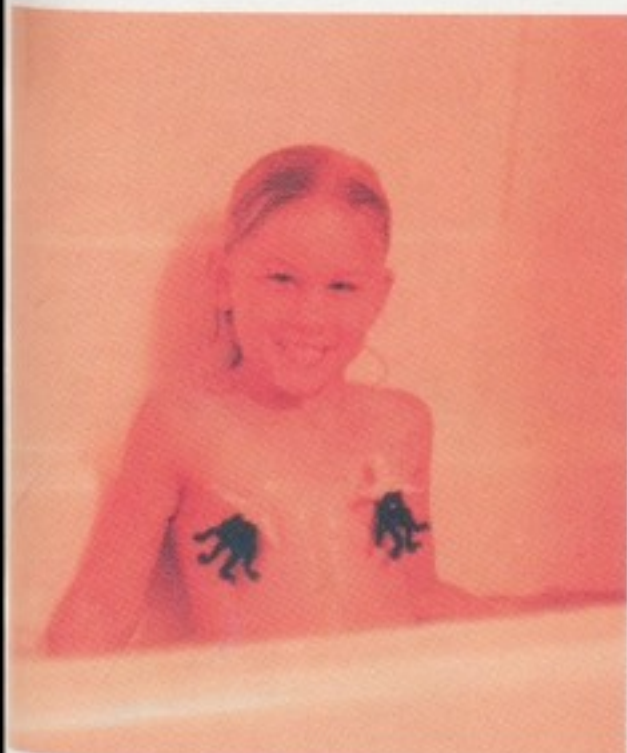

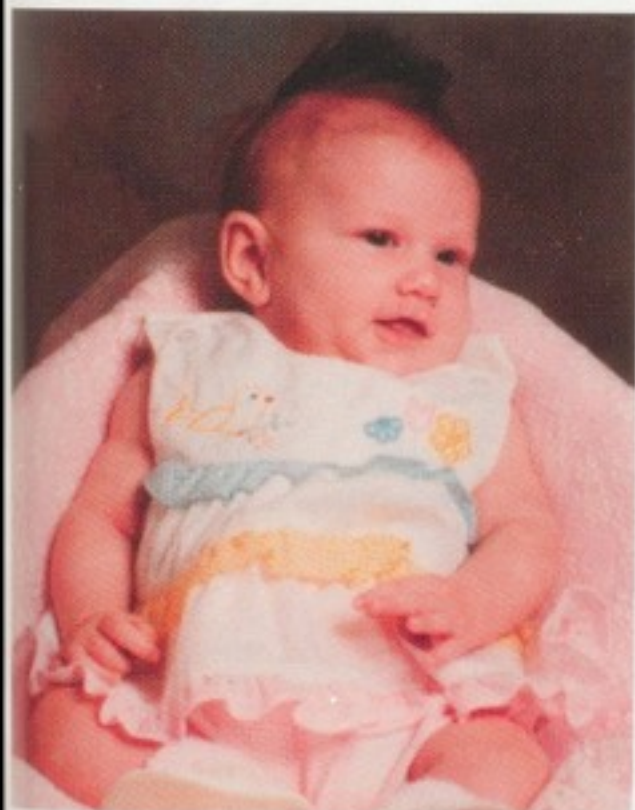

All our love always,

Jon-
You are our firstborn-our trailblazer. You led us into the parenting years, and now are leading us into the next chapter of emptying our nest. We know that venturing out on your own is exciting for you while scary all the time. (Remember, it is for us, too.) Seek the Lord and allow Him to guide your steps [Prov. 3: 5-6], (and know always that we are praying for you). Thanks for being a wonderful son and an awesome big brother.

Jon Mitchell & Brad Hurn

Hey Bro,
Man, where do I start...? We have been nest friends for almost thirteen years, and through thick and thin, we have stuck by each other. Although we have had our fights, differences, jealousies, and so on, the good times we have shared together make them all seem silly. Although we had our doubts, here we are. After seven years at Katherine Dunn, two years at Dilworth, and four years at Reed, we made it. We're graduating! No one knows me like you do... you know me better than I know myself. Thanks for being my best friend for all these years. I love you man, Thanks for a friendship that will carry on long after we graduate.
With much love, Jon-Jon
P.S. Face your fears,
Live your dreams,
Bro.

Hey bestest best buddy!
Wow man it's over, it feels like yesterday that we walked into Reed High as freshmen. Now we are graduating. Through the years, we have gone through some rough times. Now we are still best friends and (hopefully) ready to go out and deal with the real world problems, joys, and hardships. And hopefully we will end up going to the same college. If not, I know that we will always be best friends forever. I look forward to the wonderful years ahead where we will watch each other grow in faith and in love for the Lord. You have always supported me in anything and everything I have ever dreamed of, or wanted to do. You are more than my BEST friend; you are my brother. I pray that all your hopes and dreams come true. This isn't the end Jon; it's only the beginning.

Love you Bro,
Bradley Hurn
P.S. Reach for the moon and if you happen to miss you will land among the stars!

Mom and Gordon

Shelby,
From the time you were born, I have been wrapped around your little finger. We have a special love that only a father and daughter know for one another. You are becoming a young lady, but you will always be "Daddy's Little Girl."

Love,
Dad

Bri DePaoli

Through the years, I've watched you grow from a shy little girl, to an outgoing and gifted leader. You have worked so hard to be the best... and now you are. I'm so proud of you!

Love,
Jeffery

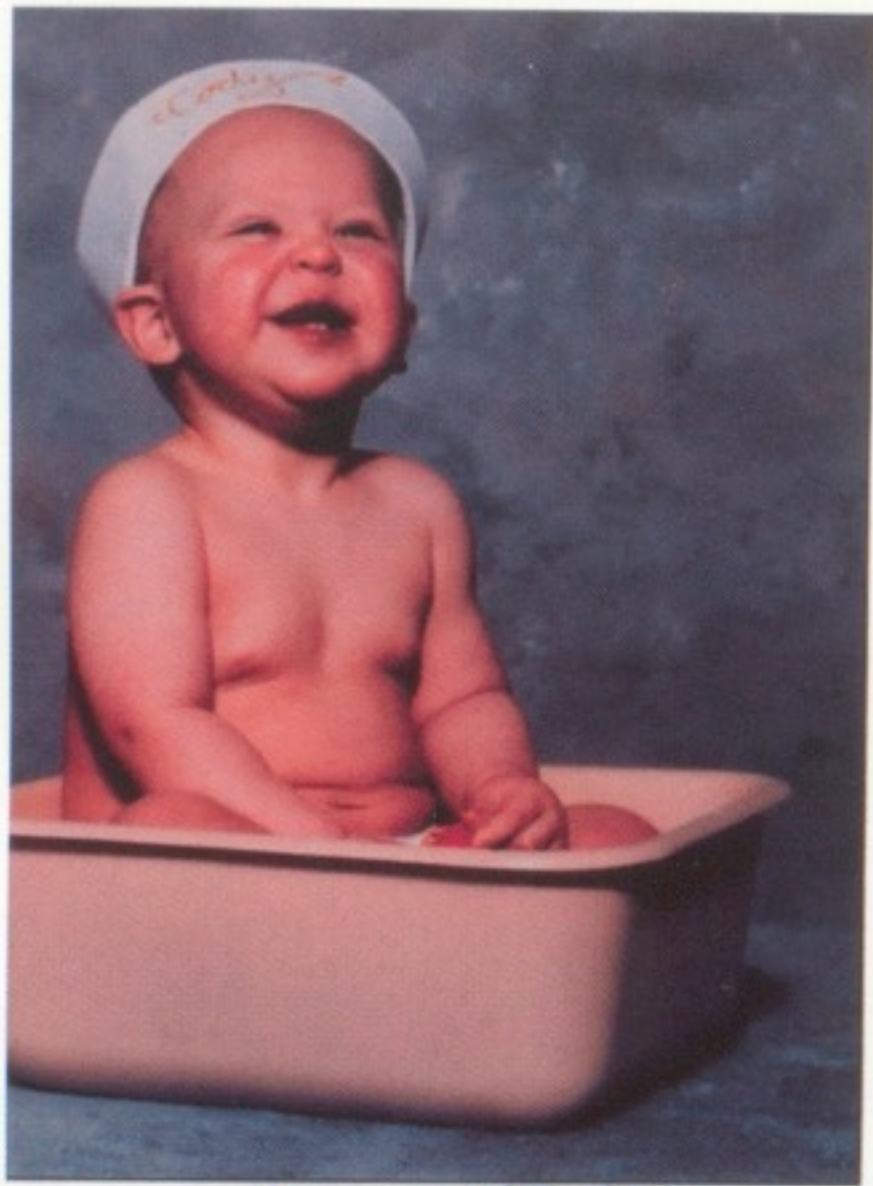

Kimberly Maldonado

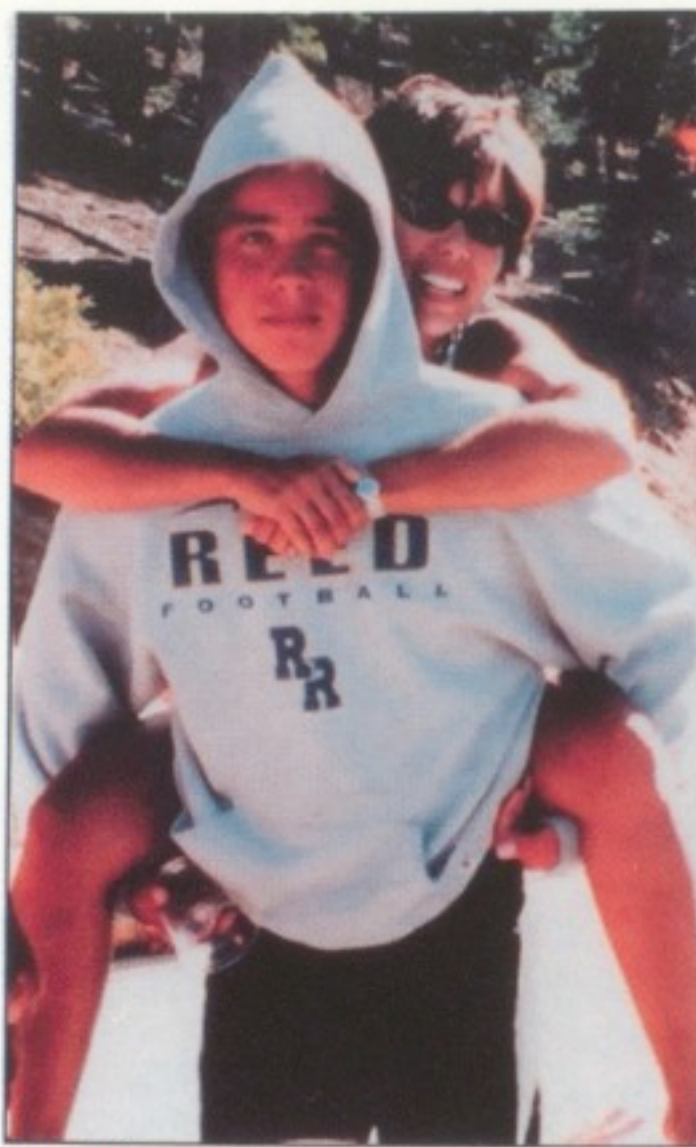

Kimberly.

Our precious daughter and sister, we admire you for your charing, inspirational, beautiful soul. You have so many outstanding qualities and you bring great joy to our lives. We are so proud of you. Make every day special.

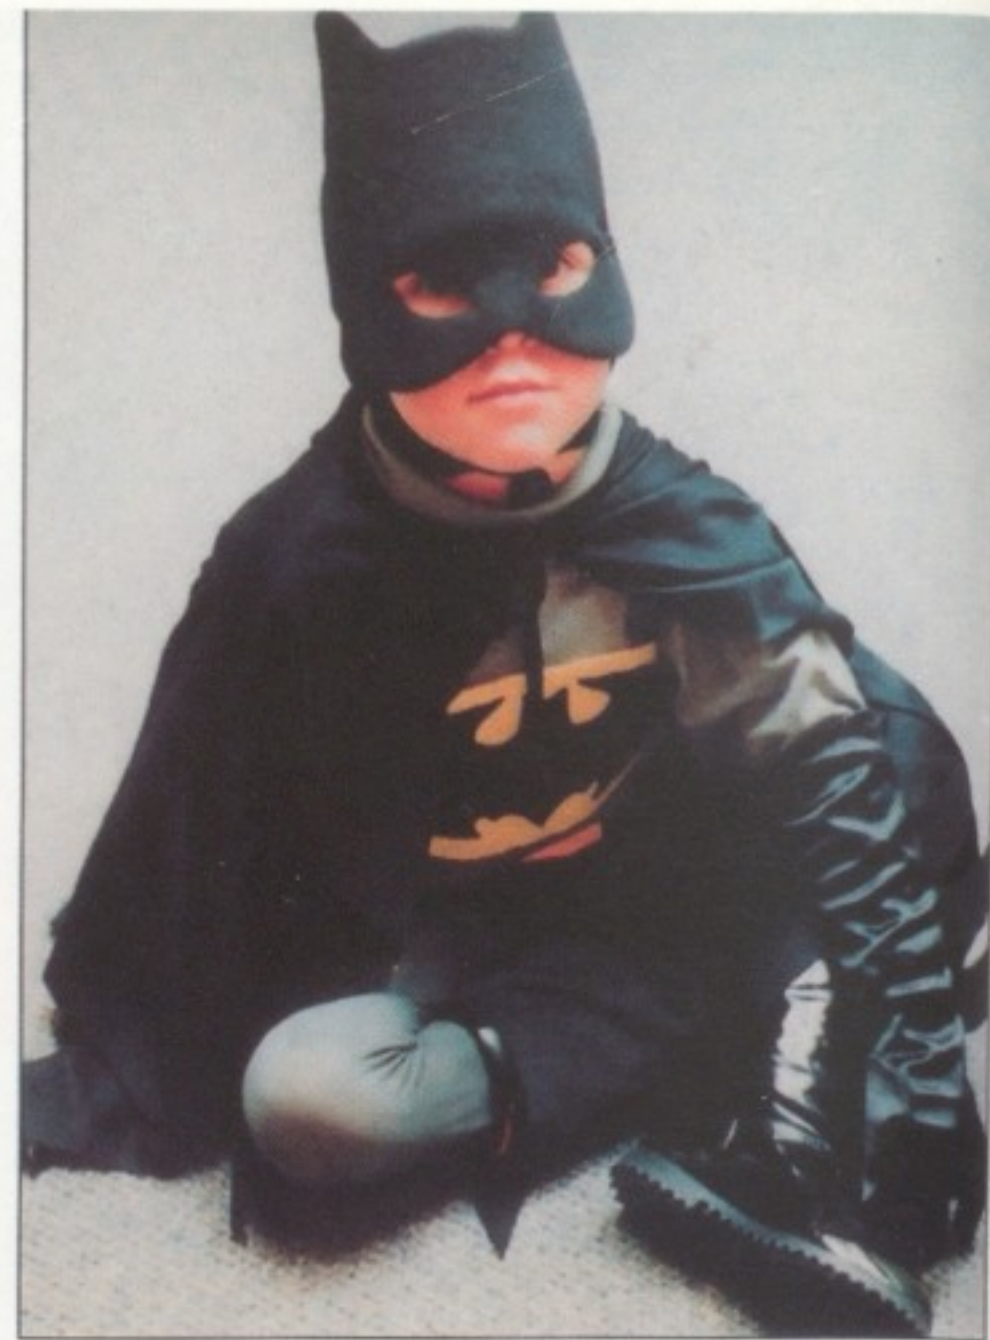

We love you,
Dad, Mom, and Tony

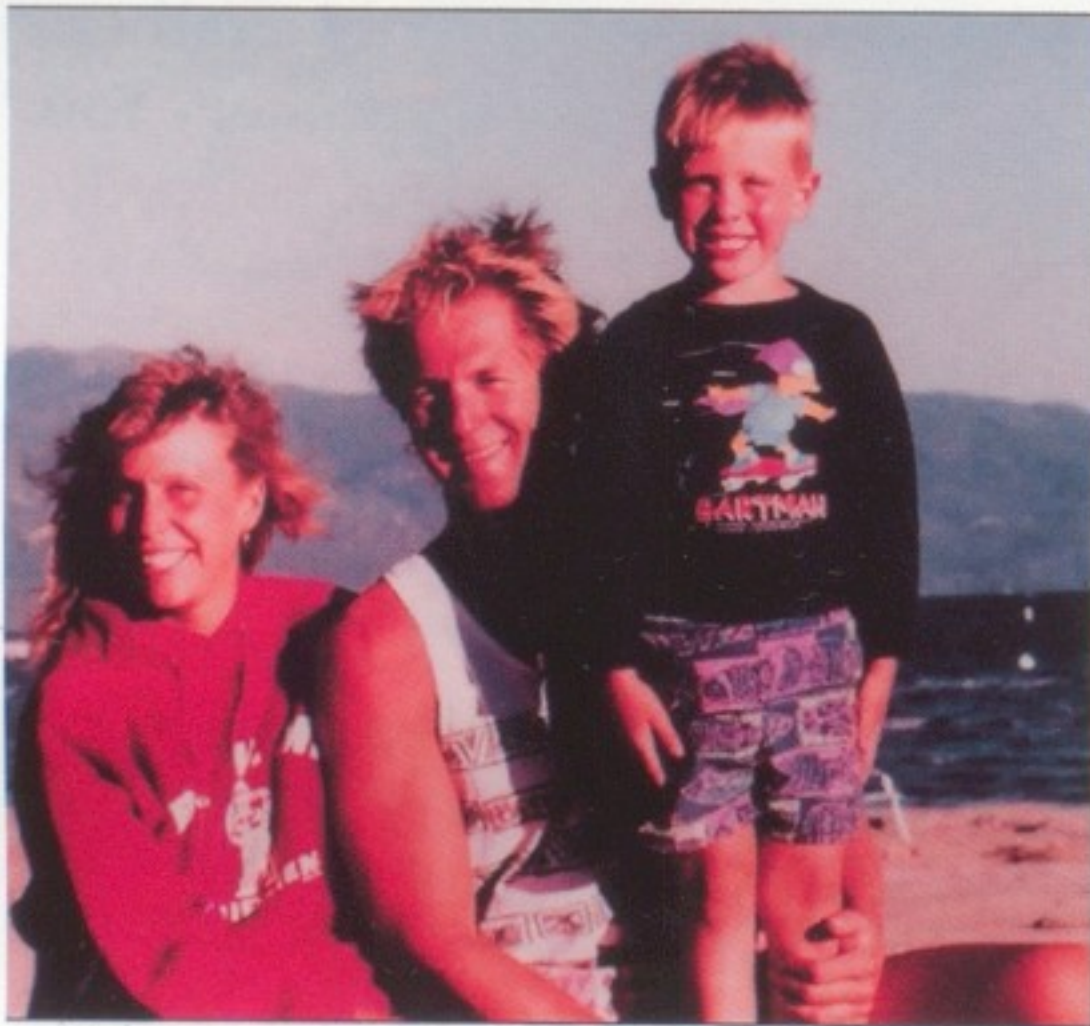

Your sweet little button nose
+ two new sweet toofers.

Lil' "JJ"
Remember I've always got your back.
Love, Aunti Chiquita

Na Na Na Na Na Na "Code Man"

Cody,
We are so proud of the person you have become,
God richly blessed our lives the day you were born.
you will now begin a new journey in life. Follow your Dreams, be safe, and most of all be happy.

Remember - "You are our HEART"

We Love You,
Momma + Dad

Your First day of Klndergarden. With your
'first' of many broken bones.

Remember Tahoe
"Stay away from the Cawdaddies"

Cody + Kyle
Remember "Chocolate dipped Cream Puffs"

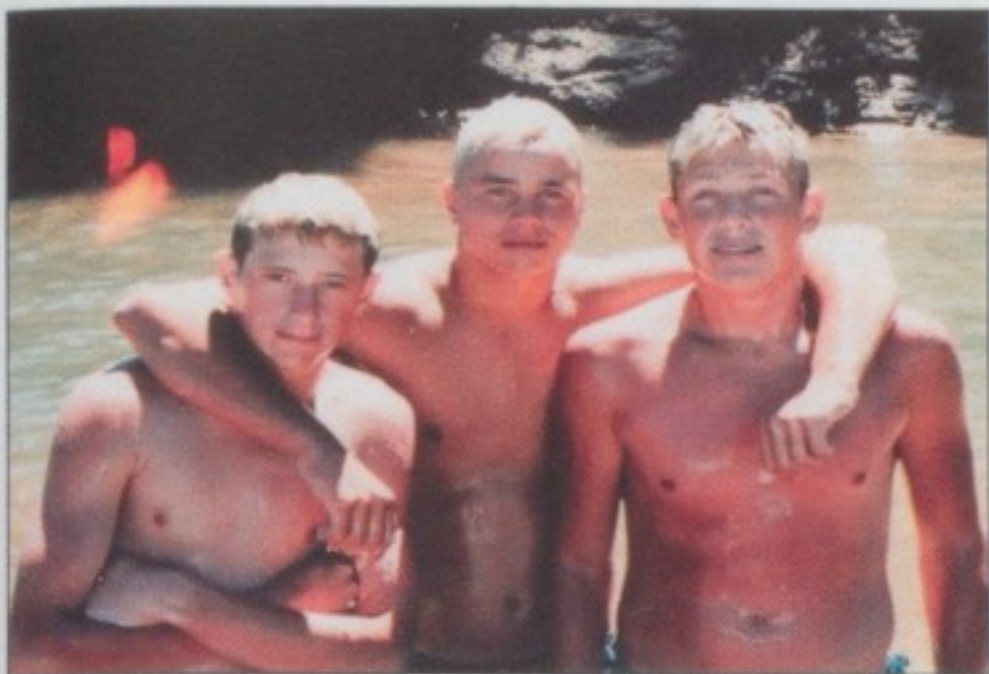

Your Gardian Angel
Honey, would be so proud.

Wow, There is something about
"Men in Black"

Cody Engebretson

Cody Engebretson

Hold onto the memories made, best friends can last forever

Cody,
I'm so proud of the wonderful young man you've become. Remember I'm always here for you.

Love,
Aunti Chiquita

Getting ready for Thursday night Spagetti Nights
You were already saying "Reed is #1"

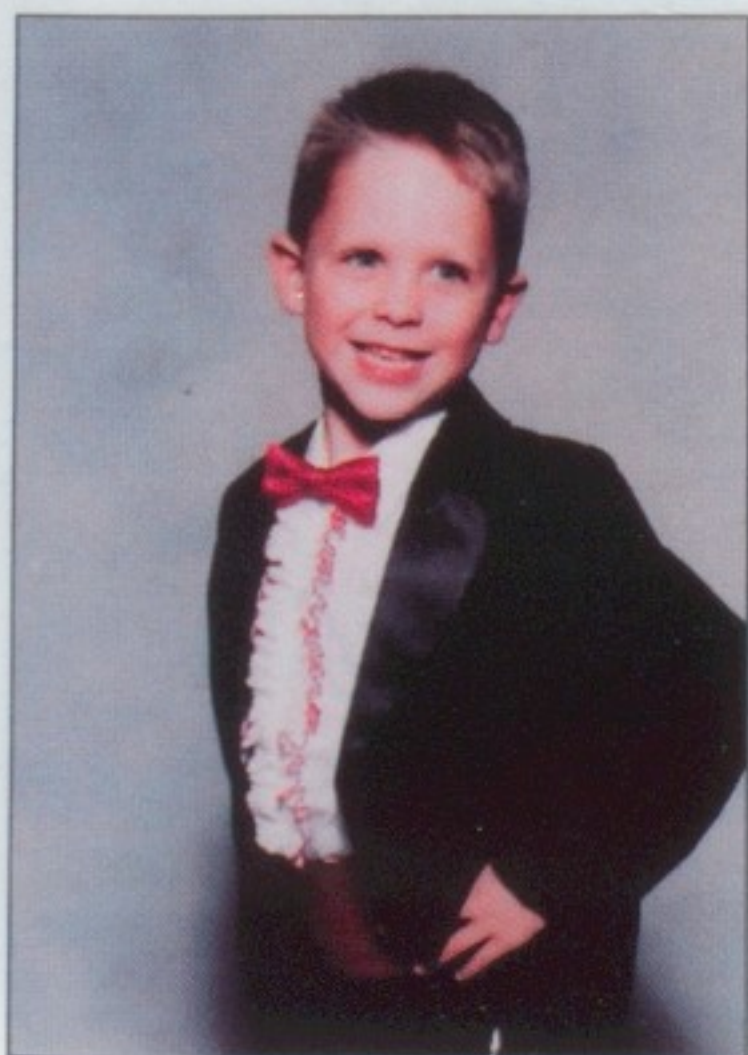

Keep the tradition going "Underwear Head"
Follow your dreams, we love you.
-Auntie, Uncle Rob, Britney and Nick

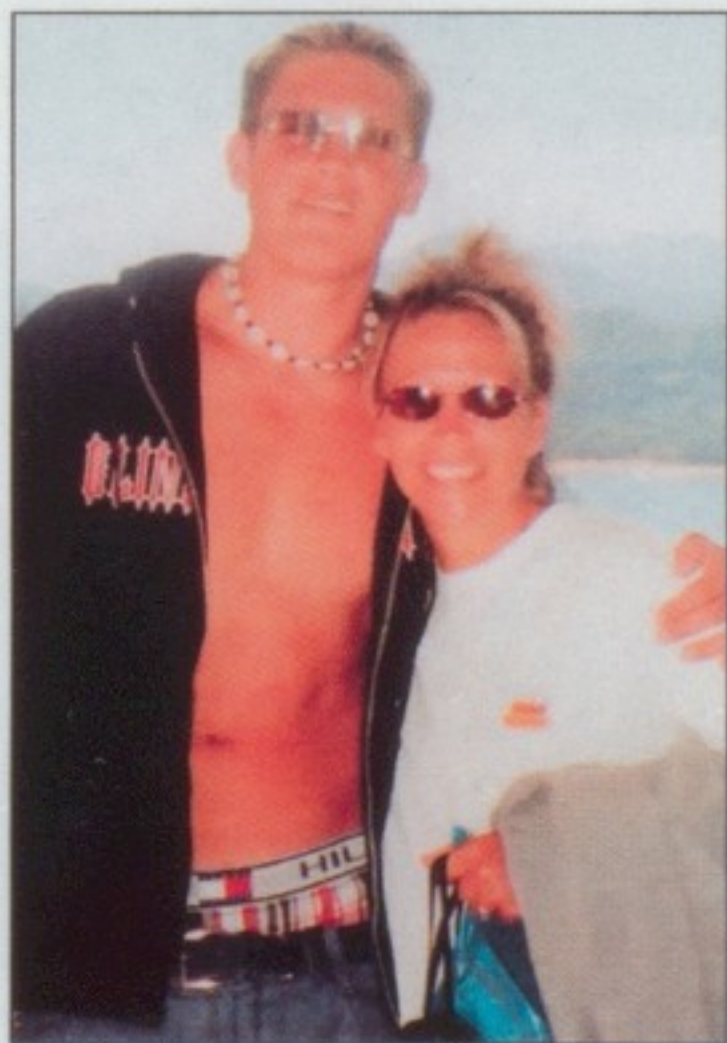

Okay Boy - It's time to have a short one Love ya,
Grandpa

Cody,
We have walked through life together hand in hand. I will always be there for you.
I love you son,
Dad

Wow, There is something about a man in black.

You have made my life complete
You are my heart
I love you
Mommy

Ride em' Cowboy!

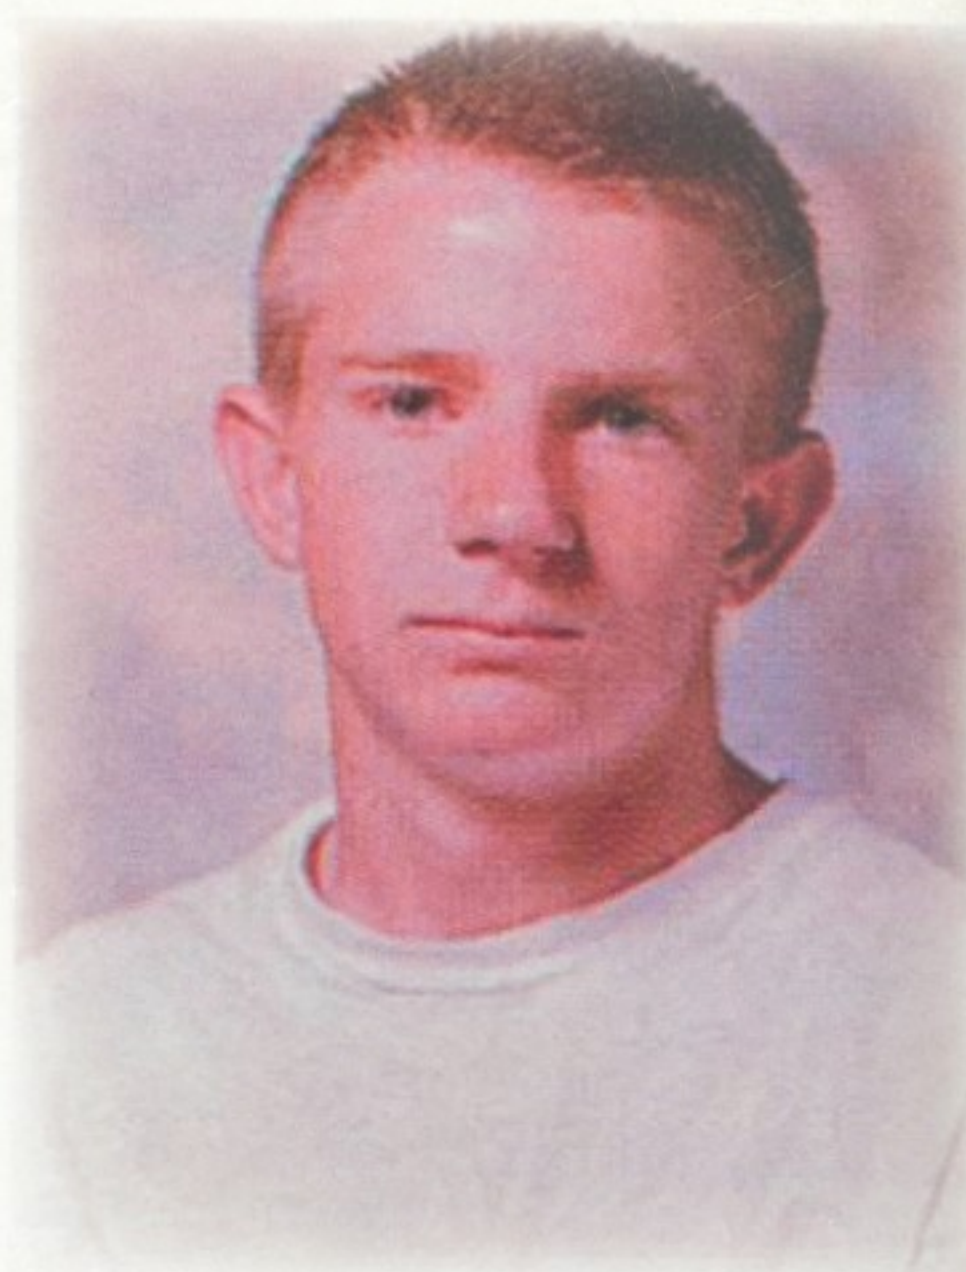

Our oldest cousin, we love you,

BLOCKING

Timing is everything; the cast takes their places on stage and tries to figure out exactly where each should be standing.

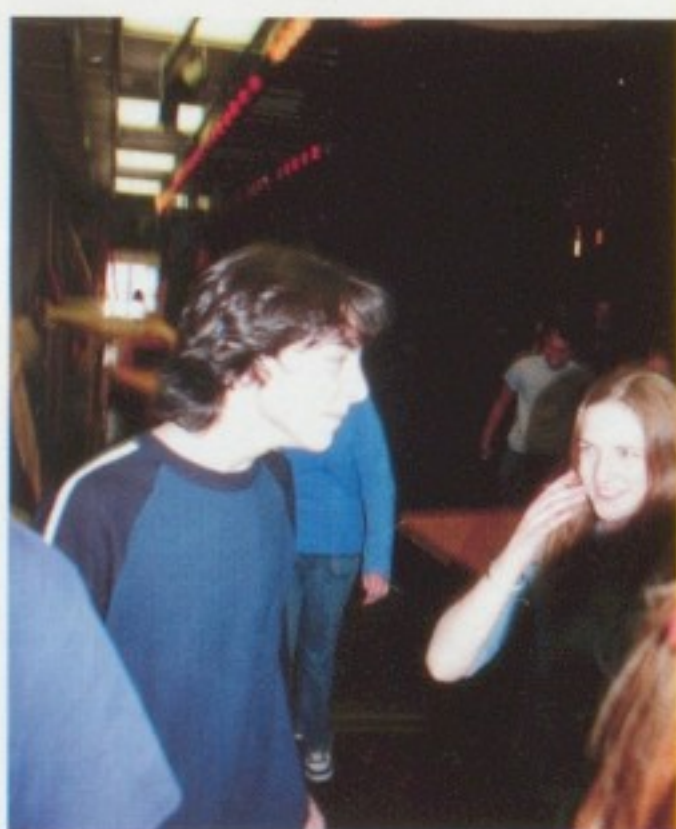

BEAUTY BEFORE THE MAKE-UP

Nich O'Neil and Heather Foxwell before the costumes and before the make-up.

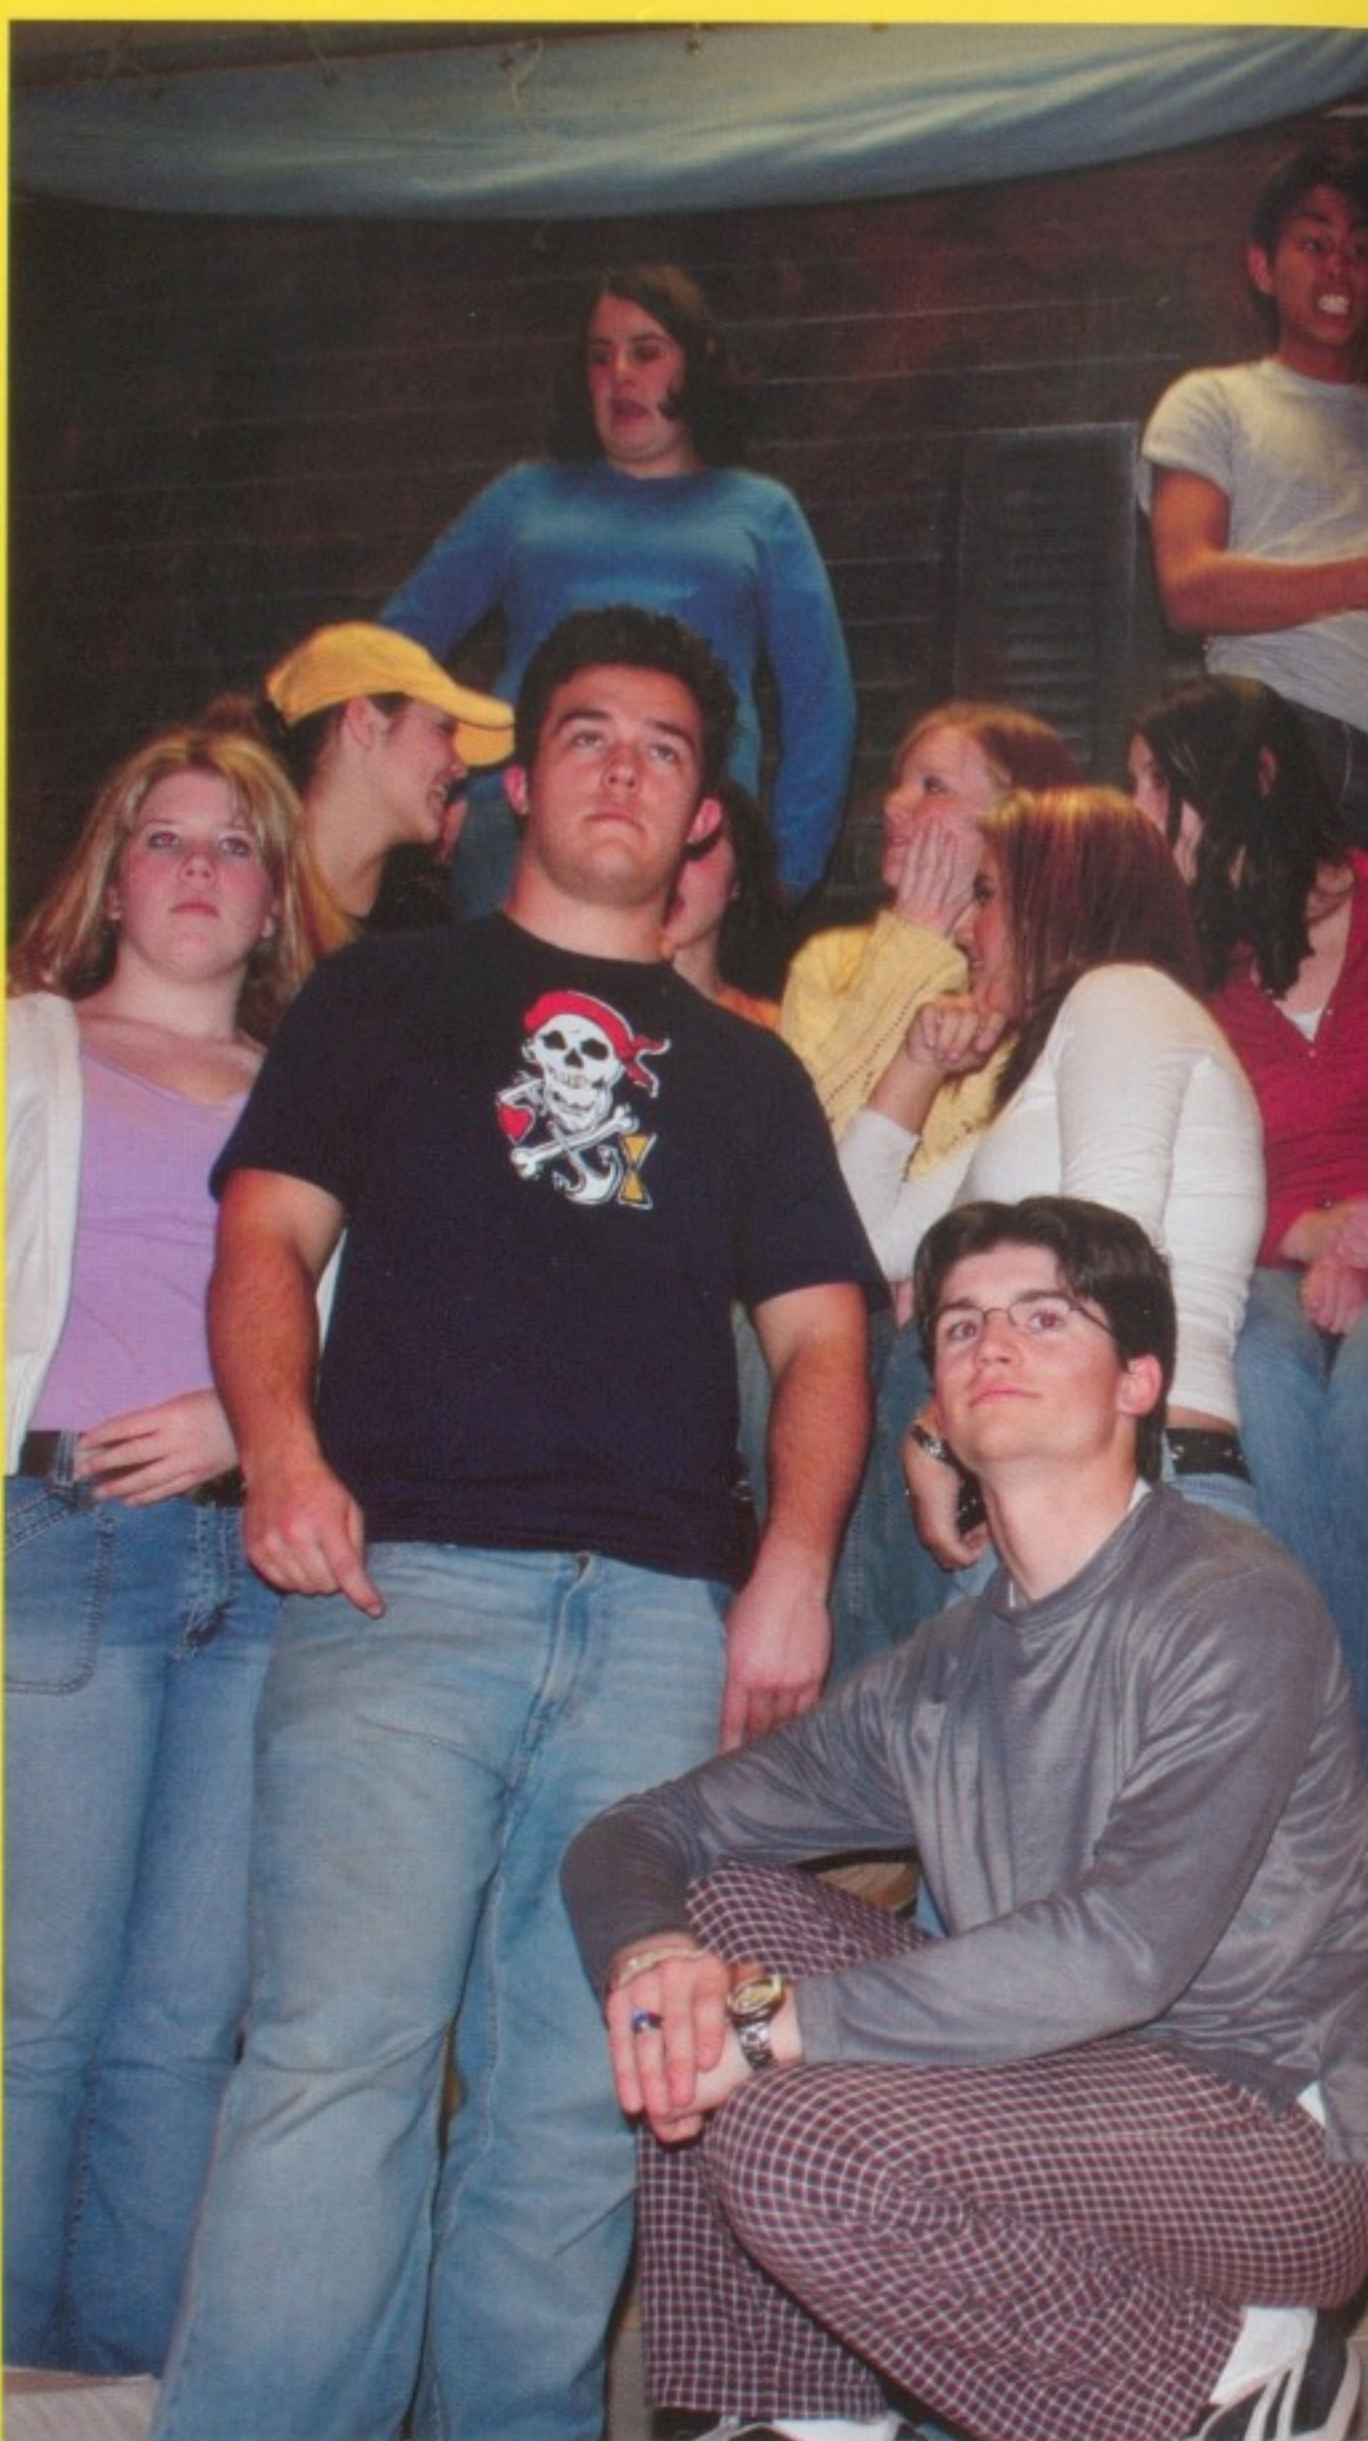

GETTING TO KNOW YOU

The girls pose for a pictures in the middle of practice.

CHAOS BEHIND THE SCENES

Sometimes things can get so chaotic behind the scenes; trying to get everything in order, and make sure everyone is where they should be.

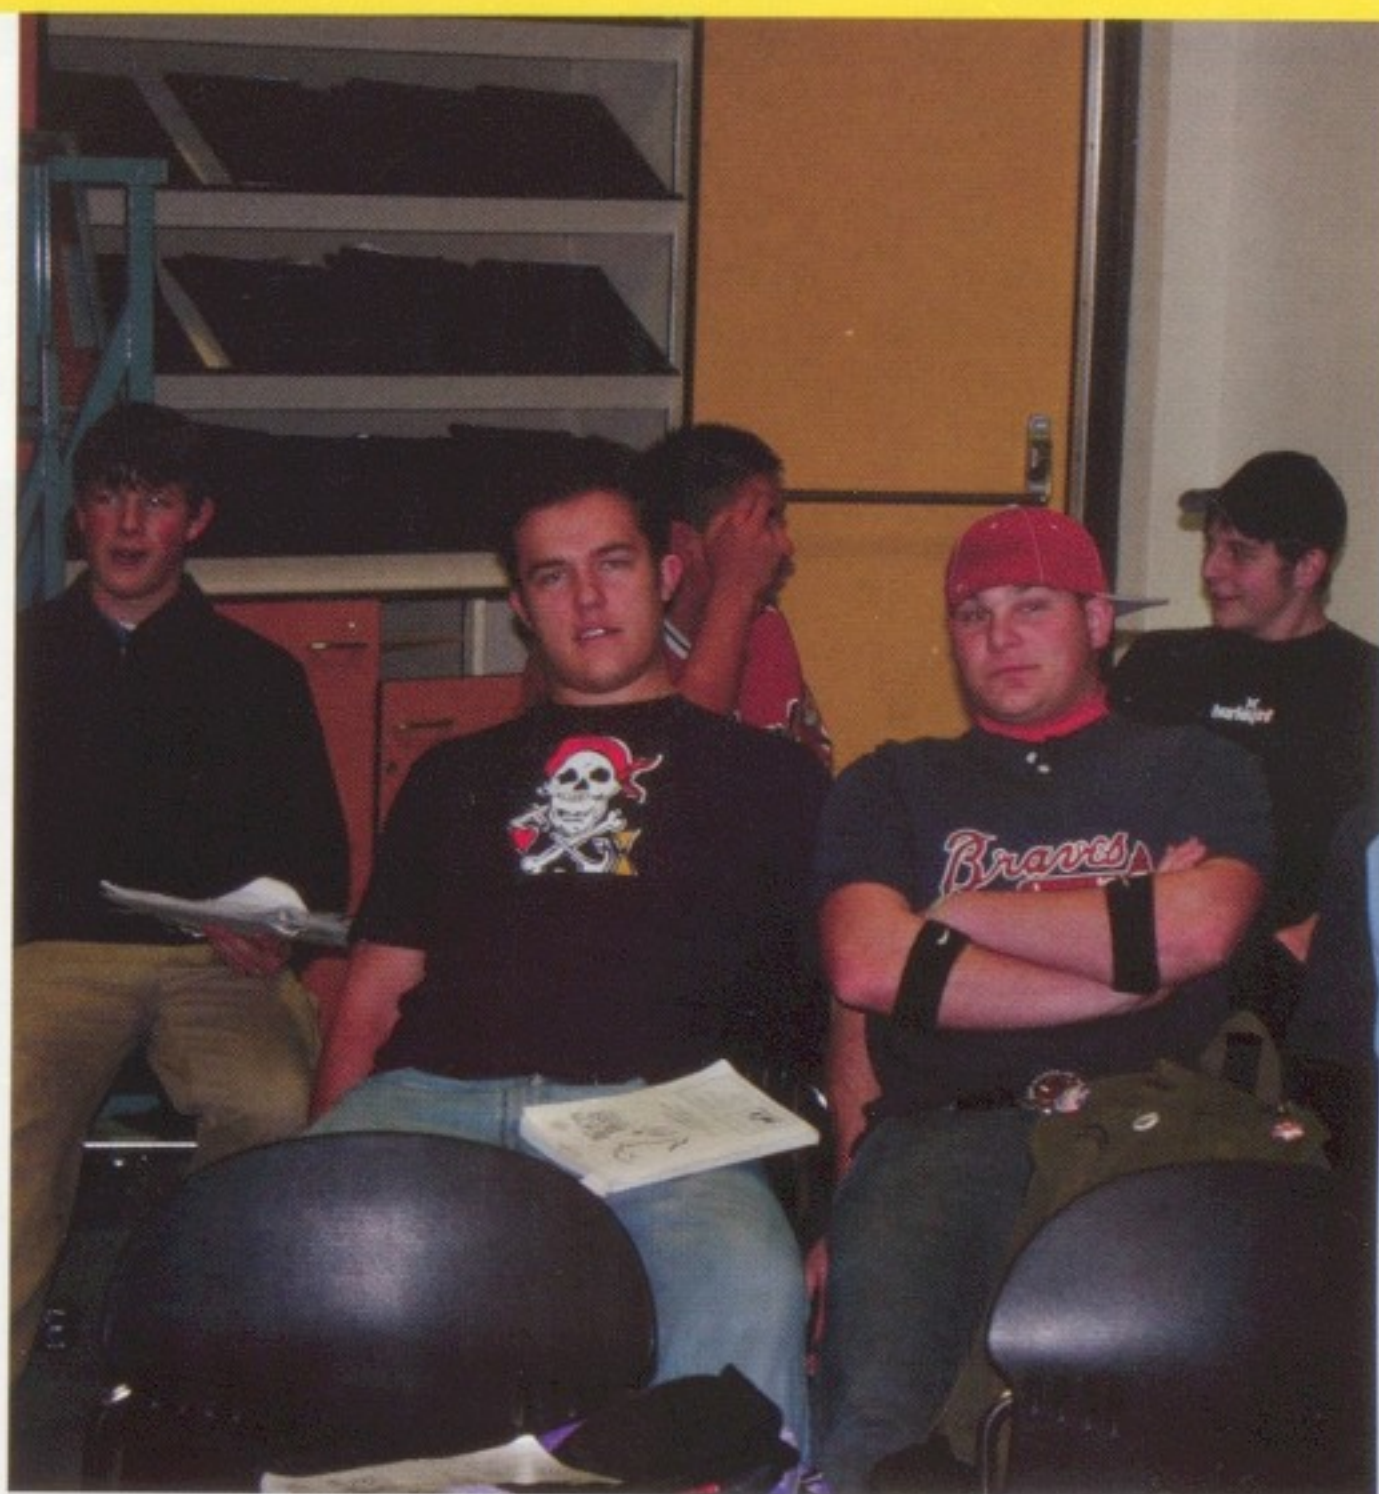

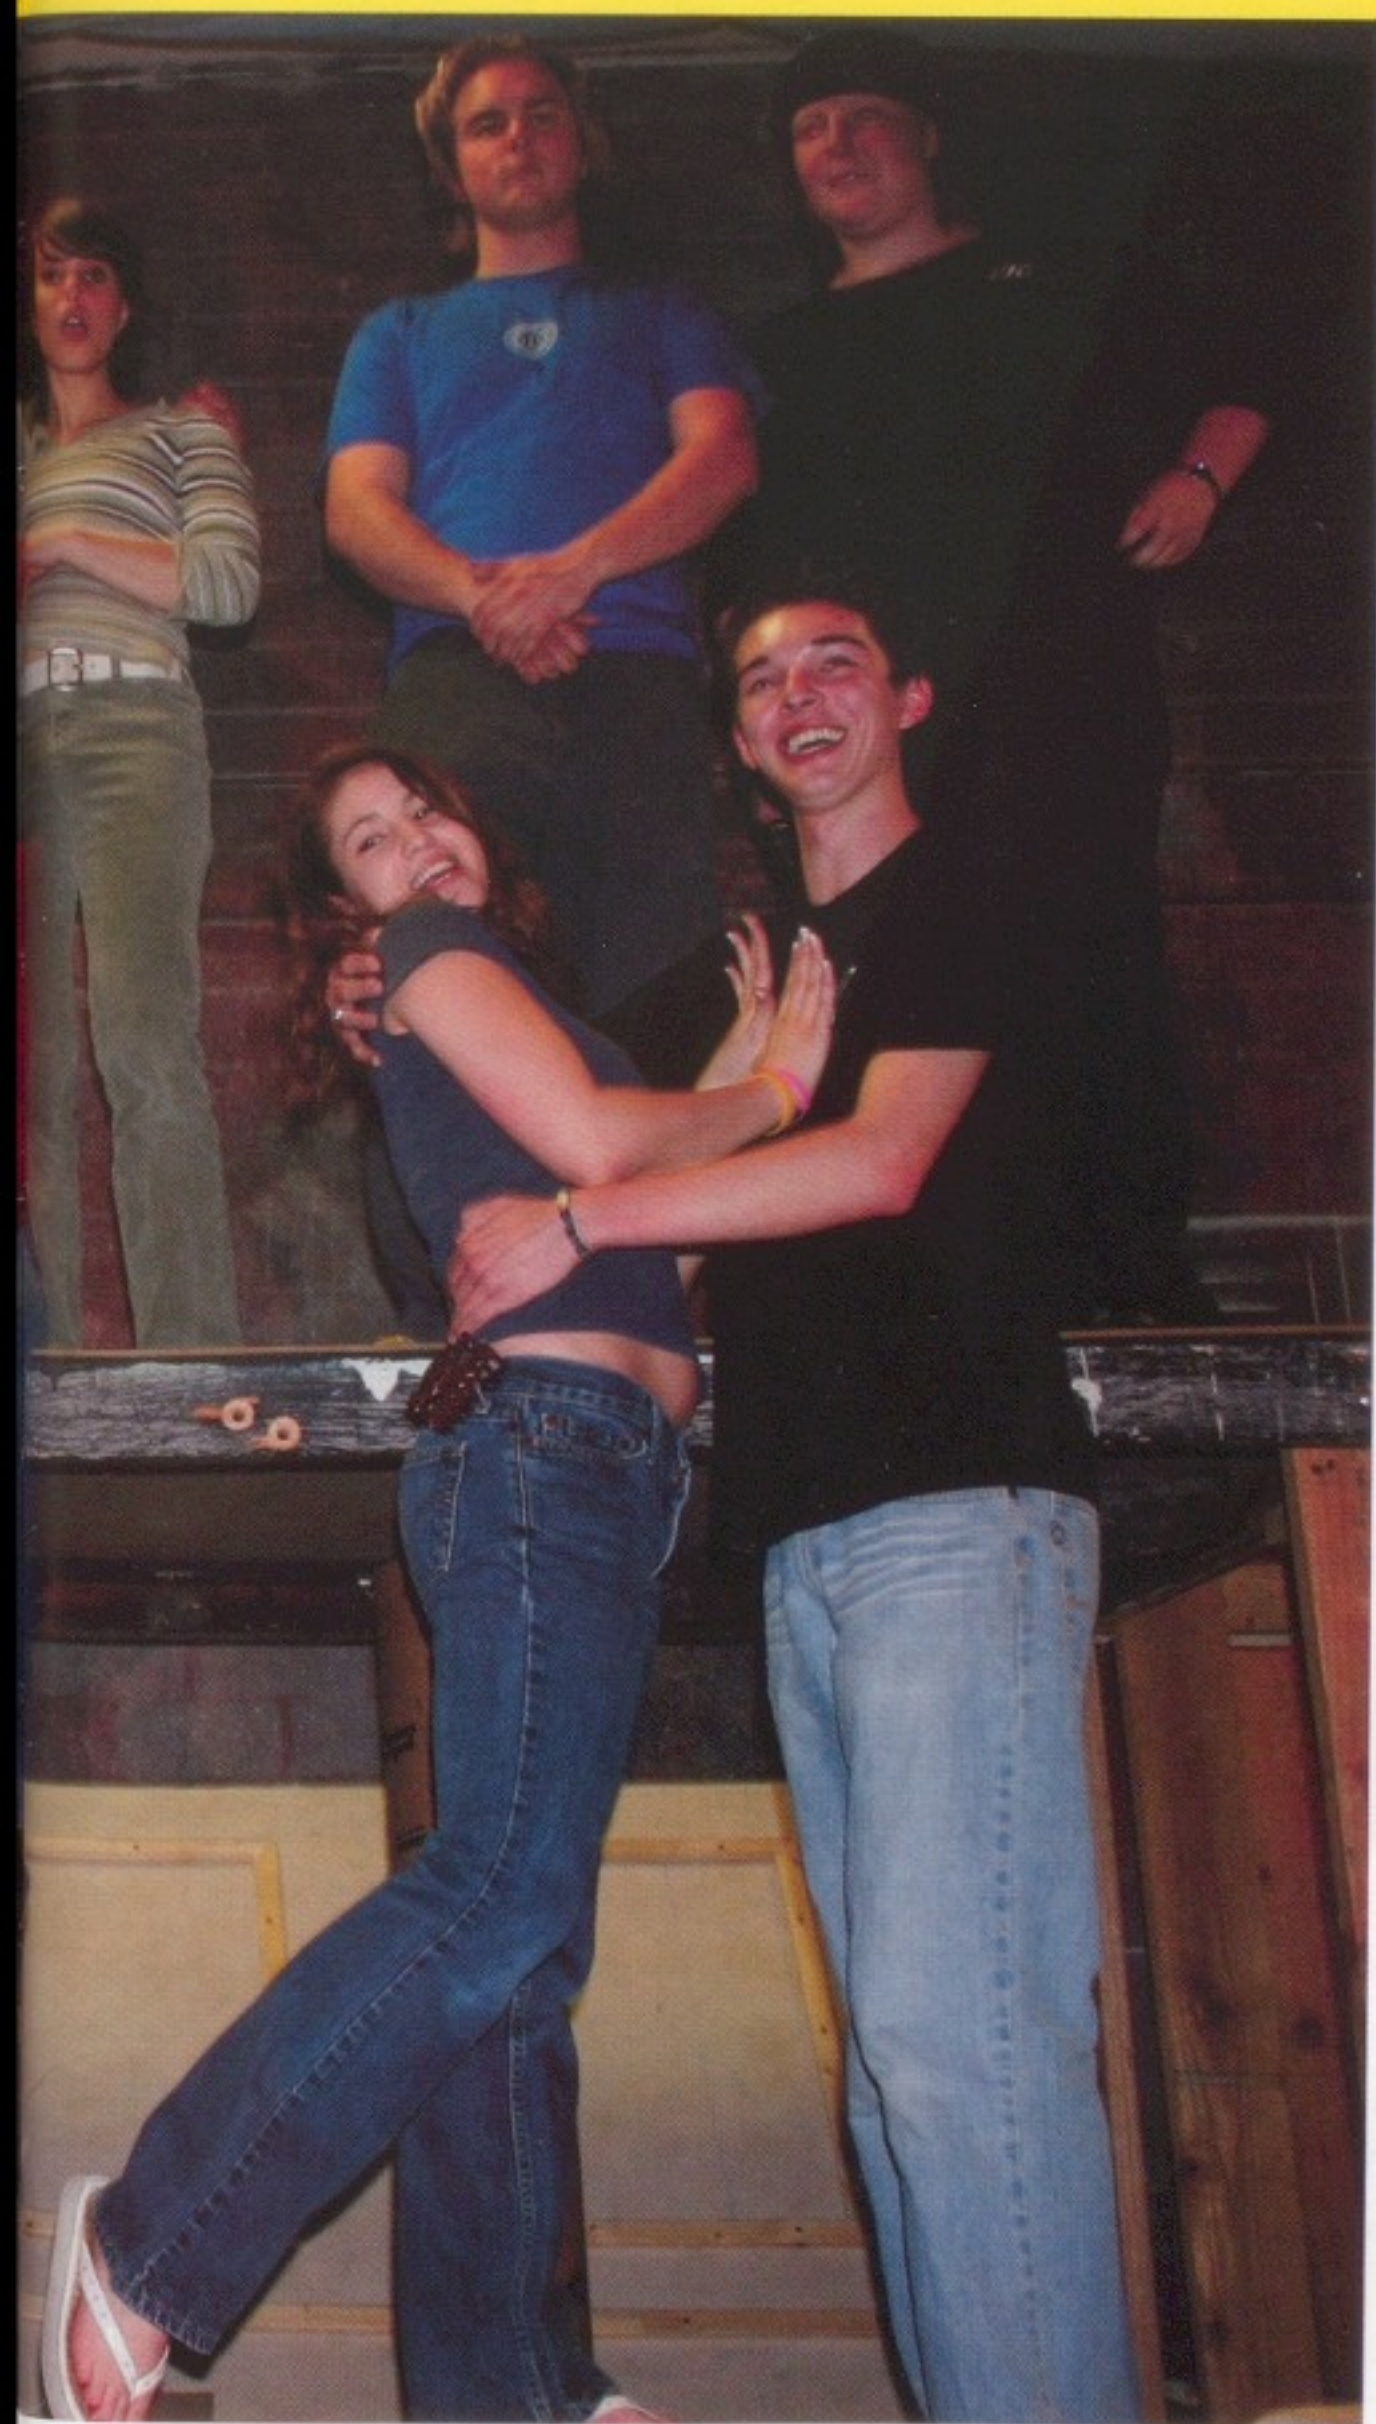

TALE AS OLD AS TIME....

The Reed High Drama Department Goes Way Off Broadway

All of the cast members, ranging from freshman to seniors, spent weeks diligently preparing for the opening night of this year's musical "Beauty and the Beast." Hopeful participants tirelessly spent hours rehearsing lines for the auditions as well as the final product of the musical itself. From the Mrs. Potts to Belle, every part filled with talent and dedication for entertaining eager audience members. The talent is magnificent, astounding, and promising to each members future. John and Laura Lorentzen have spent numerous hours of their free time to plot and ponder what props shall be used, which key shall the Beast sing in, and how to choreograph the perfect moves that so many will see and enjoy. Select younger people have been asked to play parts for some parts that are unfortunately able to be played by high school students from some height issues. Quite importantly, Reed High School's play coordinators have decided to perform the Broadway musical instead of the worldwide famous and celebrated animated version of the Beauty of the Beast, as created in modern society by Walt Disney, which nearly all of us know of today.

WAITING FOR THINGS TO START
Jon Mitchell and Jeff Weagel wait for their lines to come up during practice.

Colophon

The Galleon was created on Macintosh computers (4 iMac DVs, 1 G4, 4 new iMacs, and 1 Powerbook laptop), using InDesign 2.0, Photoshop 6.0, Adobe Illustrator 10.0 and Jostens Yeartech 2004. It was printed on 80 pound paper with sewn, rounded, backed binding. It consisted of 352 full color pages with a 16 page World Book insert and a special edition DVD. Headlines were typed in AYT Adrian, subheadlines were typed in AYT Albert, captions and stories were typed in Palatino. There are over 5,000 photos included. Film was purchased at COSTCO in Reno, and processed at Longs Drug Center in the Silver State Plaza. Camera Magic Photography was the senior portrait photographer. Life Touch/Prestige Portraits was the underclass photographer. Most pictures were taken by the class using Pentax film cameras, an Olympus, Nikon, and Cannon digital cameras. Jostens Publishing Company in Visalia, CA printed the book. Books original cost $65.00 and rose in $5.00 increments until they reached $80.00 in January when sales ended. 1,250 books were sold.

Christy Briggs was the adviser. Niki Clinger, Stephanie Ercolin, Jennifer Mercer, and Emily Prudden were the editorial staff. The staff was made up of: (two semesters) Adam Allen, Michael Anderson, Krista Barlow, Niki Clinger, Corrine Coyne, Jaclyn Durant, Cortney Elliott, Stephanie Ercolin, Cyndi Gomez, Dan Haggarty, Kersti McAllister, Jen Mercer, Jon Mitchell, Elsa Navarro, Matthew Pattee, Emily Prudden, Erik Prudden, Charda Smith, Kassandra Taylor, Amber Valerio and Jessica Villasenor.

Dean of Students: Kris Hackbusch and Stephanie Malia

Thank You

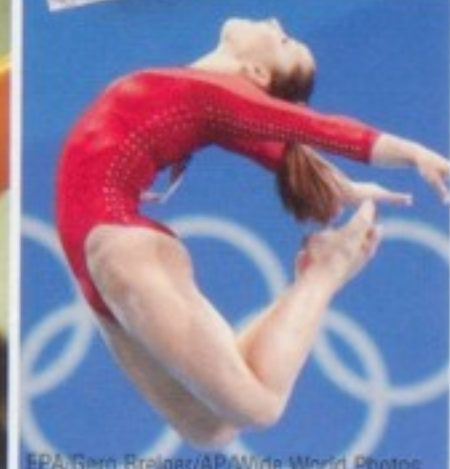

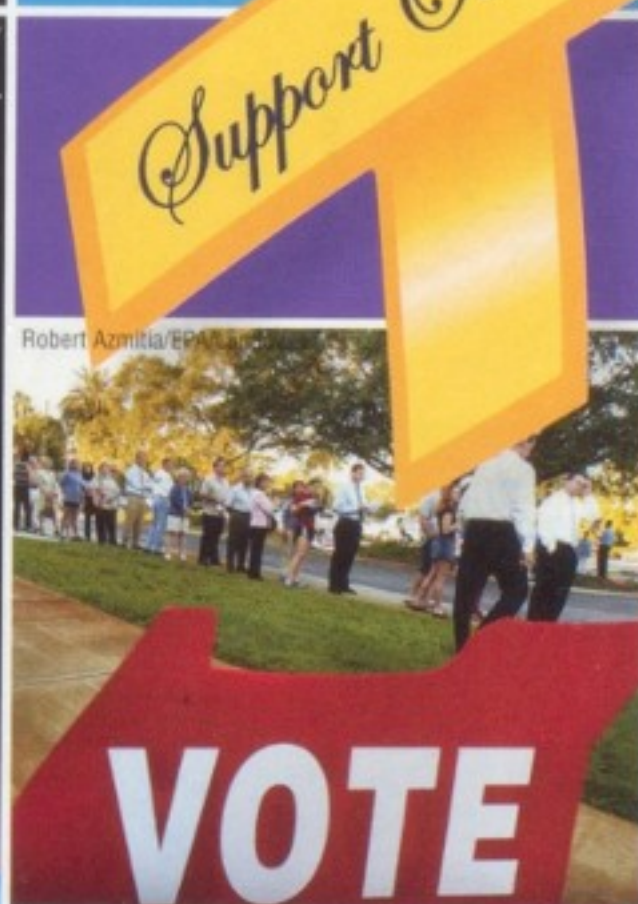

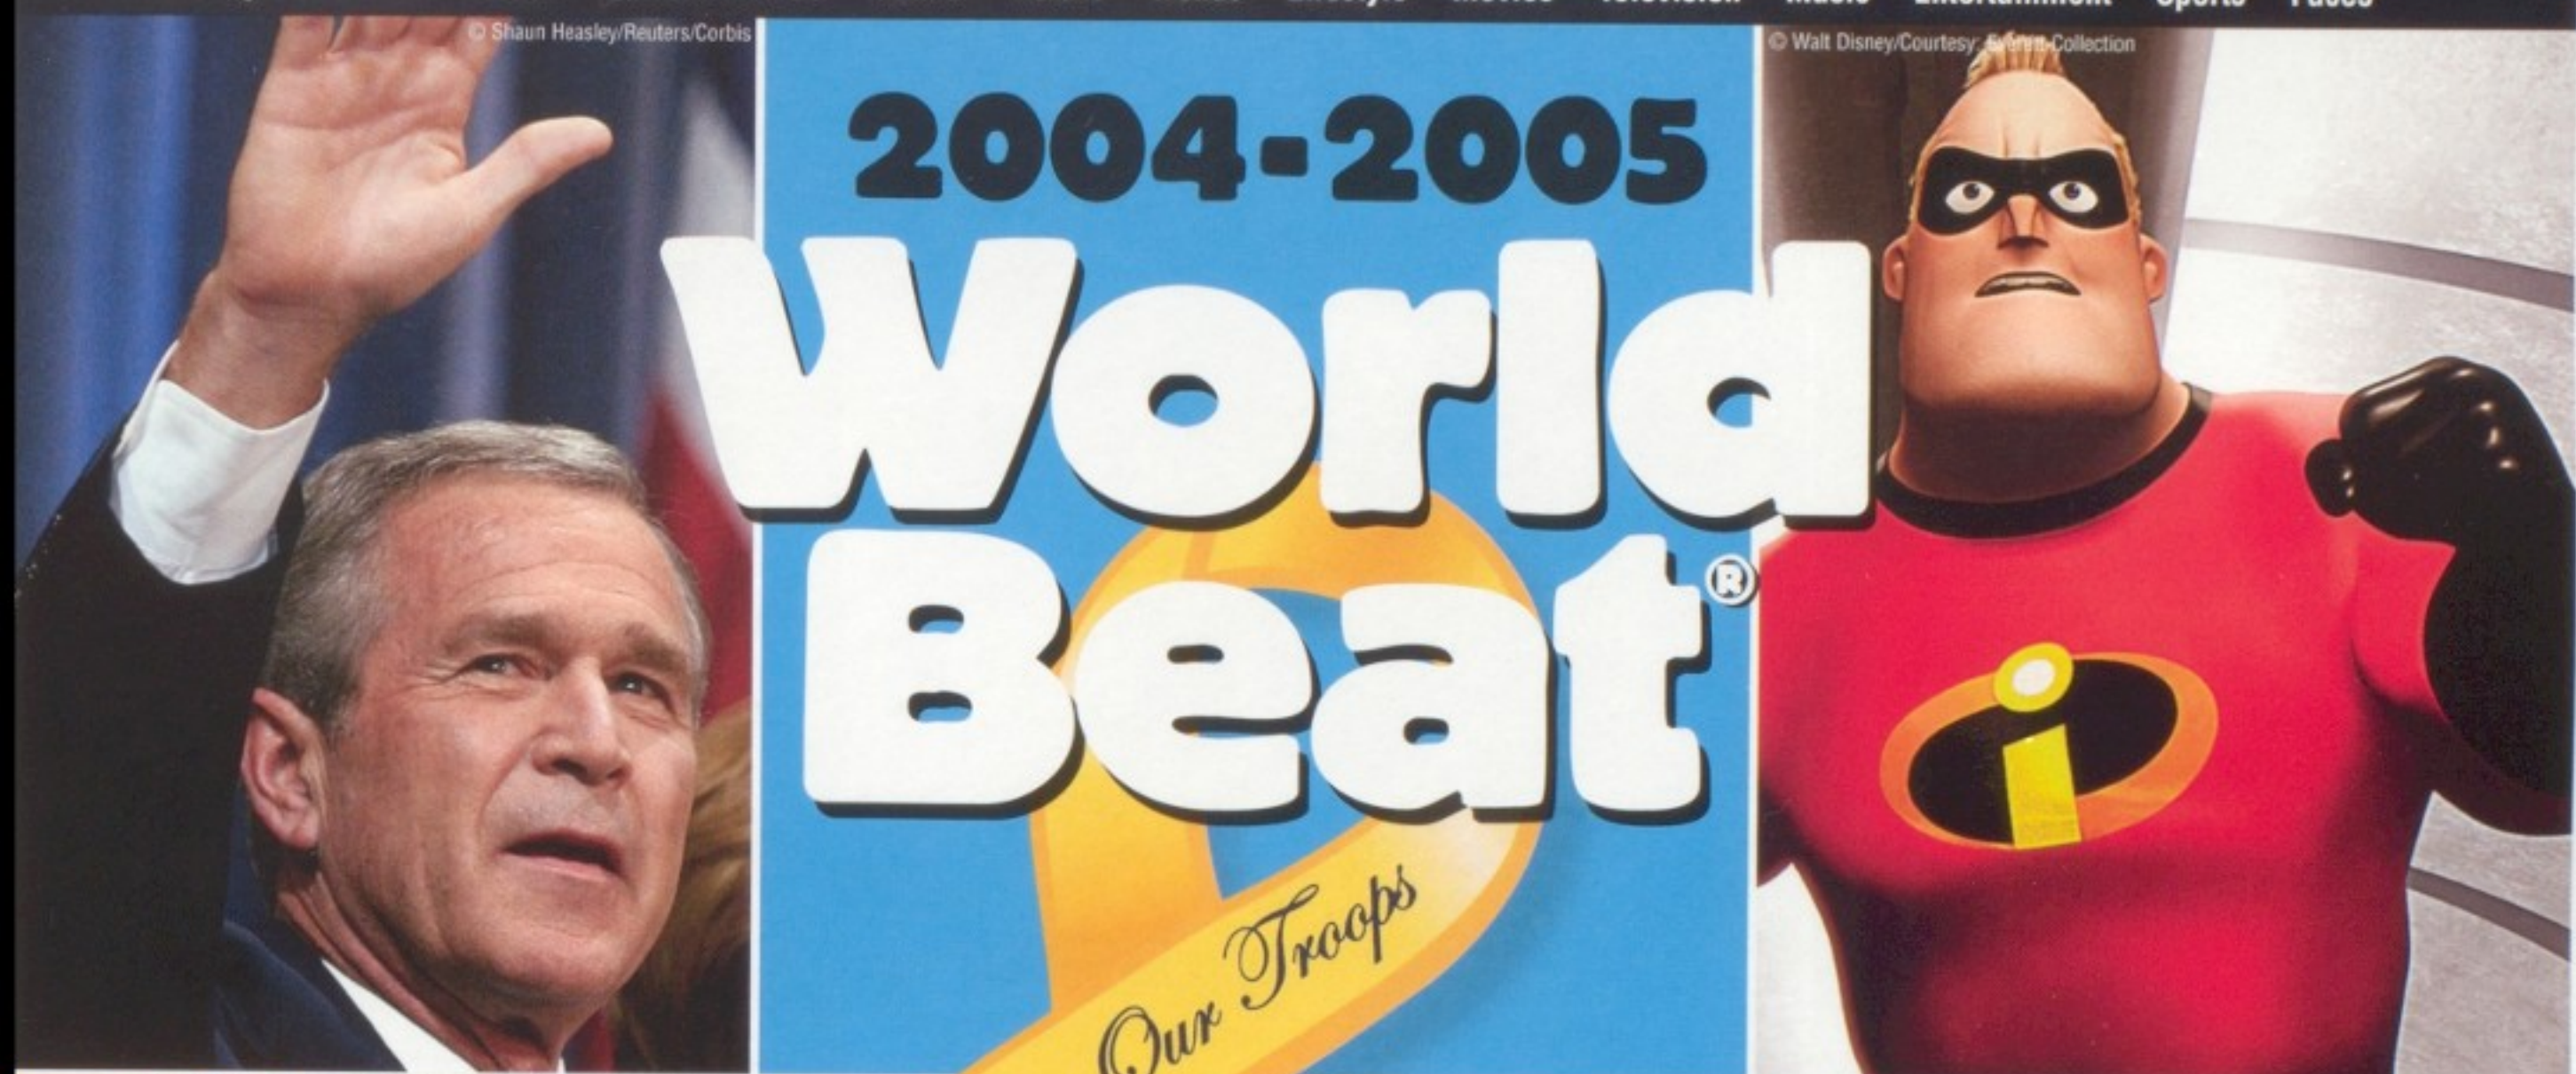

- Mary Vesco, Al Babb, Jeana Curtis, George Hardaway, Colleen Hoch, Kris Hackbusch and Stephanie Malia (the Reed Administrative team) for their support and understanding.
- The front office staff who routed all phone calls concerning yearbook.
- Cindy McDaniels for providing sports rosters every time we asked.
- Kathy Hughes for providing student rosters whenever we needed them.
- Mike at Camera Magic for providing pictures of homecoming, and several sports.
- Wallace Athletic Photography for providing several sports team photos.
- Life Touch Photography for making picture day and picture distribution so easy for us.
- Scott Westover for sharing his vast photography expertise with us.
- Karen Beasley for her support and help.
- Liz Walsh for being a great mentor and guiding Miss Briggs through her first year as a yearbook adviser.
- Derrik Osborne for setting up the computer lab, connecting the computers, fixing all of our crazy computer problems, offering advice about what equipment would make our lives easier in the future and for keeping Miss Briggs sane through it all.
- Jason Pierce for his dedication to making the transition between advisers and computer programs easy, for his encouragement and support during the late hours of deadline crunches, and for answering his phone when we called with problems.
- Maryanne Muller for her willingness to come to Nevada and take care of us when it was time for The Jasons to move on.
- And of course, the teachers, coaches and staff who were understanding of deadlines and allowed us to use their valuable class and practice time.
